Dealers fret over domino effect of NYC default

NEW YORK (AP) — Phones are ringing busily at City Hall with 14,000 suppliers from across the country calling to find out if financially hard-pressed New York will be able to pay for the $500 million worth of goods it has on order.

That doesn't count such capital items as $300 million worth of subway cars being built by the Pullman Co. in St. Louis.

"So far there's no panic, but there's an awful lot of anxiety," said a spokesman for the Municipal Services Administration.

Among the most anxious was Dave Koeppel of Airport Motors in the New York City borough of Queens. Koeppel has 25 Plymouth police cars on his lot waiting for delivery to the city and is unsure what to do since, he says, the city already owes him $1.5 million. The contract is worth $6 million a year.

"If we don't get paid, the car people in Michigan don't get paid and the glass people in Pittsburgh don't get paid and the tire people in Akron don't get paid and so forth," Koeppel said.

"But we got faith. We got faith the money will come from somewhere, because if it doesn't, an awful lot of people in an awful lot of towns are going to suffer."

Koeppel said this shipment at least will go through and added he's already used his own money to pay for them.

Thomas Cecil, president of Swift & Co. in Chicago, telephoned purchasing commissioner Robert I. Cohen the other day dunning him for a $605,000 unpaid food bill. Cohen said Cecil told him if the city doesn't pay the company would have to close a section employing 110 men, the largest single loss in the history of the meat packing firm.

"This thing is national in scope," Cohen said in an interview. "And it works two ways. If we can't pay the bills, they're not going to deliver. What are we going to do for water if we can't pay for the chemicals to purify it?"

The national scope of unpaid New York City bills was a major theme of a speech Mayor Abraham D. Beame prepared for the National Press Club in Washington today.

The city, meanwhile, is entering into no new contracts except short-term ones for such perishable items as fresh foods.

The city has already canceled $800 million in construction plans. Peter Brennan, president of the Building and Construction Trades Council, said this has put 16,000 men out of work in addition to the approximately 30,000 unemployed because of the drop in housing and office building.

There are about 100,000 construction workers here and Brennan stressed that many of them "live in Jersey, Nassau and other suburbs so the effect is wide."

The construction industry is in such a bad way, Cohen said, that when the city asked for bids on a $30,000 renovation job on a firehouse, it got 20 instead of the expected two, and three offered to do the work for less than the amount stated.

So far, Cohen said, the city has only had to cancel two minor contracts because the dealers wanted cash on the line.

They were for $8,700 for steel pipe with the Buffalo Tank division of Bethlehem Steel in Dunellen, N.J., and with a dealer of Ridgefield, N.J., for an $8,226 flat-bed truck made by the Birmingham Steel Co. in Springville, Ala.

Truck farmers from as far away as Iowa and Florida were reported among the most insistent callers. Some of them grow produce almost exclusively for the city.

As an example of the size of the business, New York buys $25 million worth of food annually for its hospitals and $50 million for schools. This doesn't count jails and other institutions supplied separately.

"Some of the smaller firms will go bankrupt if New York City goes bankrupt," Cohen said.

Many of the calls, he said, express anxiety not so much about the present situation but as to what would happen if the city defaulted.

He said, "They ask 'What if?' and all we can say is, 'Who knows?'"

City officials said big firms would not be hurt over-all, but sections devoted mostly to supplying New York would be.

Water bonds lose; will try again

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A $35 million water bond issue to distribute Northern California Water throughout the valley has been defeated at the polls with all nine communities rejecting it.

The complete unofficial count was 6,272 in favor and 9,510 against the proposal, a 60 per cent negative return. A 16 per cent turnout was reported, considerably more than expected.

Immediately after the votes were in, the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District, which sponsored the proposal, announced that the district will try again because "the water needs exist and must be filled."

According to the preliminary tallies, the defeat was general throughout the nine communities served by the PVMWD. It was led by Claremont where the opposition was strongly organized, but even Pomona failed to give an affirmative vote.

If the bond issue had passed, Pomona's water levy would have been cut by nearly 50 per cent because the city already has its own self-contained water distribution system.

A sampling of the returns from the 127 precincts showed Claremont against the bond issue on ratio ranging from 2-1 to 3-1, Pomona and Rowland Heights running about 55 per cent against it and Walnut, La Verne, San Dimas, Diamond Bar, Covina and Glendora generally maintaining the 60 per cent margin.

Local officials say the defeat of the water bonds may have been the first in the history of the valley.

Judy Wright of Claremont, president of the Claremont League of Women Voters, said the heavy turnout probably was a "protest vote, but I'd have to see the breakdown to be more definite."

The league was the only organization actively campaigning against the proposal. Mrs. Wright said the distribution system wasn't needed; the area already had enough water through the use of the Colorado River aqueduct of the Metropolitan Water District.

"Of course, we are delighted with our victory," she commented. "Our campaign was a low budget volunteer effort. I think the people have told the water district that the district can't practice the politics of intimidation. We hope that the district will now look at an alternative to the massive water project. The Claremont league would be glad to help out with a study of alternatives as well as a study of conservation measures."

But William C. Leech of Covina, president of the water district, insisted that the loss of the bond issue was "a costly loss to the community."

He said the rejection "not only raised the ultimate price of this project or some other alternative source of imported water, but it means that we must return to the citizens in the near future with another proposal. We really have no choice. The water needs exist and must be filled."

He said the complicated method of sharing the cost of the project, whereby each community paid only for what it needed, may have confused the voters.

Under that method, Pomona would have paid a four cent levy while other areas would have paid 35 cents or more per $100 of assessed valuation.

Clerk foils holdup, but is wounded

One clerk was wounded and a second escaped unhurt when they stymied an attempt by two men to rob the Top Hat Liquors Tuesday night in Pomona.

The wounded man, Keith Gary Olson, 22, was shot in one hand and one leg as he grappled with one of the two armed men at the store at 565 N. Dudley St. shortly before 10 o'clock. Another employe, Dennis Garrison, was unhurt in the incident.

Police gave this account:

Olson was working in the rear of the store when the two men entered and confronted him there. Olson grabbed one of them and they struggled. During the struggle the pistol the would-be robber had in his hand fired, wounding Olson in his left hand.

As Olson and the man fought, the second man fired a shot at Olson, which grazed his right leg. Then both mern turned and fled from the store. But as they left, one turned and fired a bullet through the front window of the store, but hit neither Olson, nor Garrison.

Olson was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital, where he was treated for his injuries and later released.

Both gunmen were described as Negroes in their early 20s. One, armed with a .38-caliber revolver, was 5 feet 9, weighing 150 to 190 pounds. He wore a light-colored jacket, dark trousers and had a mustache.

The two fled in a car left parked outside.

Sadat asks action for Palestinians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat called today on the United States to support the Palestinians' drive for their own nation and warned that "the aggrieved cannot be expected to wait long."

In a speech to a joint meeting of Congress, before ending a 10-day state visit, Sadat said that the United States is practically the sole dissenter in the long overdue trend of establishing contacts with the Palestinians.

Sadat said a continued neglect of the Palestinians' "despair and frustration" amounts to "an open invitation to violence, negativism and extremism." But a sympathetic stand by the United States would contribute greatly to peace in the Middle East, Sadat said.

"I trust that what I have been reiterating for years has become crystal clear today," the Egyptian leader said from the rostrum of the House, "namely that the Palestinian question is the heart and core of the entire dispute."

In his talk, Sadat steered clear of Egypt's support for a United Nations resolution to equate Zionism with racism and did not mention Israel or Jews directly. But he affirmed Islam's respect for "all peoples" and said he was not asking the United States to "abandon anyone or turn friends into enemies."

Sadat added: "We simply expected the United States not to condone expansion or tolerate aggression."

In winding up his visit, Sadat was expected to make a last pitch to President Ford at the White House in late-afternoon for long-range U.S. arms commitments.

Chino OKs $8.5 million bond issue for schools

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Despite an economic slump and controversy in the school district, voters in Chino approved an $8.5 million bond issue Tuesday by a better than two-thirds majority.

The issue, which needed two-thirds approval to pass, received 69.3 per cent "yes" votes. The tally was 1,937 yes, against 858 "no" votes, for a total of 2,795 ballots cast, and 30.7 per cent turnout of 8,815 registered voters.

Immediate effect of the approval is that 11 new classrooms will be added to Los Serranos Elementary School, and seven to Glenmeade School. The district also will purchase an elementary school site in the southwest area of Chino.

All elementary schools except Gird will be brought up to capacity in the planned six-year building program; Don Lugo High will be expanded to handle grades nine through 12; a new junior high site would be purchased in the southwest area; and a new elementary school will be built.

Schools Supt. Royce Lapp said this morning he was "very pleased" for the community that the bonds passed. "There was no doubt in my mind about the need for them."

"If they had failed the children would have suffered in years to come," he added.

Lapp warned, however, that the bond approval "still does not solve all of our building problems. "Every survey we take of building needs shows an increase over what we projected."

He indicated the district will have to put up temporary buildings in September while new ones are being constructed.

A runaway enrollment jump has been predicted for the growing Chino district, with 5,000 new pupils estimated by 1980, adding to the current enrollment of 10,000.

Gladys Briggs, president of Citizens for Improved Education (CIE), which opposed the bond issue privately, said today she was "pleased" that it passed. "In tough economic times, people proved they would pass bonds and build buildings."

Bonds should have been proposed before year-round school, she said. A major reason for YRS in the first place was need to conserve building space, she recalled.

Beame says Ford offered 'a cop-out'

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Mayor Abraham Beame accused President Ford today of offering "a cop-out, not a cure" for New York City's fiscal ills. He said the President's attacks on New York have "triggered hatred, disunity and confusion."

The mayor said Ford, in criticizing New York, ignored the city's budget-cutting record. He listed payroll deductions, halts in city construction and closings of municipal facilities. He promised further money-saving measures, including a change in the free university system's financing and more hospital closings.

The mayor made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery before the National Press Club, one day after the disclosure that state officials had come up with enough money to avert default next week.

Beame said that he sought federal guarantees of future loans, but no tax dollars, from the government.

Expect panel okay to extend tax cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee expects to give final approval Thursday to legislation that extends this year's income tax reductions but that liberals claim fails to make enough tax revisions.

A major item in the bill is a $12.7 billion plan to continue some 1975 personal income tax cuts into 1976. This amounts to an added $2.6 billion tax cut next year compared with the tax cuts already in effect this year. The current tax cuts expire at the end of 1975.

The committee is scheduled to give its formal approval to the bill Thursday with the goal of getting the legislation to the full House later this month.

President Ford has proposed a larger tax cut tied to a spending ceiling for the fiscal year starting next Oct. 1, and he has threatened to veto any tax cut that lacks a ceiling.

Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., defended the measure against liberal Democrats who claimed the panel watered down major tax revisions. Ullman said it is "still the most comprehensive tax reform bill we've had in a long time."

Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., one of the critics, complained that the committee "cut out a whale of a lot of revenue" during a marathon session late Tuesday. He contended that "the over-all impact of this bill is less than reform."

Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., told Ullman, "It may be reform in your book, Mr. Chairman, but it is not reform in my book."

When the committee began work Tuesday, the tax-revision features would have gained for the Treasury a net $1.3 billion for 1976, rising to $2.8 billion for 1981.

When work ended Tuesday night, the gain was down to $700 million for 1976 and would reach $1.8 billion for 1981.

The comittee voted 20 to 16 to cut back its planned attack on real estate tax shelters by $2.27 billion over the coming six years.

Persons using such shelters usually are those with substantial income outside the field involved.

Calley is target of death threats

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Phoenix and Tempe police tightened security today for former Army Lt. William Calley Jr., whose life was threatened in letters and a telephone call.

Calley, who was offered $2,000 to appear tonight at Arizona State University, was convicted in the 1968 My Lai massacre of Vietnamese civilians.

Letters received by The Associated Press and The Arizona Republic in Phoenix Tuesday identified Calley as the subject of a "death warrant" signed by the "Peoples Court, Symbionese Federation."

A telephone threat against Calley's life was received Monday by a university student who helped arrange the speech.

Upland voters reject tax measure

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

Upland school officials will have to reassess their educational programs after voters Tuesday rejected a tax measure that would have increased the average daily attendance revenue from $982 to $1,042 per unit.

If approved, the increase would have lasted four years and reaped the district about $360,000 annually or about $1.4 million for the duration.

But voters rejected the measure by a vote of 3,003 "no" and 1,899 "yes."

Glenn Hardy, the district's business manager, said the funds had been earmarked to maintain the present educational program. There were no plans to develop any new facilities.

What action now to be taken is up to the school board, he added. Board members have the option of doing nothing, reassessing their priorities, or scheduling another election next March, he said.

But unless more revenues are provided, some changes may be made in both educational programs and personnel. "We have no more money for deficit financing," said Hardy.

The district official reported the board had not yet settled salaries for employes this year.

At present, the district has 5,753 students attending nine elementary and two junior high schools.

Judge in Harris case removed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Superior Court Judge Homer H. Bell has been removed from the case of Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris by the state Court of Appeal.

Bell had been challenged Oct. 17 by Deputy Public Defender Edward Rucker, Harris' attorney, but the judge refused to remove himself from the case.

The appellate court found no prejudice or bias on the part of Bell, but said the defendants were entitled to one peremptory challenge to remove a judge without cause.

The Harrises — traveling companions of Patricia Hearst — are charged with kidnaping, robbery and assault with a deadly weapon stemming from an alleged series of crimes one day before the May shootout with police that left six other SLA members dead.

William Ritzi, the presiding criminal calender judge, is expected to name a new judge by Nov. 14, when another pretrial hearing is scheduled for the Harrises.

Leonard Weinglass, attorney for Mrs. Harris, had told newsmen that Bell was "the least acceptable judge to defense attorneys in all of Los Angeles County."

Weinglass asked Bell to disqualify himself because he was a member of the Elks, a club that excludes blacks.

Bell asked Weinglass, "Are you trying to say that any member of the Elks should be disqualified from being a judge?"

"In a case such as this, I would say yes," Weinglass said.

Bell, 63, has a reputation for toughness and recently told a newsman, "I'm kind of proud of it. But actually I don't think I am that tough. If you compared me with the judges of the 20s and 30s I'd be considered a very mild judge."

Bay voters clamp down on police, fire strikes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Franciscans struck back in the voting booth at the city's police and firemen who walked off their jobs last August in a demand for higher wages.

Voters on Tuesday overwhelmingly approved an ordinance prohibiting such strikes and requiring police and firemen to take a no-strike oath. The law further provides for dismissal of any officer who takes part in a walkout.

They also handed outgoing Mayor Joseph L. Alioto a stinging rebuke for the manner in which he handled the strike by stripping future mayors of the authority to declare a state of emergency without approval of a majority of the Board of Supervisors.

Alioto invoked such a declaration, thereby suspending the City Charter and rendering the supervisors powerless, and granted virtually all the strikers' salary demands.

The supervisors, unanimously angered by the mayor's action, placed three propositions on the ballot aimed at eliminating future strikes. All passed by landslide margins.

Two proposals tacked on the ballot by Alioto, one providing for arbitration in pay disputes, were soundly defeated.

Here is how the major propositions stood with 99 per cent of the vote counted:

—Prop. N, requiring majority support of supervisors before a mayor may declare a public emergency, approved 125,347-60,272.

—Prop. O, outlawing strikes by police and firefighters, approved 135,538-55,381.

—Prop. P, setting police and fire pay at the average in other departments in California cities of 350,000 persons or more, approved 128,141-63,579.

—Prop. R, making police-fire strikes illegal but providing arbitration on pay, defeated 119,640-70,865.

—Prop. S, a declaration of policy saying the city will pay its police and firemen as much as other major California cities, defeated 133,475-55,189.

Fromme fires lawyer, will defend herself

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Lynette Fromme, denied permission to change her plea from innocent to no contest, prepared today to argue her own case against the charge that she tried to kill President Ford.

Miss Fromme fired her court-appointed cocounsel Tuesday on the first day of her trial after U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride refused to accept the plea switch.

MacBride then told the 27-year-old defendant she could question witnesses herself and make her own opening and closing arguments with a "stand-by attorney" to advise her.

"I think she's foolish to try to represent herself," MacBride told Miss Fromme's cocounsel, John Virga. "But if she wants to do this it is certainly within her rights."

Miss Fromme is accused of attempting to kill Ford as he walked to the state Capitol Sept. 5. Officers say they took a loaded .45 caliber pistol away from Miss Fromme after she pointed it at the President from about two feet away.

MacBride ruled at a pretrial hearing that Miss Fromme could act as her own attorney, but he named Virga as her cocounsel. Virga had handled most of the case since then.

But shortly after jury selection began Tuesday morning, Miss Fromme rose from the defense table and approached MacBride's bench.

"Your honor, these people cannot judge me," she said of the potential jurors. "They can only judge themselves.

"My family judges me," she said, referring to her association with the Charles Manson clan.

After a pause, she told a stunned courtroom: "I find it necessary to change my plea to nolo contendre."

She did not elaborate on why she wanted to make the change, but her roommate and sister Manson follower, Sandra Good, told reporters:

"To go through the trial is just a farce. Society threw away the right to a fair trial" when Manson and four followers were convicted of murdering actress Sharon Tate and six other persons.

Miss Good said that Miss Fromme wanted to use her trial to give the Manson clan a chance to defend itself against the Tate slayings and wanted Manson to represent her.

It was not known if Miss Fromme had asked MacBride to allow Manson to take part in the trial.

MacBride and U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes both refused to accept the plea change. Keyes said he and the judge would have had to agree to the no contest plea before it would have been allowed.

"I don't think it's an appropriate plea in this case," Keyes said. "It's more easily challengeable later. She could say, 'at the time, I thought it was a different plea.'"

MacBride appointed Virga as Miss Fromme's standby counsel, but said that Virga could only advise her — not question witnesses or make arguments.

"You will not be permitted to rush to Miss Fromme's aid when she gets herself in trouble," the judge said.

MacBride said he would allow Miss Fromme to direct her own defense as long as she obeyed his rulings. He said he would have her removed from the courtroom if she did not, and turn her defense back over to Virga.

Other voting moods around the state

Three supporters of limited San Diego growth re-elected

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Three supporters of Mayor Pete Wilson's limited growth policy apparently won re-election Tuesday night in the municipal election.

With 42 per cent of the voting precincts reporting, incumbents Maureen O'Connor, Leon Williams and Jess Haro each held majorities over their opponents.

O'Connor held Lou Ridgeway with 48.7 per cent of the vote, 33,262 to 31,595. Their race was bitterly fought, centering on Ridgeway's charge that O'Connor had missed half the City Council meetings in the last year.

Williams easily outdistanced Jesse Albritten, garnering 60.7 per cent of the vote. Hart, meanwhile, won his first full term of office with 56.2 per cent of the vote against John Flowers.

Haro, appointed to fill a vacancy, is the first Mexican-American councilman in San Diego's history.

Ray Lussa held a slight edge over Tom Gade in the race for the fourth council seat. Lussa had 49.4 per cent of the vote, but less than a 1,000-vote lead, 31,612 to Gade's 30,865.

The two are vying for a seat vacated this year by Bob Martinet. Both are opponents of Wilson's belief in controlled growth for San Diego.

Liberal sheriff wins big in San Francisco contest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sheriff Richard Hongisto, whose liberal jail policies and inmate training programs drew strong criticism from his political opponents, has easily won a second four-year term.

Hongisto, 38, swamped police inspector Michael Nevin, who had been expected to offer a strong challenge to the colorful sheriff.

With 99 per cent of the vote tabulated, Hongisto had 96,143 to Nevin's 30,143. Three other candidates trailed.

Nevin, 32, Mayor Joseph Alioto's bodyguard and chauffeur, saw his campaign crippled last week when he was arrested and booked for investigation of voting in the city while living outside its limit.

Hongisto, who often displayed a peace symbol on his gold badge, was backed by the same coalition of youths, liberals, racial minorities and homosexuals who helped him turn a veteran sheriff out of office four years ago.

Liberal, conservative top field in Bay mayor's race

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A champion of liberalized marijuana and sex laws and a law-and-order county supervisor will face each other in the race to succeed Joseph L. Alioto as mayor of San Francisco.

State Sen. George Moscone and Supervisor John Barbagelata topped a field of 11 candidates Tuesday to win spots in a Dec. 11 runoff.

Dianne Feinstein, the preelection favorite, finished third in unofficial returns, failing in her second bid for mayor.

Moscone, the Democratic floor leader of the state Senate, was the runaway leader for mayor with 31 per cent of the vote.

Barbagelata, clearly the most conservative major candidate in the mayor's race, won 18 per cent of the vote to edge out Mrs. Feinstein, president of the board of supervisors.

A.L. backers of 3 R's school to press case

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Formal request for opening a fundamental school in Alta Loma will be presented trustees at the first January meeting, proponents of the plan said at a Tuesday night meeting.

Deanna Chodon, cochairman of the groups' steering committee, said backers of the basic "readin', writin' and 'rithmatic" school plan will present 1,000 signatures and 250 tabulated questionnaries to board members of Alta Loma Elementary School District at the January meeting.

Advocates want a choice for parents other than the present school system they describe as a cross between fundamental and open classroom concepts. Mrs. Chodon said members of Basic Academic Schools by Interested Citizens (BASIC) want a fundamental school, middle of the road school and open school offered parents of Alta Loma school children.

In fundamental schools, children are taught basic skills and phonics under a relatively strict disciplinary system. Discipline is less strict in middle of the road schools while in open classrooms students pace themselves and study what subjects they want with little discipline exercised.

BASIC members contend all three systems should be incorporated at Alta Loma giving parents a choice to place pupils in the school which suits them best.

Although several Alta Loma school trustees have attended one or more BASIC meetings, no official statement has been issued by the board.

Willard Craft, district administrator of Pasadena schools and organizer of the basic curriculum at Audubon School there, will be guest speaker at BASIC's Nov. 18 7 p.m. meeting in Cucamonga Library.

Audubon School was ordered closed by Federal District Judge Manuel Real last month. Real claimed the school violated his earlier racial balance ruling for that district. But the board in Pasadena appealed and the school will remain open until that case is decided in court.

Trial of suspect in prof's killing delayed

The murder trial of Manuel Mora, 23-year-old Pomonan charged also with nine other felony counts, has been continued to Feb. 9 in Pomona Superior Court.

The action occurred when Mora appeared for trial before Judge Philip K. Jones. The continuance was granted on a defense motion.

Mora is accused of murdering Cal Poly professor Dan Leon Miller, 33, during a burlgary of Miller's home at 1508 W. Orange Grove Ave. in Pomona May 31. He also is charged with the robbery and assault of Mrs. Lilly Simons, 83, who became paralyzed from the beating she suffered June 3 during a burglary of her home.

Other counts against the defendant include burglary and robbery. Ten additional charges against Mora were dismissed at his preliminary hearing in Pomona Municipal Court last August. The hearing, from Aug. 1 to Aug. 20, involved the testimony of 55 witnesses and the introudction of 126 exhibits.

Mora was on parole for a 1973 manslaughter conviction at the time of his latest arrest, authorities said.

3 counselors cut up; YTS ward jailed

A 19-year-old ward of the California Youth Authority is being held in San Bernardino County Jail by juvenile authorities after allegedly attacking four counselors at the Youth Training School in Chino with a piece of broken glass.

Three of four counselors suffered severe lacerations and required medical treatment at Chino General Hospital following the Sunday incident in the lockup unit of YTS where 57 of the most violent wards are held.

Charged with four counts of assault with a deadly weapon was Tony Moore, 19, committed to YTS from Los Angeles.

According to YTS authorities, Moore was one of a group of wards who began throwing burning bedding and other items inside of the lockup unit. Counselors Al Galvadon, 28; Gary Latawiec, 26; and Tom Marich, 24, were injured while attempting to quell the disturbance. Moore, according to authorities, attacked the officers with a broken piece of glass.

Last link in Pomona will open Thursday

The final link of the Pomona Freeway east of Ontario to Riverside is scheduled for opening on Thursday.

This will be the westbound lanes between Valley Way and Etiwanda Avenue. The eastbound lanes were opened last May.

Only two of the three westbound lanes will be opened initially to allow construction crews room to build an offramp at Pedley Road and on-and off-ramps at Pyrite Street, said Millard Maynard, engineer for the California Department of Transportation.

Westbound motorists wanting to exit at Pyrite Street will have to use the Valley Way exit for about six weeks while drainage and ramp work is completed.

The frontage road on the freeway's north side will also be opened for two-way local traffic on Thursday. This frontage road has been used as a detour for westbound traffic around construction.

Work on the 5½-mile, $10 million freeway segment began in July of 1974. It is now about 90 per cent complete. Officials plan to have it completed next January about three months ahead of schedule.

The Pomona Freeway's history dates back to 1965 when the first portion was opened in Los Angeles. It has then been opened in stages to the Riverside areas.

Walnut eyes future shock: school population boom within four years

An organizational meeting of a committee to study the future of secondary education in the Walnut School District will be held tonight at 7:30 in the Walnut High School choral music room. The committee will be known as FUSE.

About 45 will attend, including parents and other residents, representatives of county and city government, and representatives of the state Department of Education and the county Superintendent of Schools office.

The committee is being formed because of a projected increase in high school population within the district to 2,700 by September 1979 and eventually to a possible 5,000 students.

Tonight's meeting was announced Monday at a school board meeting.

Board members approved connecting valves for solar heating at the Walnut High School swimming pool.

Although a final decision hasn't been reached, the pool, now under construction, may become the first public plunge in the state to be heated by a solar unit.

William Davis, district architect, is making a precise analysis of solar heating requirements and costs.

The board approved acquisition of equipment for a course in computer programming at Walnut High School, and a conservation week for sixth graders of Collegewood Elementary School at Camp Colby next spring.

Giving up his job?—nobody's told Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today he has had no discussion with President Ford or anyone in the administration about giving up his job as secretary of state.

Asked to respond to reports that Ambassador Elliot Richardson is being groomed to succeed him, Kissinger said with a chuckle: "Certainly, nobody has told me."

Growing serious, Kissinger added: "I have had no discussion of any kind about leaving, with the President or with anyone in the administration. I can't answer for anyone else, but at least I can assure you that certainly nobody has told me that.

"I have had no discussions of any kind with the President or anyone."

At the White House, Deputy Press Secretary William Greener denied the reports that Richardson was being brought back to the United States in a move that eventually would put him in the State Department job.

"There isn't any opening and there isn't any anticipated," Greener declared.

Ford, in reshuffling his cabinet this week, announced he was bringing Richardson home from London, where he has been the ambassador to Britain, to head the Commerce Department. Richardson is a former under secretary of state.

Kissinger, meanwhile, relinquished his job as head of the National Security Council, which he has held since 1969. He remains secretary of state, which he has been since September, 1973.

Kissinger has given no apparent indication to intimates that he will not continue in the post at least through the 1976 presidential elections. However, at one point last year, when he became embroiled in a wiretapping controversy, he publicly threatened to quit unless his name was cleared. The controversy eventually subsided.

While emphaszing today in a telephone interview that he has not discussed quitting with Ford or with anyone else in the administration, Kissinger did leave himself a slight out.

"I don't want to nail myself to a position that I might want to change six months or two years from now," Kissinger said.

When he finally leaves office, Kissinger is known to be planning to move to New York to possibly teach and write.

In London, Richardson told reporters Tuesday that he had long ago made up his mind never to make plans for himself which depended on "a whole lot of contingencies beyond my control."

He added: "I do not spend much time thinking of next month or next year."

He was asked several times by newsmen to define his political ambitions — whether he wanted to become secretary of state, vice president or president.

He replied by stressing that he did not propose to indulge in speculation, but with a halfsmile he added:

"If I were in a situation where all I had to do was to press a button — one button I could be president, and the other button not — I would press the yes button."

However, Richardson said: "That does not tell you anything of what the situation is in the real world or what would be involved in a decision to run and so on."

Girl, 16, dies

Someone pulled the plug on respirator

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — The Nassau County medical examiner's office is investigating a report that a terminally ill and comatose 16-year-old girl died after someone turned off her life-preseving respirator and "pulled the plug out of the wall."

Also investigating the death of Mary Jane Dahl, a high school senior and honor student from the Long Island town of Selden, were the county police and the district attorney's office. The law enforcement authorities refused to speculate on the cause of the girl's death but said an investigation was proceeding "because of certain unusual facts surrounding the death."

The county medical examiner, Dr. Leslie Lukash, said he had been asked by officials of Nassau Hospital here to investigate the death. He said they told him a nurse had entered the intensive care unit where Mary Jane was kept when she heard an emergency buzzer which signaled that the respirator was not working.

The nurse found "the machine was turned off and the plug had been removed from the wall," Lukash said.

The physician said a preliminary autopsy "indicated that this girl was a dying girl, that she was in a terminal state." He did not suggest what the cause of death might have been.

Afflicted for several years with hodgkin's disease, Mary Jane entered the hospital Oct. 28. She also had contracted meningitis, an inflammation of the membranes eveloping the brain and spinal cord. Hodgkin's disease is characterized by progressive enlargement of the lymph glands, spleen, and liver and by progressive anemia. She was placed in the respirator after suffering convulsions and kidney failure, Lukash said.

Majorie Page, a teacher at Newfield High where the victim was to have graduated in June, said Mary Jane "was anxious to get into college. She wanted to go into medical research. She wanted to be a doctor and was interested primarily in research on hodgkin's disease.

The girl's parents could not be reached for comment.

Election roundup

By Associated Press

The strongest Republican challenge for the governorship of Mississippi in this century ended in a photo finish today and Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll survived an antibusing backlash threat in off-year elections. Women were elected lieutenant governors in the two states.

Democrat Cliff Finch was elected governor of Mississippi by overcoming the state's strongest Republican challenge this century.

With 1,751 of 2,133 Mississipi precincts counted in unofficial returns, Finch had 50.6 per cent of the votes, leading Republican Gil Carmichael 287,336 to 265,291. Black independent Henry Kirksey of Jackson trailed with 15,114.

The voters in both Kentucky and Mississippi picked women as lieutenant governors Tuesday. But the women's rights cause suffered a stunning setback when voters in New Jersey and New York rejected state versions of the federal Equal Rights Amendment.

With New York's fiscal problems on the minds of voters, a number of large bond issues lost, including a record $4.5 billion package in Ohio, $922 million in New Jersey and $250 million in New York.

The Democrats kept legislative control in four states: Kentucky, Mississippi, New Jersey and Virginia.

As is usual the year before a presidential election, Tuesday's widely scattered contests produced mixed results. There were no national trends and few surprises.

The state's lieutenant governor contest was more one-sided as Democrat Evelyn Gandy, 55, now insurance commissioner, whipped Republican Mayor Bill Patrick of Laurel.

In Kentucky, Democrat Carroll easily won a full four-year term in the post he inherited when his predecessor, Wendell Ford, went to the U.S. Senate. The 44-year-old Carroll, a Paducah attorney and racial moderate, piled up big margins in predominantly Democratic rural areas and held down Republican Robert Gable's expected big margins in the suburbs surrounding Louisville.

Both candidates had deplored the court-ordered busing that rocked that city this fall. But the anti-incumbent backlash feared by Carroll supporters never materialized.

In the lieutenant governor's race, Thelma Stovall, 56, now secretary of state, defeated her male Republican opponent, businessman Shirley Palmer-Ball.

In the day's major municipal contests, winners included Mayors Kevin H. White of Boston, Ralph Perk of Cleveland, Frank Rizzo of Philadelphia, William Donald Schaefer of Baltimore and Maurice Ferre of Miami.

In the only major surprise, Democratic Mayor Albert Hofstede of Minneapolis was unseated by the man he had beaten two years earlier, policeman and former Mayor Charles Stenvig.

In Boston, the 46-year-old White won a third term over state Sen. Joseph Timilty, 37, by about 7,500 votes out of some 150,000 cast.

As in Kentucky, the two candidates took roughly similar positions on the local busing controversy, criticizing the court-ordered plan while urging that the law be obeyed.

In other large cities, Mayor Fred Hofheinz led four rivals in Houston but failed to get 50 per cent and will vie in a runoff against his closest challenger, former Harris County Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe.

In San Francisco, state Sen. George Moscone led an 11-candidate field, clinching a spot in the Dec. 11 runoff. Pre-election favorite Dianne Feinstein, president of the county board of supervisors, was running slightly behind Supervisor John Barbagelata for a spot in the runoff against Moscone.

In Indianapolis, Republican William Hudnut, a former congressman, defeated Democratic businessman Robert Welch for the post now held by retiring GOP Mayor Richard G. Lugar.

In Gary, black mayor Richard G. Hatcher won another term.

Rizzo, Schaefer and Ferre all scored one-sided wins, while Perk, a white Republican, won by more than expected against Arnold Pinkney, a black Democrat, in Cleveland's nonpartisan election.

In Ohio, the $4.5 billion bond package proposed by Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes to revitalize the state's economy lost by a 4 to 1 margin. "The people of Ohio have spoken, and I will abide by their decision," Rhodes said.

In New Jersey, Democratic Gov. Brendan Byrne blamed "President Ford's harsh treatment of the New York problem" for the rejection of $922 million in bond issues.

The New York and New Jersey votes against state equal rights proposals, meanwhile, were seen as a major blow to hopes for ratification of a national equal rights amendment.

Domestic auto sales hottest in 17 months

DETROIT (AP) — Domestic car sales in October were the strongest in 17 months, outpacing the recession levels of last year by 23 per cent and holding imports to their smallest share of the new-car market in two years.

Meanwhile, Japan's Toyota ended Volkswagen's 20-year reign as the king of imported cars. Toyota outsold VW by 8,000 cars in October to take a 5,000-unit sales lead over the West German import through the first 10 months of the year.

All four U.S. manufacturers on Tuesday reported sales gains from October 1974, when the recession and record price increases sent new-car sales falling to their lowest October levels since 1964.

General Motors was up 27 per cent, Ford 21 per cent, Chrysler 7 per cent and American Motors 55 per cent.

Domestic sales of 773,623 were up from 627,521 a year ago to give the industry its best performance since May 1974. October traditionally is one of the industry's strongest selling months because of new-model introductions.

The rise from October 1974 marked the first year-to-year sales gain for a month since November 1973.

Sales of imports — weakened in part of a flock of small, low-priced and fuel-efficient cars introduced by Detroit this fall — fell an estimated 10 per cent from October 1974.

With some foreign makers still to report their results, October import sales were estimated at 116,000, compared with 128,400 a year ago, when the predominantly small foreign cars were benefiting from consumer fears over rising gas prices and another fuel shortage.

It dropped the import share of the market to about 13 per cent, compared with a 17 per cent share a year ago and a record 20 per cent share through the first nine months of this year.

Total U.S. car sales for the month, including imports, were estimated at 890,000, up 18 per cent from 756,000 last year.

Analysts said the domestic sales increase was a further sign of the industry's gradual recovery from its worst slump in 40 years. But they noted the sharp gain was more a reflection of poor sales last year than of current strength.

Frustrated Rocky 'just got fed up,' source discloses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, said by Republican sources to have withdrawn as President Ford's possible running mate because of widening disagreements on policy, today called a news conference for Thursday.

Rockefeller's spokesman, John Mulliken, gave no details about any statement the vice president might make. Mulliken said Rockefeller would answer questions in the Executive Office Buiding conference room that the President frequently uses for his news conferences.

Mulliken said Rockefeller's news conference would begin at 10 a.m. EST.

The Republican sources said Rockefeller was increasingly frustrated bcause his advice on programs was being ignored and his political future was in doubt.

"He just got fed up," one source said. "He finally got to the point where he couldn't take it any more."

Meanwhile, there were these other developments following the personnel shuffle in the Ford administration:

—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., says Rockefeller's withdrawal should lead Ronald Reagan to "reassess" his plans to challenge Ford. Goldwater said the withdrawal makes a dent in Reagan's prospects of mounting a successful campaign against Ford.

—House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona said the GOP could be further divided, rather than unified, by Rockefeller's decision to withdraw. He said it isn't apparent that Ford made any friends on the conservative side of the party and he may have lost some of the moderate and liberal side.

—A source close to the White House said Schlesinger's firing was prompted by his outspoken criticism of a House panel that slashed his defense budget. The source also confirmed that Ford's advisers told the President there was a personality conflict between Schlesinger and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and that concern was expressed that the administration was not speaking with one voice.

Explanations of the Vice President's unexpected move began to surface Tuesday though Rockefeller and his top aides maintained a stony silence, saying they were standing behind the letter he delivered Monday to Ford at the White House.

Some sources noted that Rockefeller's letter was far more restrained than the Vice President's often effusive statements about Ford. They noted that the President, when asked if he had tried to talk Rockefeller out of withdrawing, merely said he "accepted" the decision.

Pair rob 4 men in Upland apartment

Two men, one armed with a handgun, forced their way into an Upland apartment early this morning and robbed four men of a color television, macrame hanger ropes and a jewelry box, according to Upland police.

The incident was reported this morning by the victims, Daniel Poddell, 23; Walter Metzger, 42; Raul Valizan, 18; and a 15-year-old youth all of Nebraska. The four told police they were staying with the apartment tenant, William Dean Mooney, who was away at the time.

The men said one of the robbers knocked on the door and asked for Mooney. When the man was told Mooney was not at home he left, returning a few minutes later with another man armed with a handgun. The four were ordered back into a bedroom while the robbers ransacked the apartment.

The robbers were described as Caucasians, in their early 20s. One of the men was wearing a red shirt, blue jeans, and a plaid red jacket. The gunman was wearing a green fatigue shirt, blue jeans, and a silver cross earring in his left ear.

Police today were attempting to locate the car of an 88-year-old POMONA man which was stolen Sunday evening from a carport at the rear of his residence.

The victim, Edward E. Premereur, 1360 W. Third St., said he found the cream-colored, 1965 Buick Skylark two-door sedan missing at 6:30 p.m. He said he had locked it before leaving it parked. The car bore 1975 California license number 429 KHC, police said.

No frills in Ford visit to China

WASHINGTON (AP) — China has sent word to President Ford that his four-day visit next month will be without frills and will be conducted in a businesslike manner, sources say.

Ford's four-day stay in Peking will start Dec. 1.

Objections to new CIA chief: he's a politician

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many past and present intelligence officials appear disappointed with President Ford's choice of George Bush to succeed William E. Colby as head of the CIA.

"It's unfortunate that Mr. Bush has a political background and is a potential contender for higher office," Lyman Kirkpatrick, former No. 3 man at the CIA, said Tuesday in a telephone interview.

"It's not the kind of thing they had hoped for," another former official said when asked about the feelings of those still in the CIA.

A source inside the CIA summed up objections to Bush, now U.S. ambassador in Peking, this way, "Bush is a man who ran for the Senate and lost, the appointed head of a political party — that's not the best credentials."

Bush ran unsuccessfully against Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., in 1970 and headed the Republican National Committee during the second Nixon administration.

However, former CIA director John A. McCone, who headed the agency in the early 1960s, said he has "a high opinion" of Bush," predicting he will "do a good job and get the full support of the organization."

Another former high ranking intelligence official said Bush's close association with President Ford was regarded as a plus. A director's ability "has to do with how close he is to the president," the former official explained. "When it's close, it's good."

Criticism of Bush centered on his political background, not his performance as ambassador to the U.N. or to China.

"We really haven't had a politician in there before," said Kirkpatrick, now a professor at Brown University. "It seems almost inevitable that Mr. Bush isn't there for a career, so probably in another two or three years there will be another change."

Chairman Frank Church of the Senate intelligence committee said, "It used to be the custom of presidents to appoint former chairmen of political parties postmaster general. President Ford has turned that custom on its head and appointed a chairman of the Republican committee to the least political and most sensitive agency."

Church's comments were echoed by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who said that "any CIA nominee should be completely free of political activities in his background." Proxmire, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said that "one of the main lessons of Watergate was that the CIA director must not be susceptible to political pressures."

FedMart to open store

Julius Jones has been named manager of the FedMart store at Mountain Avenue and Fifth Street in Ontario which will open on Thursday.

Other managerial appointments in Ontario include administrative managers, Bruce Taylor, Rod Blamers and Steve Luder; softlines managers, Sebbin Hopkins and Steve Colum; food and sundries manager, Phil Wilson; hardline manager, Ron Baker; building materials manager, Dennis Jones; nursery manager, Tim Nolan; auto center manager, Rudy Gonzales; and major appliances and furniture manager, Gordon Barry.

These appointments were announced by John Carlson, vice president of store operations for the California division. He also reported that Dick DiCerchio, a 14-year veteran with the merchandising chain, was named group manager for the Ontario and San Bernardino stores.

The Ontario store will be open to the public with no membership required. FedMart presently operates 44 stores in four southwest states. This includes 22 in California.

Both the Ontario and San Bernardino stores will have about 150,000 square feet of floor space. Carlson said the stores will operate under the company's basic philosophy of small profit — high volume pricing.

Both stores will be open from 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays; 9:30 to 6 p.m. on Saturdays and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Kissinger holding 1 of his two hats in hand?

WASHINGTON (AP) — By doffing one of his two hats, Henry A. Kissinger may be able to mute the criticism that his power transcends acceptable bounds.

But there is a separate question of whether he really is giving up power by quitting as director of the National Security Council while remaining secretary of state and being succeeded at NSC by Lt. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, Kissinger's long-time protege.

President Ford told a news conference Monday night that Kissinger "will have the dominant role in foreign policy."

But Ford also made clear that "there will be closer liaison and cooperation" at the top level when Donald Rumsfeld moves in as secretary of defense and George Bush becomes director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Ford, obviously defending his decisions, said Scowcroft has "an independent mind."

In the foreign affairs field, at least, Ford evidently will be listening to Rumsfeld and Bush as well as Kissinger.

As for the change at the NSC, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., probably Kissinger's most persistent critic in Congress, said of Scowcroft's promotion, "It's a change without a difference."

Jackson added, "Despite the appearances, Kissinger will retain full control of the National Security Council."

"The general is Kissinger's man," said Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill. "The change is only symbolic."

Last May, Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr., D-Tex., introduced a bill that would have prohibited one person from holding simultaneously the jobs of secretary of state and NSC director. Legally, it could not have applied to Kissinger, the incumbent. But Bentsen attached a provision urging Ford to strip Kissinger of one of his jobs.

"Today's diplomacy is too complex to be left in the hands of one man," Bentsen argued, "and it's too dangerous."

Although Kissinger is stepping down at NSC, Bentsen remains dissatisfied.

"I don't think anyone is fooled by Kissinger's offer to step aside in favor of his longtime security council deputy," Bentsen said. "It's a mistake for one man to wear the top hat of the State Department and the steel helmet of National Security Council chief."

Bentsen said he would push his bill to separate the two jobs.

"The man is obviously dominating the entire Cabinet, and I think there is too much concentration of power here," Bentsen said.

Actually, Kissinger was accused of unprecedented assumption of power when the NSC directorship was the only hat he officially wore.

From his office in the White House, he managed former President Richard

Court upholds mandatory 65 retirement age

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, scheduled this winter to review mandatory retirement laws covering public employes, has upheld without comment a lower court decision that a Louisiana retirement law is constitutional.

While lawyers and judges are divided over how much weight to give to such summary affirmances by the court, the Supreme Court action in a case involving the Louisiana law held little comfort for opponents of mandatory retirement.

"It doesn't look good," said Howard Eglit, a Chicago attorney involved in a challenge to a similar law in Massachusetts. In the Massachusetts case, a three-judge federal court struck down the law and the state has appealed.

The high court has agreed to hear the state's appeal this winter.

In cases in which lower courts have upheld such laws, the Supreme Court has either affirmed without a hearing or let the decision stand without acting on it.

The ruling adopted a finding by a three-judge court in New Orleans upholding Louisiana's mandatory retirement age of 65 for public employes.

The lower court said the law is "fairly and substantially related to the state's valid economic objective of maintaining an efficient, vigorous and healthy civil service and establishing a feasible system for promotions of younger employes."

In other actions, the court:

—Agreed to review the president's power to impose license fees on oil imports to encourage domestic production and cut consumption.

—Agreed to review a lower court decision that white employes may not sue on the same basis as blacks for relief from job discrimination.

—Agreed to consider the power of states to tax property on federally recognized Indian reservations.

The retirement law was challenged by Mary Young Cannon, chairman of the Louisiana State Retirement System. Mrs. Cannon was required to retire in 1974 as an accounting supervisor at Charity Hospital in New Orleans because she was 65.

"The nation should take advantage of all the skill, wisdom, moral judgment, experience and sense of good values that are available," Mrs. Cannon told the court. "Age may be no more a reasonable basis for discrimination than race, national origin or citizenship."

The court's action was in a brief, unsigned order with no vote announced. Justice William O. Douglas did not participate in the decision. He missed the conference last Friday at which the case was discussed.

Douglas returned to the bench Monday after a brief hospitalization for what was described as a slight fever. He entered Walter Reed Army Hospital last Wednesday and was released Saturday.

Coyotes said thriving in urban environments

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Far from being threatened by the encroachment of man, the coyote is surviving and even flourishing in urban environments, says a wildlife researcher.

In fact, it's man more than the coyote who is being threatened, said Donald Balser of the Wildlife Research Center in Denver.

Balser said recently that the wild doglike predator is learning how to forage along the edges of populated areas and is growing in numbers.

"The animal has a tremendous adaptability to the urban environment," he told the annual conference of the American Humane Association.

"Coyotes are much more numerous now than they were a hundred years ago."

Long a hated livestock killer to ranchers, the coyote has made himself a nuisance to city dwellers by killing pets, mainly small dogs and cats, said Balser. And despite an $8 million federal control program which kills 74,000 of them annually, their numbers are still swelling.

"Studies show there was a 10 per cent increase in the population just last year in the Western states," Balser said.

General quits because of Schlesinger ouster

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Daniel O. Graham said Tuesday he is retiring as head of the Defense Intelligence Agency because "I'm a Schlesinger man."

Graham said he reached his decision Sunday night after hearing news reports that James R. Schlesinger had been ousted as secretary of defense. President Ford announced Schlesinger's removal Monday night.

"Nobody asked me to retire," Graham said in an interview. "I'm not the victim of any housecleaning."

He said the DIA has not come in for any major criticism in the course of House and Senate probes of misdeeds by the Central Intelligence Agency and other government intelligence organizations.

"It's rather dullsville over here," he said. "I don't have any covert operations or espionage."

The 50-year-old Army general, a long-time intelligence specialist, said, "I just have great loyalty to Dr. Schlesinger and also to (CIA Director) Bill Colby." William Colby also was removed from office.

Graham said Schlesinger "took me out to the CIA" when Schlesinger headed the intelligence agency in 1973 and later "he brought me into this job," as defense intelligence director.

Meanwhile, it was learned that assistant secretary of Defense Robert Ellsworth is resigning. Sources said Ellsworth, who heads the Pentagon office dealing with international affairs, including arms sales, had decided to leave some weeks ago.

Graham said, "I was dumbfounded" when he heard Schlesinger was being fired. "I knew he had some tough fights over the military budget and he is very straightforward in the way he expresses himself," the general said. "But I had no idea he was in danger."

M. Nixon's detente policy with the Soviet Union, accommodation with Communist China and the negotiated withdrawal of the United States from the Vietnam war.

Although William P. Rogers held the title of secretary of state for 4½ years, Kissinger generally was regarded to be in control of conducting foreign policy.

The criticism grew when he succeeded Rogers at the State Department in September 1973.

Stevenson accused Kissinger of "vest-pocket diplomacy" and said in a speech in Jersey City last February that Kissinger held more power "than any man could wisely exercise."

Ford, asked in April whether Kissinger should give up one of his jobs, replied, "If you were to draw a chart I think you might make a good argument that the job ought to be divided. On the other hand, sometimes in government you get unique individuals who can very successfully handle a combination of jobs like Secretary Kissinger is doing today....

"If you get that kind of a person you ought to take advantage of that capability. Therefore, under the current circumstances, I would not recommend nor would I want a division of these two responsibilities."

Kissinger, fielding the same question in May, said, "If there is an individual who can handle both jobs and has the confidence of the President, the President should have the option of combining it (both jobs). He should not be forced to either combine it or separate it. He should have that option."

In July, Ford said the country was fortunate to have Kissinger as secretary of state and that he could stay as long as he wanted it.

"I couldn't be more pleased with our relationship or the job he is doing as head of the National Security Council or as secretary of state," Ford said.

Security tightened after SLA threats on Calley's life

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Security plans for Lt. William Calley's appearance at Arizona State University were beefed up today following threats against his life from persons claiming to be affiliated with the Symbionese Liberation Army.

One threat was made in an anonymous telephone call to a student at ASU and the other threats were made in identical copies of letters received Tuesday by The Associated Press and The Arizona Republic newspaper in nearby Phoenix.

"We can't take it lightly or we wouldn't be doing our jobs," Phoenix Police Sgt. Allen C. McKinzie said of the threats.

"Frankly, we don't know of any SLA members in Phoenix" and therefore "we can't make an educated guess" about the authenticity of the letters "because we have no point of reference," McKinzie said.

He said there would be extra security at Sky Harbor Airport when Calley arrives Wednesday afternoon as well as beefed-up security for Calley's speaking appearance at 8 p.m. in Grady Gammage Auditorium.

Lt. Theo Nielson of the university police department also said there will be "additional security officers around" for Calley's speech.

A male caller made the threat against Calley about 5 p.m. Monday in what "sounded like a tape recording," Nielson said. "The caller said he was from the Symbionese Liberation Army. He said that a death warrant had been issued for Lt. Calley."

Nielson said the call was made "to a student working at the university" whom he would not identify.

Tuesday morning, the AP received an envelope with a Phoenix postmark containing what appeared to be a machine copy of a letter. The typed letter, signed "Peoples Court, Symbionese Federation," also said a "Death Warrent" (sic) had been issued for Calley because of his involvement in the My Lai massacre.

"He will face the justice of the people in Tempe on Nov. 5, 1975. Means of execution to be determined by the people; as swift and merciful as possible..."

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified of and furnished with copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

LUXURY CELL — Jerry Stuckey, center, and Danny Hampton, right smoke cigars and watch TV in a room at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis. Deputy Sheriff Eugene Frison guards the two prisoners during their overnight stay at the luxury hotel after they were denied entry into the workhouse because of the shortage of jail space in Missouri.

Prowler shooting

Justifiable killing—jury

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A friend of James Rice cheered after a coroner's jury ruled that the unemployed auto mechanic was justified in killing an unarmed prowler.

"We'll have a case of beer waiting for him," said the friend.

The six-man jury concluded Monday that Rice, 30, used justifiable force in the Oct. 27 shooting death of Ralph Boyce, 38. Rice had been held without bond on a police charge of first-degree murder.

The case represented the first test of a new Florida law which says "the use of deadly force is justifiable when a person is resisting any attempt ... to commit any felony upon him or upon or in any dwelling house in which such person shall be."

In freeing Rice, the jury said it believed Boyce entered the dilapidated house to commit a burglary, which would be a felony, and not simply to trespass, a misdemeanor. Rice was guarding the house for a friend.

Except for Boyce's intent, the facts in the case were not in dispute.

In a statement read to the jury, Rice said he watched from hiding as Boyce circled the house before climbing in a window.

Rice said he confronted Boyce and opened fire as the prowler turned to flee.

"I saw him from the kitchen," Rice said in the statement. "I came in and shot him.

Overcrowding puts prisoners in hotel

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Police have been thwarted in their attempts to evict the St. Louis County Sheriff, two of his deputies and two convicted thieves from a luxury hotel, officials said.

Sheriff Raymond Percich, who apparently was attempting to dramatize the shortage of cell space at the city's jail and workhouse, checked the prisoners, Jerry Stuckey and Danny Hampton, into the Chase-Park Plaza hotel after they were refused entry into the workhouse because of overcrowding.

The shortage of space in the city's facilities has recently forced Percich to house city prisoners in jails all over Missouri.

The shortage was made even more critical when a federal judge earlier this year limited the city jail population to 228 prisoners because of crowded conditions.

The hotel, apparently misunderstanding, called police and reported that two men in shackles had been taken to a room.

Police went to the room with guns drawn Monday night and ordered those inside to come out with their hands up.

Percich, whose deputies also had their guns drawn inside the room, told the officers to leave and that they were interfering with the sheriff's business.

The police withdrew, officials said, and conferred with hotel management, telling the hotel operators that there was nothing illegal in holding the prisoners there and that a court order was needed to evict them. The hotel said such an order was being sought.

Meanwhile, the sheriff said, the city will have to pay the $56 bill for lodging the prisoners and the deputies in the hotel, plus a bill of $32 dollars for lobster dinners for six.

America evaluates business, financial and political institutions

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — America seems to be doing some very basic research into, among other things, the nature of its business, financial and political institutions, and appears to be in a mood to redefine and reconstruct them.

The process already is under way and, if you believe that pollsters accurately reveal the mind of the people, that process is likely to continue, painful though it sometimes is.

We are seeking to clarify the duties of city, state and federal governments, asking ourselves if business should assume added social responsibilities, wondering if we should dissolve the big stock exchange and, in the interests of fairness, replace them with electronic computers.

These are only a few of the issues. We are asking some similar questions about our personal finances. We made great material advances during the 1960s, but we got inflation and pollution.

"Is this the good life?" we ask.

Following a huge increase in debt during the past decade or so, fiscal integrity is now much on the minds of people.

One pollster reports that many of those interviewed last week were volunteering that "we have to practice financial common sense in our family, so let the governments practice it too."

You can always spot cycle and trends and trends within trends if you look long enough at charts or statistics or other masses of evidence. Analysts do it all the time in the stock market and make a good living at it.

You must be careful, however, that you aren't just spotting chance designs, as many a stock analyst does, but, instead, something of significance. It may take the perspective of history to reveal the pattern of the 1970s, but this much now seems certain:

Like it or not, a time of reckoning seems to have been resented. It isn't so much that the tough questions were asked but that events left little choice but to come up with answers to questions we have hidden from.

Perhaps most pressing at the moment is the question of determining the responsibilities to each other of city, state and federal governments, a consideration presented in acute dimensions by the New York City financial mess.

Involved in this argument are many other issues — who pays for welfare, can economic society continue to satisfy the rising aspirations of people, should bondholders continue to have primary right to repayment?

We are also asking ourselves about what role business and financial institutions must play, not just in relation to New York City but in regard to the entire American society.

Should industry take on more social responsibilities? Should it seek to impose its own morality on a foreign society in which it operates or should it accept the mores of that society, no matter how abhorrent it is?

Have some corporations become so large and important that they must be considered public assets rather than the property of the individual shareowners? Have they become so multinational as to dictate foreign policy?

Must they be subject to greater restraints in the national interest? Or should some of the existing regulations be removed to permit them greater freedom and, we are told, to offer more efficient service?

Deregulation of business is likely to be an important part of President Ford's election campaign but, relatively unpublicized, the issue has long been debated in governmental and academic circles.

All these matters now are being considered. We didn't seek them out — in fact, we even tried to deny their existence. But procrastination inevitably leads to a day of reckoning and, with luck, insight and determination, to solutions.

Chinese termed peaceful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The People's Republic of China seems to have peaceful intentions toward the outside world for the present, but some factors could cause future conflicts, a group of congressmen reports.

A report issued by a bipartisan group of four senators and three House members who visited China in August said, "Sino-Soviet tensions and Peking's continued commitments to revolution and to the Communist cause in Korea could bring China into future conflicts."

The report, issued Sunday, summed up the visit by Sens. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.; Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.; Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., and Reps. Paul Findley, R-Ill.; Margaret M. Hechler, R-Mass., and Paul McCloskey Jr., R-Calif.

"The PRC (China) appears to be concentrating on domestic priorities now, but if in the future it feels militarily threatened, we can expect it to react as it did in Korea in the 1950's," the delegation reported to the Senate Foreign Relations and the House International Relations committees.

China supports a unified Korea and its leaders contend it can be accomplished peacefully, the report said.

"Throughout our visit we emphasized U.S. treaty relations with South Korea and the importance of both the United States and the PRC exercising restraining influences to prevent hostilities erupting on the Korean Peninsula," it added.

The delegation said China clearly considers the Soviet Union its principal adversary, but the danger of a Soviet attack is not considered very great at the moment.

"If the Soviet troops should launch an attack on China, we were told, they would have to be prepared to fight for at least two decades," the report said.

The United States obtained western Minnesota through the Louisiana Purchase in 1803.

RADIATOR CAPS NEED CARE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There is a trick to safely removing the radiator cap from an overheated engine. After the engine has cooled off, protect your hands with rags, avert your face and turn the cap just until the steam escapes. When hissing stops, advises the National Automobile Club, you can remove the cap completely, start the engine and very slowly add water.

Chino voices rail against annexation bid

Fear 'big city' development will overrun rural setting

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

One of those struggles between farmers and "big city" developers was fought in Chino Tuesday night, with the farmers winning the round.

Faced with one of the largest crowds at a City Council meeting in recent months — the majority protesting a proposed annexation in north Chino — councilmen rejected the annexation request.

Heeding the wishes of area residents favoring a rural atmosphere, the council denied a 105-acre annexation on the west side of Benson Avenue, stretching from 660 feet south of Philadephia Avenue to 1,880 feet north of Francis Avenue.

Councilmen agreed with residents who asked the matter be deferred until a master plan of the north Chino area is completed. City and San Bernardino County officials are in the process of developing a plan for the area north of the city limits.

Mabel E. Bower and Mary C. Guera, who own 60 acres north of Francis Avenue, had petitioned for the annexation. City officials made it clear they now could petition the county's Local Agency Formation Commission.

County supervisors had imposed a moratorium on annexations in the area until the master plan was finished. But the council went on record last Sept. 2 opposing a holdup on annexations.

It was clear from the residents' arguments Tuesday that they feared single-family home development in an area that currently is largely agricultural.

One option offered by city officials was to approve the annexation with R-1 (single family) zoning applied; and another was to keep the present zoning with a possible change in the future.

Jim Lepard, a real estate broker representing Mrs. Bower, told the council the owner is elderly and wants to "dispose" of her property. "She didn't know this would cause Chino any problems."

About 35 residents in the audience clearly were opposed to Mrs. Bower's wishes, fearing she would sell her land to a developer.

Paul Gans, spokesman for the North Chino Homeowners Assn., said he represented 3,500 homeowners "who have been working on a plan for the area."

He said residents want to avoid a "hodgepodge" of annexations. "We want to obtain uniform treatment of the area."

Ninety-one residents signed a petition asking the city to preserve the rural area, Gans added. "People in North Chino have been burned by the city in the past annexations. Some attempts at mass annexations have left a bad taste in their mouths."

If the city plans many annexations, "what is the sense of having a master play for the region?" he asked.

Gans stated he realized Mrs. Bower wants to sell her property but "there are other ways to dispose of it."

"In the back of people's minds is that as soon as the area is annexed the city will rezone it R-1," he added.

Ronald Bromley, another resident, called for a public vote on the annexation proposal.

"Chino is going to helll," he declared. "I came here for rural living but it's not here anymore. Big developers are coming in and wiping us out. High taxes or annexations remove the guy with a few acres."

Vice Mayor Ed Lynch agreed that a "little faith" should be shown to Gans, who has helped the city in another study area. "By denying this, we're showing we have concern for everyone."

RAELLEN LESCAULT

Poly coed in Disneyland title finals

Cal Poly Pomona student Raellen Lescault, 20, is one of four finalists for the title of Disneyland 1976 Ambassador to the World.

Miss Lescault is a junior majoring in architecture and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lescault of Orange. She was born in Germany where her father was stationed during service with the armed forces.

Miss Lescault works in the park's merchandise division while other finalists, Mary Ann Kuchler, Christina Schendel and Sheri Van Matre are employed as tour guides.

Miss Kuchler of Anaheim is a communications major at Cal State Fullerton. Miss Schendel of Santa Ana is a recent graduate of UCLA with a degree in sociology and Miss Van Metre resides in Lynwood and is studying communications at UCLA.

One of the finalists will succeed current Ambassador Kathy Smith during ceremonies on Nov. 14 at Disneyland.

The new ambassador will represent the park as goodwill emissary throughout the world and serve as official hostess for prominent visitors to Disneyland in the coming year.

Ontario closes Chicano House after arrests

The Ontario City Council Tuesday night, following a meeting with Ontario Police Chief Lee Kolbreck, ordered closing of the Chicano House mini-city hall, 619 S. Campus Ave.

Police Tuesday morning launched a series of raids on south Ontario residences arresting 10 persons suspected of selling narcotics near the Chicano House during the past three months.

The raids were staged by the police in cooperation with city officials.

For months police said they had received complaints from residents, officers and city officials that a great deal of drug trafficking was occurring in the immediate area surrounding the facility, used by the city to assist low income residents with city services.

In addition to the seven persons arrested on narcotics charges Tuesday morning three other persons were arrested in the afternoon. They are Patricia Jean Lunn, 21, of 346 W. Allen St., San Dimas; Reyes Marcelino, 27, of San Bernardino; and Andrew Raymond Sanchez, 30, of 116 E. Sunkist St., Ontario.

Chicano House drug counselor Raymond Meras was arrested on a charge of misdemeanor unjustifiable punishment of child, but this was not related to the Chicano House operation.

Steve Julian, assistant city manager said this morning that it was unlikely Chicano House would be opened again. He said the council made the decision to close the facility after a 45-minute closed meeting with Chief Kolbreck and Capt. James Grundy. Julian said that a complete report of alleged narcotics activities prepared by the Police Department and state narcotics officers was reviewed.

5.5% teacher pay hike okayed in Cucamonga

By DAVID READER
PB Staff Writer

A 5.5 per cent pay raise was given to certificated employes of the Central School District of Cucamonga by the Board of Trustees Tuesday evening.

The adopted salary schedule, retroactive to July 1, calls for a range in teacher's pay from $9,007 to $17,758 per year.

The schedule was recommended by a fact-finding panel set up by the district and the Central Teachers Organization (CTO) in an attempt to make specific recommendations regarding teachers' salaries and benefits, which were disputed issues between the two parties.

Prior to adopting the salary schedule, the board asked CTO representatives if they would be willing to accept the schedule. After meeting for several minutes, CTO President Pat Guerra told the board that it must make its own decision as to whether the district would adopt the schedule.

Guerra said the board was attempting to, in his words, "pass the buck," in having the teachers group make the decision.

The resolution concerning the salary schedule was the climax to a long session attended by a group of 175 people, many of them members of a citizens committee seeking a salary increase for the teachers.

The committee, which included both parents and teachers, had several speakers address the board.

Daniel Pucco, committee chairman, said he didn't feel it was right for the district to pay $13,000 of the taxpayers' money for a professional negotiator (Frank Snyder, of the firm of Patterson and Taggart) to represent the district in the current salary dispute with teachers, when the money could be utilized to give teahchers a 1.5 per cent wage increase.

He also objected to $3,000 that was spent in excess district office rent for a board room. Replying to Pucco, board Chairman Pat Lewis said that district needed space for storage and conference areas, but in order to get the space, it was necessary to rent the entire store front next to the district office. The unused area, Lewis said, was turned into a board room, but could be used for other purposes should the need arise, such as extra classroom space.

Pucco said that a petition signed by 310 people who were concerned about the salary matter was being sent to California State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles, the San Bernardino County Superintendent of Schools Office, and the state Assemblyman.

Many of those who spoke believed that in order to maintain high standards of education for the children in the district, the teachers should receive comparable wages to those in similar school districts, which they contended was currently not the case.

In other action, the board approved additional phone service for Valle Vista School, at the cost of $673 per year, including the $92.50 installation charge.

Repar wins in race for water board

John Repar of 23804 Meadow Falls Drive, Diamond Bar is the victor in the contest for an unexpired term on the board of the Walnut Valley Water District.

Repar Tuesday defeated incumbent Harold W. Maupin, also of Diamond Bar, who was appointed to the unexpired term of Dr. Andrew Rodzinak who died last March.

The ballots cast are based on parcels of land, not persons, within the water district. Approximately 8,484,532 parcel votes could have been cast.

Repar received 1,231,300 parcel votes to 1,006,037 parcel votes for Maupin. There was an approximate 10 per cent turnout.

Repar will serve on the water board until Nov. 25, 1977.

Brown will visit valley in January

Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., announced today that Gov. Edmund E. Brown Jr. will visit the Pomona-West End area on Jan. 30.

"I'm pleased that the governor has accepted my invitation to meet with my constituents," said McVittie.

"The governor's program schedule includes meeting with legislative officials, tours, a press conference and speaking at a fund-raising dinner that evening," he added.

"Brown's appearance here will be somewhat unique in that he rarely attends functions on the behalf of other elected officials,"

He failed to attend last month's dinner in Los Angeles on behalf of six presidential candidates. According to Gray Davis, the governor's executive secretary, this was part of Brown's "ongoing relationship" with individual lawmakers.

McVittie, who served as vice chairman of the Assembly Committee of Revenue and Taxation, has been an outspoken supporter of the governor's tax reform platform for the past year.

The fund-raising dinner is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. at Griswold's Inn, Claremont.

While a public hearing by the Claremont Planning Commission on Tuesday to consider a proposed tenant protection ordinance drew 60 interested citizens, the commission members decided to continue the hearings on Nov. 17 to allow for more research on the proposal.

The city's Planning Department was requested to draw up general rules and regulations with regard to the administration of such an ordinance.

City Planner Donald Luxemberg said this information is to include what types of violations will be looked for and what the options would be on the part of the city staff and the administration to deal with the violations found.

The ordinance has been considered as a means by which all rental income-producing properties in Claremont, whether single-family or multi-family, would comply with existing state, county and city codes as to structural safety and saniatioln.

Many older structures in the city have been converted to boarding houses or rooming houses, causing concern to the city officials as to whether the structures provide a healthy living environment.

Representatives from real estate agencies and apartment managers' associations spoke in opposition to such an ordinance. The consensus was that the tenant already has adequate means to assure his protection. The real estate representatives also felt that such an ordinance would cause financial hardships for many of the property owners.

Support for the proposed ordinance came from residents in areas of the city where homes have been converted to mult-family living complexes. These citizens feel that some sort of control by the city is needed to protect the economic values of all properties in the community.

Safety session on home fires

A program on "Fire Survival in the Home" will be presented at Pomona Valley Safety Council's luncheon meeting Nov. 6 at Orlando's in Pomona.

Capt. Vern Jamison of the Pomona Fire Department will present a film titled "Donald's Fire Survival Plan" produced by Walt Disney which details the importance of families having fire escape plans.

The luncheon will begin at noon. The films will be shown at 12:30 p.m.

Cost of the luncheon is $3.75.

Teacher burned in acid mishap

A pint bottle of acid accidentally was broken on the floor of chemistry room 26 at Pomona High School Tuesday filling the air with toxic fumes, said Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes.

Science teacher Susan Hunter was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital emergency ward by private car and treated for foot burns.

New site for continuation high studied

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Pomona school board, in a unanimous vote Tuesday night, authorized administrators to proceed with a study into the feasibility of moving the district's continuation high school into buildings now owned by the Southern California Gas Co. on W. Second Street.

Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business services, also was authorized to retain a structural engineer to determine whether the buildings are structurally safe and meet state earthquake requirements and an appraiser to determine market value of the property.

The property, situated on the south side of Second Street east of the General Dynamics Pomona plant, is priced at $700,000.

Rountree told the board that both the staff of Park Avenue High School (the continuation school with a current enrollment of 160) and the cabinet (superintendent and assistant superintendents) recommended this site as "having the most advantages" of any considered for a new home for the school.

Rountree said he had inspected the property with a representative of Cashion and Horie architectural firm and quoted the representative as saying that it more than adequately would meet the needs of the continuation high school.

In other actions, the board:

—Awarded a $44,770 contract to Virgin Roof Co., Ontario to reroof classroom buildings at San Jose and Kingsley elementary schools.

—Was informed it would cost $4,850 to move and $1,275 to demolish the old Arroyo kindergarten building and asked staff to return with a recommendation for demolition.

—After a lengthy debate and voting three times, agreed to send an additional two people (permission already had been granted for eight) to attend the annual National Individually Guided Education (IGE) conference Nov. 16-19 in Denver, Colo. Cost for the 10, to be reimbursed by Comp Ed funds, is $1,460.

—Approved curricular offerings available this year in district junior and senior high schools.

—Authorized staff to apply for federal funds to meet the needs of some 134 Southeast Asian students enrolled in district schools. Rountree said this amounts to $300 per student for the first 100 and $600 per student for the remainder.

—Received reports from Wilhelmina Greene, project director of Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA), and Harold Carroll, project supervisor of the ESAA pilot program. Both were positive. Mrs. Greene said 4,528 students in 15 public and parochial schools are participating in the basic project, which has a staff of 117. Carroll some approximately 50 youngsters are involved in the pilot program, designed to lower the dropout rate and bring back into an educational program students who have been expelled.

This was the first regular meeting the school board had held in City Council chambers. Half the seats were filled.

U.S. rules on strip mining

Not just professional environmentalists but a lot of ordinary people were upset to learn recently that several companies were either strip mining or thinking about strip mining for minerals in Death Valley National Monument, because of a loophole in the 1933 law establishing the park.

Congress is now moving to amend the law, and although one of the companies mining in Death Valley points out that there is far greater environmental danger from tourists than from any of its operations, and although none of the companies forces Americans to consume its products, few people are going to defend the right of diesel-smoking shovels and cranes to mar the picturesque and romantic beauty of Death Valley.

Surely, there must be plenty of other places these companies can mine.

There are. Then again, there aren't.

The startling fact is that more than two-thirds of the nation's public, federally owned land — and most land out West is owned by the government — is not available for mining. Bit by bit, acre by acre, charges the American Mining Congress, various federal agencies over the years have been withdrawing tracts of land until it amounts to an unbelievable total: an area larger than 25 of the 27 states east of the Mississippi.

Closed not only to mining but even to mineral exploration is a landmass equivalent to Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

In an article in the Mining Congress Journal, Gary Bennethum and Courtland Lee, two specialists in the Department of the Interior, compare U.S. public lands to a bank account. The rate of withdrawals, they warn, may soon bring us to the point where our checks begin to bounce.

What is particularly alarming, they say, is that much of the withdrawn land has potential for discovery of significant mineral deposits.

A report by the Secretary of the Interior last year estimated that each year the nation has to produce about 40,000 pounds of new minerals for each citizen.

Less mayhem costs more

Whether it's because of the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, less driving because of the high cost of gasoline, or because safety campaigns are beginning to sink in — or maybe a combination of these and other factors — Americans have been making tremendous progress in reducing the slaughter and mayhem on the highways.

Accidents in 1974 were down 7.4 per cent from 1973, or from 25,649,000 to 23,744,000.

There was a 10.7 per cent cutback in auto deaths, from 55,511 to 46,200 — the lowest total since 1964.

Even so, the monetary cost of traffic accidents in the United States in 1974 reached a new high of more than $30.4 billion — the equivalent of $145 for every man, woman and child in the country.

The reason, according to the 1975 edition of Insurance Facts, published by the Insurance Information Institute, was inflation. Double-digit inflation. That, combined with inadequate rate levels for many insurance lines and intense price competition among some companies for commercial business, produced a net underwriting loss of some $2.66 billion, says the fact book.

While the Consumer Price Index reflected an average increase of less than 1 per cent in auto insurance premiums during 1974, the cost of a semiprivate hospital room went up 16.4 per cent, physician's fees 13.6 per cent and auto repair costs 14.5 per cent.

Nuclear energy

Dear Editor:

On Sunday, Sept. 28, 1975, I visited the Los Angeles County Fair and went through the exhibition on nuclear energy at San Onofre presented by Southern California Edison Company. I was alarmed by several statements in the exhibit that were either incomplete, which mislead the public about the commercial generation of nuclear power, or outright lies.

One statement said that we have enough uranium to last for several hundred years. This is false. If we remain dependent on reactors like those at San Onofre and expand nuclear power at the suggested rate, we will use most of the available uranium in the world by the year 2000. This fact was reported in the Los Angeles Times (March 22, 1974) in a speech by Frank Baranowski, an AEC official, to the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

Another section stated that spent fuel rods from reactors are shipped to reprocessing plants. This, too, is false. There are no commercial reprocessing plants in operation in the U.S. today. The one in West Valley, N.Y. was closed about 1972 because it was too dirty (radioactive) and not economical (50% more costly than new fuel). This plant is scheduled to reopen in 1978. Presently, spent fuel rods are stored in cooling ponds outside the reactors and these are filling up rapidly.

Thirdly, the display indicated burial in salt deposits as the solution for disposal of long-lived radioactive wastes produced in reactors. The AEC selected site in Lyons, Kansas was abandoned as unsuitable and no other site has yet been selected. In fact, no technology has been demonstrated for final disposal of wastes.

I am sure that SCE is aware of all this information. The facts have been amply documented by ERDA, the Ford Foundation, and by countless others.

I am a biologist who is very concerned about our growing dependence on nuclear power before the vast problems of reactor safety, waste disposal and ore availability that are posed by harnessing the energy of the atom have been solved.

I call upon SCE to discuss these problems with the public in an open and honest forum. — Arleen B. Forsheit, Ph.D., Claremont.

Many People Unaware

Dear Editor:

Pomona has been our home for many years and we are proud of it. We hope it will be our home forever.

Unfortunately, too many people who call Pomona home are unaware of the crime problem. Many others are afraid to get involved. Still there are others who just don't care.

The Progress Bulletin is in a position to educate these people and should do so by continuing to "Spotlight Crime," in fact intensifying the war against it.

All of us in Pomona can do SOMETHING to help fight crime. — The Parsonage family

Cocktail Recipe

Dear Editor:

After weeks of reading about your "Stand Up and be Counted" programs and agreeing with you that citizens working together can lower the crime rate, I could hardly believe my eyes when I read on page 12 of your October 21 edition a recipe for a Molotov Cocktail!

Your fight against crime should begin with the Progress Bulletin. — Mrs. Wilson L. Sego, Claremont

Two spotlights

Dear Editor:

Keep the spotlight on! I would suggest two spotlights. Another one on the City Development Commission. Where has the money been spent? Why did they allow the Pomona Mall to become a ghost town? Who are the Commission members? — R.H.H., Pomona

Wrong criticism

Dear Editor:

Critics of our Pomona administration are apt to throw out the baby with the wash water. I assume their complaint is crime and few of our administrators appear to be criminals.

Our peace officers did have a recent wage dispute, whether such constituted blackmail is a moot question. This is one of the forms of larceny the courts do not recognize. Our city administrators did not settle the case New York style so collective bargaining is probably the better description. They should be commended.

So, the complaints seem to be lack of law enforcement. This would involve only our police, prosecutors and judges. Undoubtedly, most of these are doing their best. We should concentrate on the over tolerant.

Our problem is that any form of punishment has become cruel and unusual. Our police no doubt know the most flagrant violators. With a little more cooperation of the courts, and particularly the juvenile court, some of these could be removed from our midst. Maybe we should organize to watch our justice procedures. — Ray O. Swanson, Pomona

The 'Alice Does'

Dear Editor:

I am writing on behalf of "Alice Does" women. These women, men, too, are ones that I see functioning successfully in modern society. These women care to be involved in the basic and intimate needs of their husbands, children, and others in their communities. Because they assume these responsibilities, they share intimate relationships and feel useful. Recognizing someone else's need, particularly that of one's own family member, and helping that person to fulfill that need provides a profound satisfaction.

These "Alice Does" types are women who, after their children are grown, automatically find community needs of the underprivileged to meet and, consequently, continue to feel needed and useful throughout their lives. They never experience "retirement trauma" because they never retire from being with people of all ages.

Psychology, religion, even medical science, indicate that giving and receiving love are necessary for human survival. The home with all family members cooperating to meet needs of food, clothing, and shelter for each other is the easiest place for love to be learned.

Whoever cares enough to do the job reaps satisfaction from having done it. A mother who serves nourishing food happily and regularly sees her children grow into healthy adulthood. A mother who keeps clean clothes and insists on good habits of cleanliness in her children feels a special joy as she sends them off to school.

A mother who provides a happy home atmosphere sees her family blossom into a cheerfulness which she can share. A mother who reads a bedtime story, cuddles a child on her lap, brushes away a tear, or kisses an injury receives the warmth and love of the child in return.

When a mother goes out shopping late in the afternoon and says to a six-year-old, "If you get hungry, dad will make you a turkey sandwich," and the child returns, "o-k, then what are we going to do for dinner?" will also say to his mother the following week after he has received his Halloween treat of two tiny squares of gum, "It's good that you're here. You can have some of my gum."

Fathers, too, who share in necessary activities in the home allow themselves time to enjoy spontaneity in their children. Granted, with so many men and women working outside the home and some driving long distances to work, it is difficult for anyone to have time and energy to meet happily a wide variety of demands at home. However, "Alice Does" women and "enlightened" men feel lucky to have families and homes, respites from a chaotic world around them, where they can love each other, help each other, and need each other. — Ruth Bobo, Claremont

On amnesty

Dear Editor:

Though incongrous, the Public Forum on Thursday, 30 October, was a perfect example of freedom of speech and thought in our country. On the same page were letters decrying crime in Pomona flanked by a letter demanding that we grant "complete, universal and unconditional amnesty to young men whose only fault was refusing to participate in the war in Vietnam. In the sixth paragraph, Margaret G. Smythe, a member of the Pomona Valley Council for Peace, stated that the Kastenmeier bill will neither remove the stigma of a poor discharge nor allow for Veteran's benefits. That statement is unworthy of comment.

Briefly, these young men who refused to be drafted broke the law. To break an existing law is a crime. We are not allowed to select which laws we will keep and which we will break. That would lead to chaos. If a law is bad — it sticks out like a sore thumb — and through legal process it either gets changed or repealed.

I, for one, have not forgotten what these resistors said, loud and clear, about preferring to leave this country (for their principles) rather than be drafted. I feel as strongly about this now, as I did then and that is, they had the freedom of choice and that was their right. But, once having made their choice, to demand amnesty, to demand to be allowed back into my country (for I truly believe these persons chose to give up any rights to their country) after the war was over and they were safe is immoral.

Rather than belabor the pros and cons of the Vietnam war, quite simply, the only citizens who have the right to grant amnesty, veteran's benefits (?), etc., are the families whose sons participated — and whose sons died. If a majority vote for unconditional amnesty for draft resistors and deserters is given by these families, I feel confident that every citizen in this country will go along with their decision.

The citizens of Pomona have clearly indicated that they are going to do everything in their power to fight crime and lawbreakers in our town. How can the Pomona Valley Council of Peace be fighting to condone lawbreakers in the United States. MS Smythe do I hear you shouting, "But this is different!"

NO IT ISN'T. — L. Shaw, Pomona.

A Few Questions

Dear Editor:

A high government official arranges peace between nations. Now it develops that he has been bribing them with our money.

An individual in a neighboring city has been found with drugs. He is in jail. In Pomona, the like situation occurs. He is still on the payroll.

In Pomona, another has been found pilfering public funds. The one who reported this in the proper place was fired.

Pomona Unified School District told us that the .94 override would bring taxes up only about .10c higher than a few years previous. But it now is over $1.00 higher. This, of course, was for "the dear children."

Daddy comes home from the market to relate with glee how he had given the cashier a $10 bill, and she gave him change for a $20 bill.

Those in a recent strike who reported sick probably felt it when they got their telephone bill.

The Congressman for the 35th District talks economy, yet he voted for their pay raise. The vote came out 218 for, 217 against.

Why expect our children to obey the law, with all the examples they see? They learn more by what they see. What did Mr. Lincoln say, about fooling the people? These children are really smarter than we think. But they have not learned it in school. Our generation did the teaching.

How about city work crews, who gather on a shady street, and sit on the curb, sometimes an hour before time to go back to the yard? Who taught them that? — E.C. Harrison, Pomona

Jack Anderson
Navy neglects 'copter carriers

WASHINGTON — In these uneasy times, the Navy may be alerted any day to airlift endangered Americans from some trouble spot. Yet the seven helicopter carriers, which are most likely to be used for an evacuation, have been permitted to fall into woeful disrepair.

The Navy seems able to find funds when an Admiral wants his quarters refitted or an ex-Admiral applies for a contract as a consultant. Yet there isn't enough money, apparently, to maintain the rusty, leaky tubs which are supposed to be ready for any emergency. The Navy crewmen and Marine assault troops on board also often live in squalor.

We began investigating conditions aboard the helicopter carriers a year ago. But the Navy, we found, had swept the embarrassing facts under the secrecy stamp. Not that there is anything legitimately secret about the Navy's neglect. It is merely a Pentagon habit to censor embarrassing news by classifying it.

We were able, nevertheless, to get the classified inspection reports, and on Nov. 11, 1974, we described the deplorable conditions aboard the Okinawa and, later, the Iwo Jima. The other five helicopter carriers, we suggested, weren't in much better shape.

Suddenly three astonishing things happened: (1) the Navy began allotting money to repair the Iwo Jima and Okinawa; (2) we are flooded with letters from sailors urging us to write about their own unseaworthy ships; and (3) the Navy brass stamped an even higher classification on the reports of its jaunty chief inspector, Rear Adm. John Bulkeley.

At one closed meeting, the participants were advised that the newer classification and special security precautions were necessary to "keep the reports out of Jack Anderson's hands."

Despite the coverup, however, we have obtained copies of the latest inspection reports. One lengthy report describes conditions aboard the New Orleans.

Some vital electronic gear was installed on this helicopter carrier more than 18 months ago. Yet Bulkeley's boys found that "complete documentation is still not aboard ship." The "documentation" is needed to properly operate the equipment.

"The passive electronic warfare capability" for gathering seaborne intelligence and other information "is degraded," the report charges. Even the "jib cranes," used to lift small boats and supplies onto the deck, "are in a deteriorated condition with one out of commission," the report adds.

The Navy, in response to our inquiry, insisted it is doing everything possible to keep up the fleet.

Footnote: At the very time we were writing this story, another letter arrived from the mother of a seaman aboard the New Orleans' sister ship, the Inchon. She urged us to keep reporting on the fleet's condition. Her son's ship, she wrote, "is now two years past its yard period and has had innumerable breakdowns."

WASHINGTON WHIRL: There's more than meets the eye to the sudden confession of Jack Ford, the President's son, that he has smoked pot. We knew he had experimented with marijuana and made repeated attempts to question him about it. Instead, he made the announcement on his own, taking credit for candor.

— Susan Ford, the President's daughter, is the star of her political science class at Washington's Mt. Vernon College. Some of her classmates are grumbling, however, that the course is becoming a seminar on life with father at the White House.

— Richard Nixon's confidant, Rabbi Baruch Korff, agrees with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's private assessment of the former President. Kissinger described Nixon as an "odd, artificial and unpleasant man." The Rabbi also agreed with Kissinger it was unusual for a man so uncomfortable with people to run for office. Korff explained to us that Nixon became a politican to overcome his shyness.

— Ex-Vice President Spiro Agnew's name may be dragged back into the headlines. The FBI is investigating reports that certain builders, with the right political connections, were granted government leases. One of Agnew's cronies, the FBI has learned, wangled a questionable $43 million lease.

— Art Sampson, the federal government's former chief housekeeper, was supposed to leave the General Services Administration on October 15. But he will remain on the payroll as a consultant at a $37,800 annual salary. The White House asked him to advise his successor about such thorny problems as GSA's custody of the Nixon papers and dealings with the computer industry.

— Japan's Emperior Hirohito was the first to sign his name in Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's new guest book. With great dignity, the emperor began scratching his name in the book. But his hand slipped, and he spilled ink all over the blank pages.

— Conservatives now use Congresswoman Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., as the yardstick for assessing liberals. The Conservative Committee for the Survival of a Free Congress, for example, has targeted 35 House liberals for defeat in 1976. The victims were chosen by comparing their voting records with those of battling Bella.

A local address if you want to help Indians

A friend told me one of your readers was trying to locate me to give me some things for American Indians.

I have been helping Indians for 25 years. It is an interest handed down to me by my mother, an ordained minister.

There are 11 Indians in my house right now. Eight are living here and three are visiting. There is plenty of room because my home is on an old dairy site in Chino. Besides my two-story house there is a smaller house on the property.

In case anyone wants to inquire about my work, my phone number is 627-3941. — Pearl Wheeler.

We are glad to have more information about you and your work.

Previously we located you through the City Clerk's Office in Pomona but the only address we had for you was the United Indian Mission, P.O. Box 231, Anaheim, Calif.

Your Pomona city permit states that you collect funds and clothing in front of stores and banks and that the funds are used for educational and religious purposes.

When G. G. of Pomona sought our help in locating you and we first published the information about your permit, we urged everyone approached by a stranger for contributions to ask for identification.

Permits are issued both by cities and counties. They help prevent misuse of charitable gifts.

NEW CREDIT BILLING LAW

A new law is designed to help consumers resolve credit billing disputes and eliminate certain practices that are considered unfair to consumers.

Here is a summary:

BILLING DISPUTES — If you write a store or credit card company about an error in your bill (you have 60 days from the date the bill was mailed to do this), you must get an acknowledgement of your letter within 30 days.

The dispute then must be resolved within 90 days. During this period, you don't have to pay the amount in question or any finance charges on the amount. The creditor cannot close your account, give any adverse reports about you or threaten you with such retaliation. If the creditor doesn't comply with these rules, you don't have to pay the disputed amount — up to $50 — even if the bill proves to be correct.

Defective products — If you buy a product that turns out to be defective, you don't have to pay for it on your credit card bill — as long as you first go to the store where you bought it and try in good faith to resolve the problem with the merchant.

This provision recognizes the fact that credit card companies have considerably more muscle than consumers in solving disputes where the item is already paid for on a credit card and the merchant refuses any further responsibility. Generally, this rule applies only to purchases of $50 or more that were made within 100 miles of your home.

Discounts — When you pay cash instead of charging a purchase, a new regulation permits retailers to give you a five per cent discount but if they do they must post a sign telling you about it.

Free ride period — When you have a certain time period in which to pay your bill before a finance charge is levied, the bill must be sent at least 14 days in advance of the deadline for payment.

Returns — If you return an item that you charged on a bank card (not a store card), the law requires the store to notify the bank card company of the return within seven business days and the bank company to give you credit within three business days.

Offsets — This regulation applies when you have a credit card from a bank where you also have an account. It prohibits the bank from automatically collecting credit card payments from your account to "offset" the debt if your bill is overdue. The rule does not prevent you from your instructing the bank to take money out of your account for this purpose.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Thursday, Nov. 6, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a tendency today to blurt things out thoughtlessly. Guard against this, for someone could be badly hurt.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Usually you have your wits about you in the commercial arena. Today you could be hoodwinked because you seek something for nothing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's not a good day to make important decisions on family or financial matters. Your judgment is too clouded by emotion.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Frustrating opposition will cause you to look for a scapegoat today. It will be far better in the long run for you to take the lumps.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're all too willing to pay for something you want done today, rather than do it yourself. You'll regret this. You could have done it better — and cheaper. If you want to stay on good terms with your budget today, watch two items closely — what you spend for the home and for entertainment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Normally you are tactful. Today you'll have to be careful to avoid dissension through what you say, or how you act in a crowd.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Avoid serious-type discussions with friends today. Keep it light. If you get that chip on your shoulder somebody will surely knock it off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful today. That small surplus you've accumulated may burn a hole in your pocket. You could blow the whole bundle quickly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Treat your mate with kid gloves today. Something you did recently triggered an unpleasant reaction. It won't take much to bring it to the surface.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't be too coy today. Little nuances you regard as frivolous gestures could be taken seriously, much to your dismay.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Avoid large gatherings today. You're in a mood where you want attention and if you're relegated to a lesser role you may be considerably upset.

Your Birthday Nov. 6, 1975

Keep a small traveling bag packed this coming year. You won't make the long journeys you'd like to, but short trips will bring some exciting, memorable experiences.

Ann Landers

Open to teenage rebuttal

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to comment on that letter written by a teenage girl who complained about the terrible manners of the teenage boys in her school. She gave as an example the way the boys shoved the girls around and elbowed in front of them to get a seat on the school bus.

Our children are grown but in "my day" (I know how teenagers hate this phrase) we had no such problem. Why? Because boys looked like boys and girls looked like girls and they behaved like young ladies.

Today almost every girl I see looks like "one of the guys" in her jeans or overalls or hip-huggers, denim shirt, battle jacket and cowboy belt. After all, Ann, when a girl looks like "one of the guys" she shouldn't be surprised if she is treated like one. If I'm wrong, tell me. If I'm right, tell THEM. — Female Of Yesteryear

Dear Yester: Your point is well taken but I'm sure thousands of teenagers out there are just aching to provide a rebuttal to your letter. I'll print the best one.

Dear Ann Landers: Thank God for your columnn.

Until I read your statement that silicone injections were illegal, I didn't know it. A girlfriend of mine has been getting them for several weeks and I was considering some for myself. I am 18 years old and very flat-chested.

Will you please tell me which of the bust developers (creams and exercisers) advertised in the magazines are best? Also, where can I find out about those silicone implants? — Flat And Uninformed

Dear F: The creams and so-called "bust developers" you see advertised in magazines are a crock of cranberries. The only people who profit from them are the manufacturers. Their dimensions DO increase — around the bank balance.

As for the silicone implants, ask your family doctor to recommend a plastic surgeon who does this type of work. Or write to the head of the department of surgery at a university medical school. Silicone implants are legal, safe and thousands of women have been very pleased with the results.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night our handsome, bright, 18-year-old son told my husband he is gay and we must accept him as he is because he has no desire to be anything else and is tired of pretending.

Is there any chance that this could be a passing fancy? Is it possible that our boy will outgrow this phase and end up falling in love with some nice girl?

We see a life of misery ahead for him and plenty of heartache for us.

Please, Ann, no city or state. I am afraid to sign this. Just print my letter and your answer. — His Mother

Dear Mother: Anything is possible, but it is highly unlikely that an 18-year-old boy who makes such an announcement has any interest in changing from homosexuality to heterosexuality.

His life might not be as miserable as you think. Some gays do well in their chosen fields and are quite content. You and your husband, however, should seek counseling since you are the ones who are suffering from anxiety. Unless you have a better understanding of your son's homosexuality and learn how to accept it, you ARE going to have plenty of heartache.

Women as fellow-travelers

"Who are the world's worst travelers?" I read in a newspaper (this one) recently. Before I could answer, I read the answer: "Women!"

The article went on to relate the observations of one Cleo St. Jean of Manhattan Beach who had spent the summer at Orly airport, a fender crumple from Paris, helping stranded and distressed travelers find their way by hook or booking back to the land of the free and the home of the brave.

St. Jean hoisted 7,000 tourists on board planes for New York in four days, which qualifies him in my book as an authority. He says women panic when anything goes wrong with tickets, money, passports, reservations or drip-dry shirts. This I knew from my own experience.

I shared the humorous item with my wife — proving I still have a lot to learn.

"Chap here says women travelers panic when anything goes wrong," I said with a chuckle. "How right he is. You gals just don't keep your heads like men, veteran travelers, taking the setbacks in stride."

"He's right, all right," she said demurely. "By the way, did you ever send the man that money?"

"What money?" Was she changing the subject?

"That time in Paris when you lost your wallet, remember? And you screamed and shouted and made such a rumpus that the manager lent you $10."

"I did NOT scream and shout. I admit I was upset and perhaps, uh, expressed myself firmly. And yes, I did send him the $10."

"Did you ever get your passport back?" my wife asked. "That time in Genoa when the luggage was lost and you hit the customs inspector with a bottle of chianti. They said they'd never seen an American cry so much."

"I was NOT crying," I replied coldly. "I had something in my eye. I was naturally distressed because those dirty thieves had made off with two pigskin suitcases — who wouldn't be? As for the wine bottle — that was nothing. I merely—"

"Tempest in a wineglass?"

"— drew back my arm and he happened to be standing behind me. Besides it was burgundy. I had —"

"You paid the fine."

"Certainly I paid the fine," I screamed. "Think I want to spend the rest of my life in a crummy Italian jail? You'd think the —"

"What about that time in Oberspraaken when we missed the train and you tried to have the station master arrested?"

"I cannot charge myself with EVER having tried to —"

"And remember in Liverpool when they hadn't received our cable for reservations and you fainted in the hotel lobby?"

"I did NOT faint. I admit I was weary and wanted to —"

"And that time in Lyons when the registered letter didn't arrive and you attacked the gendarme, thinking he was —"

"Only a backward country dresses its postmen and policemen the same,' I snarled. "Besides that letter HAD to be —"

"And that night in Grenoble when your laundry was delivered to the apartment below us, and you went down and found that girl — how did you ever keep that out of the newspapers?"

Well, you see how women exaggerate. There's no sense in trying to argue with them. Women travelers, hah!

Coffee may irritate colon

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would like more information on the foods containing caffeine. I have colitus and suffer so, I think my diet must be faulty.

DEAR READER — Coffee is irritating to some people's colon, and many readers have written me that their symptoms have disappeared after stopping it entirely. In most cases I think this is from the action of caffeine in the coffee, but it is true that some sensitive people don't tolerate the flavor oils in coffee, either.

To give you some information on how much caffeine you might find in beverages, send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 1-1, Coffee, Tea, Colas, Cocoa. You can send your request to me in care of this newspaper, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Enclose a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for mailing.

You may be surprised to see cocoa on the list. Many a mother gives her child cocoa to avoid the caffeine in coffee not knowing that cocoa also contains caffeine, and enough to give a child a good dose. The same applies to all cocoa products or chocolate.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know if there are any side effects from taking Diuril for high blood pressure. I have been taking it for three years, 250 mg a day.

DEAR READER — There are always side effects to all medicines, including aspirin and even to most foods, for some people.

Diuril and most of the other medicines that people take to eliminate water from the body act by causing the kidney to eliminate sodium. As sodium is eliminated it takes the excess water with it to maintain the proper concentration of salt in water for your body.

In addition to eliminating sodium, other salts may be lost, including the loss of potassium and magnesium. Small doses of water pills over a long period of time will not cause any harm in people on normal diets who are not exposed to heat or conditions that impose excessive sweating. From that point you move into the broad spectrum of multiple problems caused by too much loss of sodium, potassium, magnesium or other minerals, that may occur with increased dosage and increased elimination of salt and water. I wouldn't think that the small dose you are taking would likely cause you any problem.

I have mentioned the problem of loss of potassium from these medicines in previous columns. You can help avoid this by including plenty of fruit and fruit juices in the diet. Long term use of these medicines can lead to low magnesium levels, too. You need magnesium in the process that controls body temperature, formation of body proteins, muscular contractions and many functions closely related to the actions of calcium. Incidentally, alcoholism, diabetes and disorders that cause poor absorption from the intestines may also cause low magnesium levels.

Where does magnesium come from in your diet? From many foods including beans, corn, whole wheat flour and oatmeal.

And, what should one do to be sure not to get into trouble with low mineral levels? Eat a proper diet in the first place. Physicians should check all the minerals (electrolytes) regularly in patients taking any of these medications. I am inclined to think that the problem of low magnesium may be ignored in too many instances, with all the attention being focused on potassium.

Opening lead — K ♣

If Patrick Henry had been a bridge player, he might well have said: "Give me the spade suit or give me death."

Then if Patrick Henry had held today's East hand from the spring charity game, he would have passed in second seat; passed a second time after North responded one notrump to South's one-heart opening bid, but backed into action after South's two-heart rebid was passed by North.

A two-spade call would be dangerous. However, if you aren't willing to take chances you shouldn't play bridge.

If East does back in with two spades he will get a shock. West will take him right to four spades. The shock will be only temporary. One look at dummy and East will smile happily and go about the business of making his game with one or two overtricks.

We don't show East bidding the two spades. Our East in the box was one of the many players who let South play at two hearts. South would have no trouble at that contract. He would be sure of eight tricks and probably come home with nine, because at most tables West would win the first two tricks with the king and queen of clubs. East would go to bed with his ace and South make an overtrick.

Ask the Jacobys

A Missouri reader wants to know why most American experts like to use two-clubs as their only forcing bid.

The answer to that one is that you don't get a hand of game or near game strength very often and therefore, it is a great waste to use four opening bids (five if you add three notrump) to cover such hands. Use two clubs as your only force and you can put the other two bids to work.

How much ready cash?

How much cash does your entire family have on hand at the moment? No reply expected. The query is merely preliminary to the report that the average family during the 1933 bank holiday at the bottom of the Great Depression was said to possess exactly $18.23, no more.

SNAKES, TOO, are known to be fairly particular about what they eat. That's to say one sort such as the green snake will eat crickets and grasshoppers, but won't touch lizards or mice. And another sort such as the water snake may eat fish and frogs, but won't have anything to do with insects or rodents. They specialize, those snakes.

Q—"Quick, Louie, name that famous poet who wrote the verse called 'If'."

A—Which poet? Besides Rudyard Kipling, John Masefield and Emily Dickinson likewise wrote verses so titled.

SO YOU THINK Mount Everest in the Himalayas is the highest mountain in the world, do you? So did I. But measured from the center of the earth, Mount Chimborazo in the Andes is higher. Credit the equatorial bulge for that.

ALREADY MENTIONED that Maassachusetts about 200 years ago offered a bounty of $400 for each Indian scalp brought in by the enterprising human hunters. Client asks if such white scalphunting was widespread. Fairly. Just a little more than 100 years ago, such bounty men got $25 per scalp in Central City, Colo. And Deadwood City, S.D., paid them $200 per scalp.

TEA

Remember, if you steep old tea leaves in water for half an hour, then strain the liquid, that tea works excellently well to clean varnished woodwork, mirrors, window panes.

DO YOU BELIEVE some faith healers really can cure physical ailments? If not, how do you explain that remarkable experiment undertaken by McGill University. Two batches of sick white mice were put in separate cages. Selected faith healers prayed over one cage, but not over the other. The prayed-over mice reportedly got well far more quickly than did the ignored mice. The devout like to cite this report. Skeptics contend any sick animal's chances of recovery improve when it gets a lot of attention.

Training session for school parents scheduled in Pomona

A leadership training workshop, to show parents how to become more involved in the education of their children, will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Pomona Education Center.

The Parent Involvement Component of the school district's Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) project, and the Pomona Council PTA are sponsors.

The event has been titled "An AAA Workshop," representing the theme "Be Aware, Active and All Together."

Members of the community and representatives of the school district staff will direct seven sessions during the evening concerning leadership training for PTA and other organizations, special programs for Pomona school children, human relations, community resources and information about the local school district.

Mrs. Doreen Keepers, a Parent Involvement assistant for ESAA, is coordinating the event.

After a brief orientation meeting in the Education Center's board room, participants will attend group sessions of their choice in the district auditorium and other areas of the building.

A session entitled "Basic Parliamentary Ways" will be led by Julia Arri and Patricia Yarborough. Mrs. Arri, currently third vice president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and a member of the national and state Association of Parliamentarians, has led numerous workshops on parliamentary procedure. Mrs. Yarborough is Pomona Council PTA parliamentarian.

PLAN WORKSHOP — Pomona businesswoman Julia Arri, left, and LaVonne Caldwell, center, and Shirley Alvarez, public school employes, plan a leadership training workshop for parents.

The school district's community information officer, Douglas Robertson, and Parent Involvement assistant Shirley Alvarez will conduct a session on "Information About Pomona Schools and Community Services." This session will include information on community resources and ways to transmit information about programs to the public.

"Beautiful Benefits for Beautiful Children," a session concerning special programs for Pomona school children, was coordinated by LaVonne Caldwell, Parent Involvement specialist for ESSA.

Group leaders for this session include Lupe Ruiz, liaison assistant at Madison Elementary School; Frances Marquez, community relations assistant for the district's bilingual education program; and Anne Lake and Eloisa Barela, community assistants for the Head Start program.

John Kuiken, Pomona Council PTA human relations chairman, will direct a session on human relations titled "Where Are You Coming from, I'd Like To Know." Information for PTA secretaries and historians will be led by Gloria Anthony, secretary of the Yorba Elementary School PTA and a member of the district's bilingual education staff.

"How To Be an Effective PTA Room Representative" will be explored in a session led by Velda Miller, a past president of the Pomona Council PTA and this year's PTA Newsette chairman.

A special session for men, titled "Men — More Envolvement Needed," will be held by Lyman Goldsmith of San Marino, First District California state PTA program chairman and speaker for PTA organizations.

The AAA workshop is one of many activities sponsored by the Parent involvement component to help parents and community members become more involved with their children's education and to improve communications between the school district and the community.

Besides sponsoring a number of workshops, the Parent Involvement staff recruits parents to assist in school classes, provide adult supervision for ESAA-sponsored activities, serve on advisory committees, and attend cultural and social activities which provide learning experiences for parents and help them develop a closer relationship with the school system.

The public is invited to attend the AAA workshop. For further information, the Parent Involvement staff of ESAA may be contacted at 621-5027.

Primary elections

Two defeats by Reagan not fatal to Ford

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's campaign strategists contend he can absorb defeats in two of the first three presidential primary elections of 1976 and still beat Ronald Reagan for the Republican nomination.

They say they do not expect Ford to lose in New Hampshire on Feb. 24 or in Florida on March 9, but that it won't be politically fatal if he does. There is concern and some pessimism in the Ford camp about those two states because Reagan has special advantages in both.

In part, these assessments may be an exercise in campaign gamesmanship, since it is to a candidate's advantage to start with low expectations and exceed them rather than to promote optimistic forecasts that don't pan out.

As the incumbent, although by appointment rather than election, Ford goes into the campaign as the favorite, and any defeat by Reagan will therefore be magnified.

But Ford's managers say the race shouldn't be read that way because the President has not been the electoral route before. They also say that as a challenger, Reagan can pick his spots and run in states where he is strongest, while the Ford campaign will be active in every state, spreading its resources thinner.

Reagan has not yet declared his presidential candidacy yet, but sources familiar with his plans say he will do so in Washington the week of Nov. 17.

Stuart Spencer, director of political operations for the President Ford Committee, said he is satisfied with progress in organizing for the President in New Hampshire and Florida, with chairmen and campaign professionals at work and a direct-mail appeal for Republican support due to go out in November.

Howard H. "Bo" Callaway, the Ford campaign manager, has said he is confident the President will win both primaries.

Spencer said Reagan's advantages in the two states include the support of New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson and the Manchester Union-Leader, that state's largest newspaper, and the strength of GOP conservatives in Florida.

"If we can beat him in New Hampshire and Florida, I think he's dead," Spencer said. "If he beats us in New Hampshire and Florida, I don't think we're dead. It's just a long, hard winter — or spring."

He acknowledged that he can't measure the psychological impact the Ford campaign would suffer if Reagan won in those early tests.

Spencer also said the President's forces are confident they can beat Reagan in the Massachusetts primary on March 2, in Illinois on March 16 — although some other Republicans say Ford could have trouble there — and will win in Wisconsin and New York on April 6.

Along with the questions of stragety, there is the problem of internal discord at the Ford campaign committee. It surfaced again with the resignation of David Packard as finance chairman, following the departure of Lee Nunn as director of operations.

In both cases, the resignations stemmed from differences with Callaway. A spokesman said Ford still has total confidence in Callaway's management. And a campaign official said that with those resignations, the in-house problems at Ford headquarters should be over.

The Ford organization, meanwhile, has been working to recruit Republican leaders from the conservative wing of the party, people who could be viewed as likely Reagan allies.

A campaign source said F. Clifton White, a conservative strategist and New York-based political consultant, will be joining the Ford committee on a part-time basis as an adviser and contact man.

The President, on the road almost weekly as the featured performer at Republican fundraising affairs, has been under some pressure to curtail his travels. "Everybody has been pushing at him on that," one aide said.

The President plans at least two, and probably three more political missions in the next two weeks, to Boston on Nov. 7, Atlanta on Nov. 14, and probably Charleston, W.Va., on Nov. 11.

Israel envoy

CHICAGO (AP) — Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz says Israel would seriously consider military action should any Arab nation enter the conflict in Lebanon.

At a news conference Sunday, Dinitz said his country is concerned "that our northern border with Lebanon should not become a border of confrontation," but he refused to speculate on what conditions would cause Israel to confront a third party in the conflict.

Ship traffic declines at two harbors

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A slight drop in shipping traffic during October has been reported at Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors, with only 400 vessels arriving during the month compared to 422 in October 1974.

However, harbor officials reported Monday total tonnage had increased from 3.9 million in October last year to 4.29 million.

The officials said the October showing in ship arrivals and net tonnage was an increase in September's figures of 379 ships and 3.93 million tons.

Ships calling at Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors in October included 264 passenger and cargo vessels, 112 tankers and 24 seagoing barges.

BETTER TOMORROWS START TODAY...AT HOME.

Planning for the future is one of the most important things we do at Home. And since your future is what ours is all about, we've given a lot of thought and concern to those ideas that can help you enjoy a richer, more secure tomorrow. Like innovative ideas from the government that enable you to plan a more financially assured retirement. Or ideas to make tomorrow a little more affluent than today. Ideas to help you get more out of life than you have been getting. More advantages. More value. More fun.

We've listed below a few of the programs Home Savings offers to expand or safeguard your future. We urge you to take advantage of them if you can. Each carries the full backing of America's Largest savings and loan association. Each offers the safety and assurance Old Dependable Home Savings has extended for over 86 years—and will continue to extend for years to come.

A Retirement Plan for those who don't have one where they work

Everyone looks forward to retirement years that are free from financial worries. Unfortunately, many work at jobs where there are no retirement benefits, other than Social Security. Under these circumstances, the future can look bleak indeed.

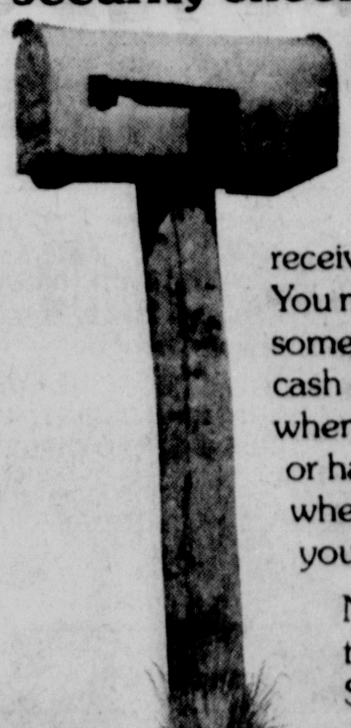
It doesn't have to any more. Now at Home, you can start an Individual Retirement Account, a federally approved program that permits you to put aside for your retirement tax sheltered funds out of your current income. Under present regulations, federal law allows you to contribute up to $1,500 or 15% of your income (whichever is less) and take a tax deduction for the full amount. Of course, at Home, you enjoy not only the tax savings but full interest on your fund, compounded daily and paid right to the time you withdraw from your account on retirement. Get complete information about I.R.A. from any Home teller or savings counselor.

A tax sheltered retirement plan for those who are self-employed

Professionals, persons who own their own business, any self-employed man or woman can also enjoy a retirement program based on tax sheltered income at Home Savings. Under the federally approved regulations of this plan, known as HR-10 or Keogh Plan, self-employed individuals can put aside—up to $7500 each year for retirement.

Of course, like all funds placed at Home Savings, they earn the highest interest allowed by law on insured savings... interest that is compounded daily. And every individual's account is insured to $40,000 for extra peace of mind. The Keogh Plan also permits the self-employed to offer benefits to his or her employees. See any teller or savings counselor for all the facts on HR-10 or Keogh Plan.

A new and better way to handle your social security checks



If you receive Social Security checks, you know there are certain drawbacks to receiving them in the mail. You must mail or take them someplace yourself to cash or deposit them. And when you're on vacation, or have to be away when the check arrives, you probably worry.

Now, you can arrange to have your Social Security check delivered by the government directly to Home Savings for deposit. Not only are you saved a special trip, your Social Security check starts earning 5¼% interest the day it arrives at Home. Yet your funds are always available when you need them. For complete details, ask any teller or savings counselor about Social Security Direct Deposit.

Guarantee a merrier Christmas in 1976... with extra cash

Christmas is no time to be pinched for funds. (Don't you wish you had a little extra cash for this Christmas coming up!) So make sure next Christmas turns out really merry with a Home Savings Christmas Account.

It's not only an easy way to save. You'll be earning a full 5¼% interest on every dollar you put aside. What's more, at Home, that interest is compounded daily and paid day in to day out. No bank can match those terms! Ask any Home teller or savings counselor to help you open a Christmas Account for '76.

The old spinning wheel, so common to colonial houses, is a simple machine for spinning yarn or thread. It has a large wheel that is turned by hand or by a foot pedal.

Spinning is the process of twisting fibers into yarn or thread.

To make thread on a spinning wheel, the spinner pulls some of the fibers from a roll of straightened wool or cotton and fastens them to the end of a pulley-driven spindle.

While drawing out the fibers, the spinner turns the wheel, which spins the spindle. The spindle, in turn, twists the drawn fibers into one continuous thread, which winds around a spool.

Only one thread can be made at a time on a spinning wheel. After the thread is made, it can be woven into cloth on a machine called a loom.

Today, most spinning and weaving is done in factories. Modern spinning machines can make hundreds of threads at a time.

Food communicates friendly feelings

In this age of elaborate and highly technical communication systems, it's reassuring to remember that thoughts and feelings can be conveyed by something as simple as food. With food you can say "Let's celebrate" or "I'm proud of you" or "Thank you."

When the feeling is warm and happy and you want to say "Glad you came," send the message in the form of a relaxed, homey meal centered around a pork loin roast. The minute guests enter the house and smell the marvelous aroma of pork roasting in the oven, they'll read your message loud and clear.

The excellent eating quality and high nutritional value of the pork roast tell family and friends how much you care for them. The roast is also a good selection for company as it leaves the cook free to spend time with guests. Once the roast is in the oven, it requires only an casional check. A meat thermometer placed in the center of the roast will indicate when the tender pork is done to perfection.

Spicy Sweet Potato Balls complement the pork deliciously while saying to diners that they are worth the extra thought and time required to make something really special for them to enjoy. Mashed sweet potatoes are spiced, formed into balls and rolled in graham cracker crumbs for a sweet crunchy coating. If desired, miniature marshmallows can be concealed in the center for flavor interest. The balls can be made in advance and refrigerated, then slipped into the oven to heat through while the roast is setting before carving.

Freshly baked bread always carries a warm message with it. You may want to make the bread from scratch or, for convenience sake, start with frozen bread dough that requires only rising and baking. Broccoli spears and warm apple crisp served with cream complete this menu that's worth a thousand words.

PORK LOIN ROAST

4- to 6-pound pork loin roast

Place roast, fat side up, on rack in oven roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part. Make certain bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water; do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees) until the thermometer registers 170 degrees. Allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound for a center loin roast; 35 to 40 minutes per pound per for a half loin; 40 to 45 minutes per pound for a smaller blade or sirloin roast.

Have the meat retailer loosen the chine (back) bone by sawing across the rib bones. When roasting is finished, the back bone can be removed easily by running the carving knife along the edge of the roast before the meat is placed on the platter to be carved.

SPICY SWEET POTATO BALLS

3 pounds sweet potatoes, cooked and pared or 2 cans (17 to 18 ounces each) sweet potatoes, heated and drained
2 tablespoosns brown sugar

Form mixture into balls, using 1/3 cup for each ball, and placing 3 miniature marshmallows in center of each ball, if desired. Dredge balls in graham cracker crumbs; place in baking pan and bake in hot oven (400 degrees) 10 to 15 minutes. Yield: 8 sweet potato balls. If canned sweet potatoes in syrup are used, omit brown sugar.

Pork pie makes a comeback

Meat and vegetable pies are making a comeback as cooks stretch the food budget. These hearty dishes are welcome additions to the weekly family menu since they make use of leftover meat, such as pork, and fill a yen for pastry. Serve with a pineapple-cottage cheese gelatin mold.

1 jar (10 ounces) grape preserves
½ cup ketchup
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 medium clove garlic, minced
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 package (1 pound, 8 ounce) frozen mixed vegetables for stew

Stir in salt and ice water until mixture leaves sides of bowl and forms a ball. Roll out on lightly floured board to fit top of casserole. Transfer to top of pie. Pinch to seal edges to baking dish. Cut slits in top of pastry. If desired, use scraps to decorate top of pastry. Combine egg yolk and milk. Brush top of pastry. Combine egg yolk and milk. Brush top of pastry. Sweet potato standards under study again

The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has made a second proposal to revise the U. S. grade standards for canned sweet potatoes, following comments received on the first proposal made in the Feb. 2, 1973, Federal Register. The main changes are in the recommended minimum drained weights which would be lower than originally proposed but slightly higher than present standards.

The second proposal, like the first, would also provide more specific quality limits than the current standards. This should mean that canned sweet potatoes packed according to the U.S. grade standards would have more uniform color and at least slightly better flavor and odor. In addition, the proposed revision would clarify definitions of, and allowances for, different kinds of defects and texture.

The proposed standards would cover for the first time sweet potato "sections" —cylindrical pieces about 2 inches long — and sweet potatoes with added flavorings, spices, artifical sweetners, and garnishes such as pineapple and orange segments.

The grade names in the canned sweet potato standards would be changed to U.S. Grade A and U.S. Grade B, to bring the terminology in line with standards for other canned and frozen fruits and vegetables. The present standards, which have been in effect since 1951, provide for U.S. Grades A and C. The proposal would also eliminate the optional use of U.S. Fancy for Grade A and U.S. Extra Standard for Grade A.

Because of comments received on the minimum drained weights recommended in the 1973 proposal, USDA specialists made a study of processing capabilities during the 1973 packing season. Drained weight provisions are not a part of the grade standards but are for optional use of packers.

As a result of the study, the recommended drained weight in the present proposal are lower than those proposed in 1973. They are, however, slightly higher than those in the present standards. The recommendations also cover a wider range of can sizes to provide for the variety of cans now used in packing sweet patotes. Drained weight is determined by weighing the sweet potato content of the finished product after draining off the packing liquid.

The proposal would also permit processors to determine sweet potato content by the fill weight method instead of drained weight. In the fill weight procedure, sweet potato content is measured before the packing liquid is added and the can is sealed. The fill weight procedure would assure more uniformly filled containers. This would give the consumer a more consistent amount of sweet potato and the packer better control of his product.

This proposal was published in the Oct. 20 Federal Register. Written comments should be sent in duplicate to the Hearing Clerk, Room 112-A, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washingp-ton, D.C. 20250, no later than Dec. 31, 1975. Copies of the proposed revision may be obtained from the Fruit and Vegetable Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

NITRATE, NITRITE

The USDA has announced that it will shortly propose regulations to terminate the use of most nitrate and reduce the use nitrites in the curing of meat and poultry products.

The proposal will be based on recommendations made by the Secretary's Expert Panel on Nitrite and Nitrosamines, according to Dr. Harry C. Mussman, Associate Administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS).

The panel has recommended that the level of nitrite used as a cure be set at 156 parts per million (ppm) in all categories except bacon and dry cured products. Residual nitrite levels would be reduced from 200 to 100 ppm in cooked sausage; to 125 ppm in pickle cured and canned, cured, shelf stable or perishable products; and 50 ppm in canned, cured sterile products.

"These recommendations take into account the danger of botulism poisoning if too little nitrite is used, as weighed against the potential hazard of cancer resulting from nitrosamine formation," Dr. Mussman said.

"Because of the botulism threat, we cannot pull nitrites out of the meat curing process immediately. However, by eliminating nitrate, we can have better control over the levels of nitrites used in curing," Dr. Mussman continued. "Both the Expert Panel and APHIS feel this addional control should result in maximum consumer protection against both health hazards."

Dr. Mussman said that tests on fried bacon have shown detectable levels of nitrosopyrrolidine, a nitrosamine and a carcinogen. However, the levels encountered in bacon have been falling steadily and, are now found at levels around 10 to 20 parts per billion.

The Expert Panel recommended that nitrate be banned from cooked sausage including frankfurters; canned, curec, perishable or shelf stable products (canned hams and corned beef); canned, cured sterile products; and bacon.

Dr. Mussman said that, in cooperation with industry, research is being carried out in a number of laboratories to determine how the formation of nitrosamines in bacon can be prevented. Entirely new processing procedures may be needed to attain the maximum possible reduction.

Crackling fruit from Chinese

Chinese cooking grows in popularity as men, especially, find they enjoy the chopping and quick mixing of ingredients that highlight this cuisine. Those who want to add to their Chinese menu for family or for friends can serve a traditional Chinese crackling fruit dessert similar to one they would get in a restaurant. Although this recipe includes plums, strawberries, bananas and grapes, you may use your other favorite fruits for variety.

CHINESE CRACKLING FRUIT

- ½ cup light corn syrup
- ¾ cup water
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 tablespoons sesame seeds
- 1½ pounds fresh California plums, halved
- 1 basket strawberries
- 2 bananas, peeled and cut into chunks
- 1 pound fresh California seedless grapes, separated into small clusters
- Bamboo skewers
- Bowl of ice water

Combine corn syrup, water and sugar in a two and one-half quart saucepan. Cook over high heat, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Boil until temperature reaches 300 degrees on a candy thermometer. Pour syrup into a chafing dish over a simmering water bath. Add sesame seeds. Adjust heat to keep syrup at a gentle simmer. Skewer fruit onto bamboo skewers and dip into syrup. Plunge into ice water. Remove and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Piquant cranberries enhance flavor of goose

There are many varieties of geese and they are found around the globe from Lapland to Spain, Scotland to China, from North and South America to the Hawaiian archipelago.

For a truly magnificent and exciting dining experience, a roast goose can create quite a sensation. It surely should be considered in lieu of the more usual main course for a special occasion or holiday feast.

Whether wild or domestic, the gamey flavor of goose is definitively enhanced by the piquancy of tangy cranberries. "Grand Roast Goose with Cranberry Dressing" is succulently tasteful. A dressing combining bacon, onion, cranberry-orange relish, celery, bread and orange juice seasons the goose and creates a total aromatic and palatable pleasure. To elegantly and edibly garnish your handsome goose platter, "Redberry Relish Apple Cups" are the perfect addition. Scalloped green apples are filled with an easy to make relish mix of whole berry cranberry sauce, sugar, celery and onion.

Anoint your goose on serving with a subtly flavored "Tarragon Sauce" prepared from goose broth, roast goose drippings, fresh or dried tarragon, flour and condiments. Either place this herbed sauce over each serving or pass in a sauceboat. Either way, it will be most welcome.

A fresh vegetable that is most suitable to this dinner is "Cauliflower with Berry Bread Topping." The mild taste of this vegetable is perked up by a light topping made of a tangy sauteed mixture of onions, cranberry-orange relish, bread crumbs and parsley. Not only does it add a color spark to the cauliflower but a very pleasing taste accent as well

Before dinner, or for refreshing sipping at any time, "Sparkling Cranorangerie" is a delightfully light, and bubbly beverage. Made with jellied cranberry sauce, cranberry juice cocktail, orange juice, and club soda, its special bouquet will complement the flavors found in the other elements of this grand goose feast.

GOOSE WITH CRANBERRY DRESSING

- 1 goose, about 15 pounds
- Salt and pepper
- ½ pound bacon, chopped
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 cup cranberry-orange relish
- 2 cups chopped celery
- 1 loaf (1 pound) firm type white bread, cut into ½ inch cubes and toasted in oven until brown
- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning

Sprinkle goose inside and out with salt and pepper. In a large skillet, fry bacon and onion until bacon is crisp. Pour entire contents of skillet into a large bowl. Stir in cranberry-orange relish, celery, bread cubes, orange juice, salt, poultry seasoning. Toss to mix thoroughly. Use mixture to stuff goose. Sew or skewer opening. Place goose on a rack in a deep roasting pan. Prick entire skin with a two-tined fork to allow fat to escape. Roast in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 4 hours, pouring off excess fat from time to time.

REDBERRY RELISH APPLE CUPS

- 8 to 10 green apples
- Lemon juice
- 2 cans (1 pound each) whole berry cranberry sauce
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 cup water
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 cup chopped celery

Slice top from green apples, and thin slice from bottom so apples sit level. Scoop out apples leaving a shell about ¾ inch thick. Scallop edges of apples. Brush cut surface with lemon juice. In a saucepan combine whole berry cranberry sauce, sugar and water, onion and celery. Bring to a boil and boil for 5 minutes. Cool and then chill. Spoon mixture into apples and place around goose which has been placed on a serving platter.

TARRAGON SAUCE

- ½ cup drippings from goose
- ½ cup all-purpose flour
- 4 cups goose broth, made from giblets
- 2 teaspoons crumbled tarragon or 2 tablespoons chopped fresh tarragon
- Salt and pepper

In a saucepan, mix drippings and flour. Gradually stir in broth and tarragon. Stir until sauce bubbles and thickens. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

CAULIFLOWER WITH BERRY BREAD TOPPING

- 2 large heads cauliflower
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 2 large onions, chopped
- ½ cup finely chopped parsley
- 1 cup cranberry-orange relish
- 3 cups dry bread crumbs
- Salt

In a large Dutch oven place cauliflower heads, add 2 teaspoons salt and 2 cups water, bring to boil, reduce heat to low, simmer covered, 20 to 30 minutes until cauliflower is easily pierced. Drain. In a skillet, heat butter and saute onions until golden. Stir in parsley and cranberry-orange relish; saute 5 minutes. Stir in bread crumbs and salt to taste. Lift cauliflower onto serving dish using wide spatula and top by sprinkling with hot cranberry crumbs.

SPARKLING CRANORANGERIE

- 1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce
- 2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
- 4 cups orange juice, chilled
- 2 cups club soda, chilled
- Quartered orange slices

In a saucepan, mix jellied cranberry sauce and cranberry cocktail. Bring to a boil and boil until jellied sauce is melted. Press entire mixture through a sieve into large bowl. Chill. Beat in orange juice and slowly stir in club soda. Pour into large pitcher or punch bowl. Garnish glasses with orange slices.

Ginger root freezes well

Fresh ginger root keeps well in the freezer. You can grate some of the frozen ginger and then return the rest of the root to the freezer. Try using a little of the ginger root, along with scallion and bay leaf, when you are making chicken broth from chicken necks, wing tips, gizzards and hearts.

Stretch beef $$ easily

Any cut of beef is a good value, nutritionally speaking. The choicest and least expensive cuts alike contain the same complete protein and other essential nutrients such as iron and the B vitamins. Stretch your beef dollar by taking advantage of specials at the meat counter, too. Steaks and roasts can be kept frozen at zero degrees for 6 to 8 months.

Poisoning precaution

When you are freezing leftover turkey and dressing put the meat and the stuffing in separate small containers. The use of small containers is advised so that the center of the package as well as the sides will freeze quickly. Microbiologists suggest this method as a safeguard against food poisoning.

Add a bunch of glamour to your favorite dish

The delicate yet distinctive flavor of fresh table grapes has intrigued man for centuries. Grapes date back to ninth century Rome, when Roman epicureans discovered the grape's pleasing culinary qualities. They were brought to America by the Spanish padres who planted the precious vines at their California missions. Today, almost all the table grapes in the country are grown in California's fertile vineyards. So, naturally, California-style cuisine includes many fine fresh grape recipes.

California grapes add glamour and flavor to all manner of food. With all their juice enclosed in delicate thin skins, grapes just naturally make any dish juicier and more appealing. For example, Californians add them to a honey lemon basting sauce for roast pork, to light creamy wine sauces for baked poultry, and to stuffings for Cornish game hens and roast chicken.

When adding fresh grapes to favorite recipes, as well as for out-of-hand snacking, the California table grape growers offer these tips for selecting and storing fresh grapes: Look for plump, firm grapes that cling tightly to pliable green stems. They'll be the freshest. Because grapes are ripe when harvested, they should be stored in the refrigerator soon after purchase. That way, they'll stay bright and fresh for several days. Then, just wash grapes under a gentle spray of water and pat dry. They're ready to enjoy so many delicious ways.

In keeping with the California tradition, here's a dinner idea from the home economists for the California table grape growers. California Mission Chicken features mild-flavored chicken simmered in a fruity-wine sauce, then laced with peaches and fresh California grape halves before serving. Any of the fall California grapes arriving in markets can be used in this recipe. Red, green and blue-black grape varieties are abundant now, and several will be on hand to enjoy through the holidays and early winter months.

For more exciting ways to use and serve fresh California grapes this fall, write for your copy of "Grapery." This distinctive new booklet celebrates the fine art of beautifying food with grapes. Included are some 25 recipes alongside vivid color photos illustrating how California grapes can add luster and versatility to any table. To order, send 35 cents in coin to cover postage and handling to: "Grapery", P.O. Box 5498, Fresno, California 93755.

CALIFORNIA MISSION CHICKEN

- 2 cups fresh California grapes, halved and seeded
- 2 canned peach halves, quartered
- ¼ cup dry white wine
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2¼ pound broiler-fryer chicken, cut in pieces
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon ground ginger
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- ½ clove garlic, peeled

In mixing bowl, combine grapes with peach, wine and sugar. Set aside. Combine flour, salt, paprika and ginger; roll chicken in mixture. In skillet, heat oil with garlic; discard garlic. Slowly brown chicken on both sides. Drain marinade from fruit into skillet. Cover tightly; simmer until chicken is tender, about 20 minutes. Add fruit and cook uncovered until fruit is thoroughly heated, about 5 minutes.

FALL GRAPE HARVEST

With most of the summer fruits disappearing from markets, it's nice to remember that fresh California grapes are one fruit that's available every season of the year. The arrival of autumn marks the harvesting of some of the more colorful and flavorful fresh California table grape varieties. Nine of the fourteen major grape varieties are in our markets from now through the fall season, and some will be here into the new year. Look for red, green and blue-black California grapes, especially the following grape varieties:

— ALMERIAS AND CALMERIAS: The "rhyming" grapes, these green grapes are in the produce section through February. Both are mild tasting. To tell the difference: the Calmeria berries are slightly more elongated than the Almeria.

— EMPEROR: Available now through April, this red grape has a brisk cherry flavor and large, full clusters.

— RIBIER: Often called the "King of the Blacks," this luscious jet-black grape is mild and sweet, marvelous in salads and desserts. Available through February.

LUNCH WITH A BUNCH OF GRAPES

Fresh California grapes, the original snack food, are healthy and convenient lunch bag additions for office or school. No fixing, no fussing, no waste. They come in pull-from-the-stem bite sizes (great for feeding one) and are prepackaged by Mother Nature in a crisp, protective skin so they will not darken or become soggy when cut. Sweet grapes are portable, thirst-quenching and are kind to the figure — a cupful provides only about 100 calories. Try some of these "grape" totable ideas:

— Pack red, green and blue-black California grapes with swiss cheese, crusty bread and deli meats for a noontime "picnic."

— Stir seeded grape halves into cottage cheese; re-pack into cottage cheese container. At lunchtime, scoop onto lettuce or watercress for a low-calorie, satisfying midday meal. Round out the menu with a thermos of hot soup and a crusty roll.

— Include seeded and halved grapes in chicken, turkey, or tuna salads. Tote to work or school in disposable foam cups or empty plastic containers.

— No time in the morning to fix a midafternoon snack for office or school? It takes no time at all to wrap up a wedge of cheese and a large bunch of crisp California grapes.

PARTY IDEAS

Here are some marvelous ideas for your fall and holiday entertaining with fresh California table grapes:

— Freeze small clusters of fresh grapes several hours before your party. Float in your punch bowl for colorful, edible "ice cubes". Unlike ice, they won't water down your punch.

— Drop a grape in glas-

Homemade casserole mix a money saver

The old adage "time is money" has a contemporary ring. Women who are employed, or have been, know the value of their time and aim to spend it wisely. As for money, everyone knows how hard it is to make the food dollars stretch from pay day to pay day. So tricks that save both time and money are in great demand.

Every cook knows that mixes save time. When you make your own, they save money, too. So recipes for good mixes are the newest additions to the thrifty cook's bag of culinary tricks.

A mix that will stand you in good stead is this versatile casserole mix. A perfect blend of ingredients go into this homemade mix — nonfat dry milk powder, pure natural corn starch, powdered chicken bouillon and a judicious blend of herbs. With it you can speedily put together a variety of casseroles. So measure out all the ingredients for enough mix to thicken and season several casseroles and store it in a jar or canister.

Here are three good casseroles using the mix. After you've sampled these, go creative and dream up others.

The recipe for the Casserole Sauce Mix and three casseroles using it were developed at Best Foods.

MACARONI AND CHEESE

- 2 cups water
- ¾ cup Casserole Sauce Mix (recipe follows)
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 2½ cups grated cheddar cheese
- 4 cups cooked elbow macaroni
- 1 tomato, seeded and chopped
- 1 green pepper, chopped
- ¼ cup dried bread crumbs

Grease 2-quart casserole. In medium saucepan gradually stir water into casserole mix until smooth; add margarine. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and boils 1 minute. Remove from heat. Add 2 cups of the cheese stirring until cheese is melted. Add macaroni, tomato and green pepper. Toss together until well mixed. Pour into prepared casserole. Spoon bread crumbs around edge of casserole. Sprinkle center with remaining cheese. Bake in 375 degree oven 25 minutes or until casserole is hot, crumbs are browned and cheese has melted. Makes 6 servings.

CHICKEN AND GREEN BEAN CASSEROLE

- 3 cups water
- ¾ cup Casserole Sauce Mix (recipe follows)
- ¼ cup margarine
- 2 cups cooked, cubed chicken
- 1 package (9 ounces) frozen Italian green beans, thawed
- 3 cups cooked rice
- 1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Grease 2-quart casserole. In medium saucepan gradually stir water into casserole sauce mix until smooth; add margarine. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and boils 1 minute. In a large bowl stir together sauce, chicken, green beans, rice and cheese. Turn into prepared casserole. Bake in 350-degree oven 25 minutes or until casserole is hot. Makes 6 servings.

TUNA BROCCOLI CASSEROLE

- 3 cups water
- ¾ cup Casserole Sauce Mix (recipe follows)
- 1/3 cup margarine
- 2 cans (7 ounces each) tuna, drained and flaked
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped broccoli, thawed
- 3 cups cooked egg noodles
- ½ cup shredded Swiss cheese

Grease 2-quart casserole. In medium saucepan gradually stir water into casserole sauce mix until smooth; add margarine. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and boils 1 minute. In a large bowl stir together sauce, tuna, broccoli, noodles and cheese. Turn into prepared casserole. Bake in 350-degree oven 25 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

CASSEROLE SAUCE MIX

- 2 cups nonfat dry milk powder
- ¾ cup corn starch
- ¼ cup powdered chicken bouillon
- 4 teaspoons onion powder
- 1 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
- 1 teaspoon dried basil leaves
- ½ teaspoon pepper

In medium bowl stir together dry milk powder, corn starch, bouillon, onion powder, thyme, basil and pepper. Store at room temperature in tightly covered jar. Makes 3 cups or enough for 4 casseroles.

RYE LIGHT BREAD

- 3 cups white flour
- Two ¼-ounce packets dry yeast
- 1 cup milk
- ¾ cup water
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1½ cups about medium rye flour

In large electric mixer bowl stir together 2 cups of the white flour and the yeast. Heat milk, water, butter, salt and sugar until warm (120 to 130 degrees); add to yeast mixture. Beat at low speed, scraping bowl constantly, for ½ minute. Beat at high speed for 3 more minutes. Stir in the remaining 1 cup white flour and enough rye flour to form a workable dough. Knead until smooth and elastic — about 10 minutes. Cover and let rest 20 minutes. Form into 2 loaves. Place in 2 buttered loaf pans (each about 8 by 4 by 3 inches). Let rise in draftfree, warm (80 degrees) place until doubled — about 45 minutes. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven about 45 minutes. Makes 2 loaves.

Chicken's good money stretcher

In this era of constantly increasing food prices, how do you go about the daily task of providing good, nourishing and interesting meals for the family?

Chicken is a dependable, low-cost protein source — and one of the most versatile meats you can buy. Its gentle flavor teams well with such dollar stretchers as rice and fruit, and when the fruit is golden canned pineapple from Hawaii, you have added a Midas touch to your menu.

"Pineapple Citrus Chicken" joins canned sliced pineapple and fresh citrus fruit to give an extra tangy flavor. Use the meatier parts of the chicken for this dish and reserve the rest for a soup base, for more savings.

Extra zip in the pineapple-chicken combination comes from a hint of garlic and a bit of mustard in the sauce that glazes the mixture. Parsley, Parmesan cheese and grated orange peel mixed and sprinkled over the finished dish give contrast to the fruity flavor, and color interest to the hot cooked rice companion.

PINEAPPLE CITRUS CHICKEN

- 6 pieces frying chicken, about 2 pounds (use half breasts, legs and thighs)
- 2 tablespoons shortening or oil
- 1 (1 pound 4 ounce) can pineapple slices
- 1 (10¾ ounce) can condensed chicken broth
- ¼ cup syrup from pineapple
- 1½ tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pressed garlic (1 small clove)
- 4 small oranges
- Parsley-Cheese Topping
- Hot cooked rice

Remove bone tip from legs. Cut thighs and breasts in halves. (If you prefer, have the butcher do this for you or use the pieces whole.) In a large skillet brown chicken slowly in shortening or oil until golven. Drain pineapple, reserving ¼ cup syrup. Combine chicken broth, reserved syrup, cornstarch, mustard, salt and garlic. Stir until mixture is smooth. Drain and discard excess fat from chicken.

Add the broth mixture, and stir until mixture boils and thickens. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 15 minutes. Grate ¼ teaspoon orange peel from one orange, and set aside for topping. With a sharp knife, pare oranges, removing white membrane. Cut fruit into ¼-inch slices. Add drained pineapple slices and oranges to chicken. Return to boil, cover and simmer 5 minutes longer. Prepare Parsley-Cheese Topping. Sprinkle chicken with the topping; serve with rice. Makes 4 servings.

PARSLEY-CHEESE TOPPING: Combine 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese and ¼ teaspoon grated orange peel.

To serve, pack hot cooked rice into buttered custard cups and invert onto serving platter. Top each mound with a pineapple slice. Arrange chicken and remaining fruit onto the platter with rice. Top each pineapple mound with some of the Parsley-Cheese Topping; sprinkle remainder over chicken mixture.

Fish is great in diet

For many people concerned with nutrition and good health, and especially for the cholesterol-conscious, fish plays an important role in the diet. Fish is a great source of protein and it is lower in calories, cholesterol and saturated fat than red meat.

Unfortunately many women don't consider fish when planning their weekly menus. Good fresh fish is hard to find in some areas and frozen fillets lack convenience for today's woman on the go. Busy homemakers need to have several cupboard recipes that they can rely on when time gets short to help put a nutritious and satisfying meal on the table.

This back-to-basics salmon loaf captures the best of both worlds. It is high in protein, low in fat, like most seafood and canned salmon makes it a convenient dish for hectic days. Taking just minutes to prepare and 40 minutes to bake, you can have dinner on the table in less than 1 hour.

To further reduce the amount of cholesterol and saturated fat in this flavorful salmon loaf, the recipe calls for cholesterol-free egg substitute in place of whole eggs. This simple substitution in cooking and baking won't be noticed by anyone, and you'll be helping to guard your family's health by keeping cholesterol intake at a moderate level.

Serve this savory salmon loaf with a light cream sauce made with skim milk and a hint of mustard for a delightful flavor accent. Round out the menu with a green vegetable, salad, whole wheat bread and fresh fruit for dessert.

SALMON LOAF SUPREME

- 2 cans (7-¾ ounces each) salmon, drained
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon corn oil margarine
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- ¼ cup skim milk
- ½ cup Cholesterol-free Egg Substitute*
- 1½ cups fresh bread crumbs
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- Cream Sauce (recipe below)

Flake salmon and remove bones. Set aside.

Saute onion in margarine until tender, about 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Add flaked salmon, parsley, milk, Egg Beaters, bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Place in a greased shallow 1-½ quart baking dish. Shape mixture into a 9x4x2-inch loaf.

Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve with Cream Sauce (recipe below). Makes 6 servings.

CREAM SAUCE: In saucepan saute 2 tablespoons chopped onion in 2 tablespoons corn oil margarine until tender. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon dry mustard. Gradually stir in 1-¼ cups skim milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil.

Baby beef extra good

Don't overlook baby beef for busy-day cooking and last-minute company. This extra tender, lean and mild-flavored young beef takes only minutes to cook. One of the best and easiest preparations is a "saute and sauce" treatment. Select thin slices of round or sirloin tip to quickly pan fry. A sauce made by deglazing the pan with broth, wine and seasoning is delicious served over the succulent beef.

Diet and heart disease linked

Times and customs change. But many people do not realize that our diet patterns change along with other factors.

Dr. George Christakis, epidemiologist and nutritionist, is vitally interested today in the effect of nutritional excesses and deprivation on heart disease. He believes that times have changed greatly but that few people realize that diets are changing, too.

"Diet and heart disease are related in many ways," he says. "Coronary heart disease has swept this country like a plaque. It kills more people than anything else we suffer from. But recently, the picture has changed. It is not caused by any one factor, but rather by a complex of factors," he explains.

Formerly professor of Community Medicine at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York, and now clinical professor of epidemiology at Miami School of Medicine, he is

Imagination only limit to savings

What better way to celebrate the bicentennial than to balance the budget?

It's no small task, in these days of inflation, to balance that food budget while providing tasteful meals.

The secret? Careful planning and resourceful seasoning.

First and foremost for the budget-minded homemaker comes planning. Review what supplies are on hand and what is needed. Sketch out your menu for the week. Make a list. Lots of pennies are lost on impluse buying.

Corrdination is the key. Make what you've got in the cupboard and what you put on the shopping list work together. Got spahetti but no sauce? Include that in your list and plan an Italian dinner. Corrdinate the items you buy, too. If you're having meat loaf one night, make enough for sandwiches the following day.

Watch for specials. Newspapers carry plenty of ads, notes on bargain prices and sometimes coupons. Supermarkets promote reduced prices at the shelf, too. Try taking a quick walk through the store before you start shopping to check the lastest offerings. Make substitutions on your list as needed; pot roast may be cheaper than pork chops today. It pays, literally, to be flexible.

If you catch a good sale, buy in quantity. But be sure the product is one you use. Twenty cans of peas won't save you money if the family won't eat them.

Pay attention to fruits and vegetables in season. They cost less. Strawberries are for summer, apples for autumn. Some vegetables are almost always a good buy—like carrots. So try them many ways—fresh and buttered, glazed, in a carrot cake. And you can always stretch a season by canning for later use.

Once back in the kitchen, the challenge is creative flavoring. The right seasoning can make Wednesday's chicken casserole taste delightfully different from Monday's baked chicken. According to a survey, the five most popular condiments are salt, pepper, onion, parsley and garlic—so keep them on hand. Or use a prepared seasoning blend, which contains all five. Other spices are handy on the racks, too. Dill, great with fish, seafood or in a dip with fresh vegetables. Oregano, for that instant Italian flavor or curry for the Indian touch. Tarragon, a subtle accent for eggs, vegetables and caseroles. Cinnamon and nutmeg for cooked fruits and desserts.

And the list goes on. Your only limit is your imagination. It's a shade more work, but your family and your bank account will love it.

Melons are easy to grow

New varieties of melons especially adapted to different climates are being developed so that melons can be included in your garden with ease. The most common melons for the home gardener are the cantaloupe, musk melon or watermelon.

There are countless ways to serve melons: served alone cut in wedges or in combinations with other fruits, or as in the case of cantaloupe, served with thin slices of ham. Melon balls make an attractive way to serve fruit cup with sherry, port, or sauterne wine. The melon may be hallowed out and filled with the fruit mixture for a festive dessert. Watermelon rind may be pickled. For a refreshing, attractive dessert try Melon and Berry Wine Bowl from the new Ortho book, "When the Good Cook Gardens."

MELON AND BERRY WINE BOWL

- ½ watermelon
- 1 honeydew melon
- 2 cantaloupe
- 2 cups strawberries, stems removed
- 1/10 bottle Chablis Blanc or other dry white wine (about 1 and 2/3rds cups)
- 2 tablespoons orange liqueur or
- 1 tablespoon undiluted orange juice concentrate
- 3 tablespoons sugar mint sprigs

Halve melons, scoop out seeds. Use melon ball cutter to scoop out balls of fruit. Place in a large bowl, each in a distinct layer. Add berries and pour over wine and liqueur. Sprinkle with sugar. Cover, chill at least 2 hours. Serve in glass bowls, garnished with mint sprigs. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Now that many of us are using foods other than meat or fish for a supper main course, you might like to try a Meatless Chow Mein.

This dish has celery and fresh mushrooms as its mainstay, both at their peak supply from fall through spring. The celery, one of our thriftiest fresh vegetables, contributes substance and the mushrooms their delectable flavor. The almonds sprinkled over the chow mein add "meatiness" plus crunchy charm. An economical way to have the nuts on hand is to buy whole unblanched almonds, then skin and roast them yourself.

By the way, if you are the fortunate possessor of one of the fabulous new French food processors, this dish is an absolute breeze to prepare. You can slice the celery and mushrooms and chop the onion and green pepper needed for it in practically seconds — so swift is the processor.

MEATLESS CHOW MEIN

- 1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
- 1 cup hot water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon ground ginger
- ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 1 tablespoon Japanese-type soy sauce
- 3 tablespoons peanut oil
- 1 quart thinly sliced celery
- ½ pound thinly sliced mushrooms, about 3 cups
- 2 small onions, finely chopped (about ½ cup)
- ½ of a green pepper, finely chopped (1/3rd to ½ cup)
- ½ cup whole blanched roasted almonds
- Hot cooked rice
- Canned crisp Chinese noodles

In a measure dissolve the bouillon in the hot water with the salt, ginger and garlic powder; set aside.

In a small container stir together the cornstarch, water and soy sauce until smooth; set aside.

In a 10-inch skillet over moderately low heat, heat the oil; add the celery, mushrooms, onion and green pepper; cook, stirring often, about 5 minutes. Add the bouillon mixture; increase the heat and bring to boiling. Reduce heat, cover and simmer until celery is tendercrisp — 3 to 5 minutes, depending on just how thin the celery is sliced.

Push vegetables to one side of skillet. Into liquid in other side of skillet stir the cornstarch mixture; cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and boiling; mix with the vegetables. Sprinkle with the almonds.

Serve at once over rice; pass the noodles.

Makes 4 servings.

Note: The combination of celery, mushrooms and soy sauce cooked in this fashion produces a drab looking dish, but not everything good to eat has to have a spectacular appearance!

Eggplant doesn't need to be stored in the refrigerator, but use it while its skin is still glossy and unwrinkled.

FRIED RICE ROLLS — Party fun with hors d'oeuvres in an Oriental style. Put a small spoonful of rice mixture in the center of a lettuce leaf; fold in both sides; then roll up from one end.

Diet and heart disease . . .

deep in studies of the effect of what we eat on our coronary system.

"The concept of risk factors in coronary heart disease, a new theory, must be understood by every male in the country. Women past 50 come into the picture, too. But now enough people are aware of it. And that includes many professionals in the health professions."

Here is an oversimplified picture of risk factors that may induce coronary heart disease, according to Dr. Christakis. Factor: Age and sex, level of blood pressure, level of serum cholesterol, predisposition to diabetes, exercise status, family history of heart disease, personality type, smoking, level of serum triglyceride, weight status, and yet to be discovered variables associated with coronary heart disease.

Dr. Christakis explains the interrelationship between all the factors. Not one, not two, but several of them together affect the system depending on the individual.

Each of us has a coefficient that is inserted with each variable and defines the relative potency of that specific factor in the coronary heart disease equation. Thus, if the co-level of cholesterol is .9 (high for a particular individual) it may serve to 'crystallize" the other factors in a critical mass with sufficient impetus to trigger the induction of heart disease, he explains.

He lays considerable responsibility on high serum cholesterol. He says it has become generally recognized as one of the major risk factors. He sees a gradual downgrading of the risk effects of diet, with emphasis on cholesterol. He sees a changing eating pattern through shifts to nutritional chemistry in our foods.

"This entire subject of the risk factors — all of them involved in coronary heart attack — needs a vast informational campaign. It must reach the housewife and her family, the medical profession and other public health people. It is the wave of the future," he concludes.

BUTTERMILK BREAD

Delicious fresh from the oven or toasted.

- 4½ to 5½ cups flour
- 2 packages active dry yeast
- 1 cup buttermilk
- ¾ cup water
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2½ teaspoons salt

In the large bowl of an electric mixer stir together 1¾ cups of the flour and the undissolved yeast. In a saucepan stir together the buttermilk, water, butter, sugar and salt until warm — 120 to 130 degrees; pour into flour mixture. Beat at low speed ½ minute, scraping bowl constantly. Beat 3 more minutes at high speed. Gradually stir in enough more flour to make a workable dough. Knead until smooth — 5 to 10 minutes. Cover and let rest 20 minutes. Shape into 2 loaves and place in two greased loaf pans — each about 8 by 4 by 3 inches. Let rise in a warm draftfree place until doubled — about 45 minutes. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven about 30 minutes. Turn on wire racks and cool.

COMPANY MEATBALLS

- 20 packaged pitted prunes
- Dry sherry
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- ¾ cup milk
- ½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 small onion, finely grated
- 1¼ pounds ground beef
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 2 beef bouillon cubes dissolved in 1 cup boiling water

Soak prunes in 1-3rd cup sherry overnight. Mix together egg, milk, crumbs, salt, pepper, onion and beef. Shape a scant ¼ cup of the mixture (it will be very soft) around each prune; let stand for ½ hour to dry. In a large skillet in the hot oil, brown meatballs; remove them and pour off all fat except 1 tablespoon. Over low heat stir in flour; add bouillon; cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in ¼ cup sherry plus any liquid left from soaking prunes. Add meatballs and simmer, covered, for 20 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Fresh sausages such as thuringer, Italian sausage, bratwurst and fresh pork sausage are the most delicate of all sausage products. Refrigerate them immediately and use within a few days of purchase. For best result in preparation, never boil them say home economists for Union Carbide's Food Science Institute. They recommend gentle simmering, broiling, baking or frying.

Some of Italy's Sybaritic pleasures have been captured int two unusual restaurants in New York's Greenwich Village, where you can enjoy the gustatory delights of a Roman trattoria at Trattoria da Alfredo or revel in the typically Milanese cooking and ambience of Tavola Calda de Alfredo.

Both establishments are informal places where Village residents mingle with uptown folks and international celebrities who come from all over to savor the Northern Italian dishes.

Alfredo Viazzi, who owns and originated the two restaurants, is also a screenwriter and theatrical producer. He owes much of his knowledge and appreciation of good food to his mother, whose cooking provided the incentive for her family to dine in restaurants as often as possible.

One of Alfredo's most recent creations is his recipe for Lamb Conte Luigi which he serves with cucumber slices marinated in Fraise de Bois, a wild strawberry liqueur:

LAMB CONTE LUIGI

- 1 small Leg of lamb, prepared for cooking - preferably boned and trussed by your own butcher
- 1 pound butter
- 5 leaves fresh tarragon, chopped (or, 1 teaspoon dry tarragon)
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh Italian parsley
- 3 bay leaves
- 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- Sage
- Rosemary
- Salt
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 1¼ cup Cognac with Orange
- ¼ Cup Cherry Karise
- 1 cup consomme

Make rather deep insertions in lamb with sharp knife. Into each insertion stuff tarragon, garlic, parsley, salt and pepper, sage and rosemary. Place leg in pan with butter, and bay leaves and sprinkle it liberally with additional salt and pepper. Inject liqueurs into lamb at different points, using large syringe with a big needle. (Or marinate in liqueur overnight.)

Place pan on range and braise over brisk fire, basting frequently with pan liquid. Keep turning leg until it is well braised on all sides. Cook ½ hour, then place pan in preheated 470 degree oven for final cooking. Add consomme. (Taking into consideration the previous ½ hour of cooking time, lamb should be cooked 8-10 minutes per pound.)

Slice leg rather thinly and serve very hot with sauce from pan.

MARINATED CUCUMBERS

Wash 6 medium-sized cucumbers thoroughly, peel, slice to an eighth-inch thickness and place in a bowl. Sprinkle with salt. Pour ½ cup Fraise de Bois over cucumbers and marinate for about 1½ hours in refrigerator.

Serve cold with Lamb Conte Luigi.

A British thermal unit, the amount of heat required to raise one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit, is equivalent to 1,055 joules or about 252 gram calories.

Citrus sets Twain play

The Citrus Colege Theater Arts Division will present "Ah Sin," a four-act play by Mark Twain and Bret Harte, in the Auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"Ah Sin" was unveiled for the first time in 1877 and was a failure. The New York World and The Tribune applauded the show, and The Herald said that while it was well-received, it wasn't a good play. The New York Sun added that as a piece of dramatic work, "Ah Sin" was beneath criticism.

Written just after the apex of Harte's literary career and just before the peak of Twain's, "Ah Sin" became the basis of a heated battle between the two authors, and the work was never published. During one revision of the script, Twain said that he had "left hardly a footprint of Harte in it anywhere." The failure of the show left Twain denouncing Harte as "a liar, a thief, a swindler, a snob, a sot, a sponge, a coward a Jeremy Diddler," and finished by saying that his kindred literary luminary was "brimful of treachery."

Directed by Citrus drama department head Frederic G. Carlson, the production underwent minor changes to add music and comedy and correction of awkwardness of the script.

Featured in the production are Mike Friedman as Ah Sin; Joy Turner, Miss Tempest; Mary Mulvey, Mrs. Tempest; Debby Jones, Miss Plunkett, and Kathy Selke Mrs. Plunkett.

Others in the cast are David Rex, York; Yaya Masver, Broderick; Don Christenson, Plunkett, and John Dunbar, Judge Tempest.

Dehydrator demonstrated at Broadways

The Beay Beyer home dehydrator that does the job economically and effectively will be demonstrated in 15 Broadway Department Stores.

"Food prices are going to continue going up because of man-made conditions," says Bea Beyer, noted home economist, nutritionist and television personality. "Properly stored, dried food will keep for years in a minimum amount of space," adds Ms. Beyer.

Having spent years in product development for major food firms, she now brings her expertise to the new field of home dehydration of every type of food from meats and vegetables to yoghurt and cream cheese.

Bea Beyer will demonstrate the actual dehydration process plus the reconstruction and preparation of dehydrated foods in the Housewares department of selected Broadway stores.

Please refer to the attached for a listing of time and locations of Ms. Beyer's demonstrations.

HEAVENLY CAKE —Zuppa Amaretto is a heavenly custard-filled, liqueur-drenched cake — a festive way to end a meal.

A thrifty cook knows her beans

Serving your family an occasional meatless meal is easy . . . if you know your beans! Beans are a great source of protein, thiamine, riboflavin and iron. Beans are also a favorite with kids and so a sneaky way to get them to eat something that's really good for them!

Two new recipes from the R. T. French Co. in Rochester, N.Y., create two un-meatable main dishes with dry beans.

Buckeroos big and small will want seconds of Prairie Style Baked Beans. Dry navy beans bake in a flavorful barbecue sauce. The zesty barbecue accent comes from the addition of Worcestershire sauce. No need to yell, "Come and get it!", once the aroma of these hearty baked beans ropes 'em in. Stock your chuck wagon with fresh corn bread, a green salad, apples and cookies for dessert and milk or coffee to complete your ranch style menu.

Baked Lima and Apple Casserole takes advantage of plentiful apples to combine with nutritious limas in a savory casserole. Prepared yellow mustard lends a special tang while ground cinnamon imparts a subtle hint of spice. Round out your menu with coleslaw, warm muffins, ice cream topped with frozen strawberries and coffee and milk.

PRAIRE STYLE BAKED BEANS

- 1 pound dry navy beans
- 6 cups water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ cup honey
- ¼ cup catchup
- ¼ cup vinegar

Combine beans, water and salt; let stand overnight. Simmer 1 hour. Drain, saving liquid. Combine beans with 1 cup of the liquid, Worcestershire sauce, honey, catchup and vinegar. Spoon into 2-quart heavy casserole or bean pot. Cover and bake at 325 degrees for 2 to 3 hours, or until tender. Stir occasionally, adding more liquid if beans become too dry. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

BAKED LIMA AND APPLE CASSEROLES

- 1 pound dry lima beans
- 6 cups water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 3 apples, diced
- ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- ¼ cup prepared yellow mustard
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon

Combine beans, water, and salt; let stand overnight. Simmer 45 minutes. Drain, saving 1 cup liquid. Melt butter in small pan. Add onion; cook 5 minutes. Combine beans, apples, onion-butter mixture, sugar, mustard, cinnamon, and the 1 cup bean liquid. Spoon into heavy 2½-or 3-quart casserole or bean pot. Cover and bake at 325 degrees for 2 to 3 hours, until tender. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Imaginative idea from the French

The French are truly imaginative with their food. They are also economical to the core. It is claimed that one test of a fine French cook is her way with yesterday's meat. Taking this to heart at turkey time is the American homemaker who also can be a queen of leftovers with a Potee du Lendemain. Literally "next day's dish," this one combines turkey, noodles and herb-flavored French cheese plus, of course, a wine-flavored cream sauce. Top off the meal with fresh fruit and more cheese for dessert to be truly French.

POTEE DU LENDEMAIN (TURKEY CHEESE CASSEROLE)

- 1 package (8-ounces) medium noodles
- 1 package (5-ounce) Boursin, Belletoile or Tartare cheeses, herb-flavored
- 12 slices cooked turkey
- ½ cup butter
- 4 large onions, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, chopped
- 1 cup French dry white wine
- 2 cups (1 pint) half and half
- ½ teaspoon crumbled tarragon
- 1 cup bread crumbs (optional)

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and while they are hot pour them into a bowl and toss them with the cheese until noodles are coated with melted cheese. Pour into well-buttered 2-quart casserole. Top with turkey slices. In a skillet, heat butter and saute onion and garlic slowly until transparent but not brown. Pour onion mixture into blender and add wine. Whirl until smooth. Pour back into saucepan and stir in half and half and tarragon. Stir over low heat until sauce thickens, about 10 minutes. Pour evenly over turkey. If desired, sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake in preheated moderate oven for 35 to 40 minutes. Makes about 6 servings.

Survey reveals hold in grocery bills

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Supermarket shoppers found over-all grocery bills stayed fairly steady during October, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows. Increases in the price of chopped chuck, frozen orange juice and butter were balanced by declines in the cost of eggs, hot dogs and sugar.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and non-food items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

During October, the marketbasket total at the checklist store increased in six cities, up an average 3 per cent, and decreased in seven cities, down an average 2 per cent. Overall, the bill at the start of November was about a third of a per cent higher than it was a month earlier.

The situation was similar to that in September when the bill also increased at the checklist store in six cities and declined in seven.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has predicted that food prices will increase about 9 per cent during 1975, compared to a 14-per-cent-boost last year.

The biggest price fluctuation so far this year has been in sugar. At the start of 1975, a five-pound sack cost about $3. Prices have declined steadily since then and now average about $1.40 for a five-pound sack.

If sugar is included in the total, the AP survey shows the marketbasket bill has declined since the start of the year at the checklist store in 11 cities. If sugar is not included, however, the survey shows the marketbasket bill has increased at the checklist store in every city, up an average of 8.5 per cent.

Among other findings in the latest survey:

—The price of chopped chuck increased at the checklist store in nine of the 13 cities surveyed. The biggest boost was in Salt Lake City where the price of a pound of chopped chuck went from 73 cents to 85 cents, an increase of 16 per cent.

The higher prices reflect the grain-fed beef that is coming to market. Earlier this year, much of the meat in the supermarkets — particularly for hamburger — was less expensive grass-fed beef which generally is leaner and, some people believe, less tender than the grain-fed variety.

Pick-your-own system perfect

A "pick your own apples" operation in the Battle View Orchards near Monmouth, N.J., illustrates the growing tendency of many Americans to seek foods that are fresh. This same type of operation is carried on in New York, Michigan, Washington and other apple-growing states.

Norman Applegate, the owner of Battle View Orchards, explains that a few years ago he started the "pick your own apples" movement as a publicity and practical money-making venture. It has grown to hwere it is a paying part of his distribution system.

"Besides adjusting to the drift toward freshness as opposed to ready-to-serve, canned and frozen products, it offers a way to get our apples directly into homes. Consumers come to our orchard with baskets, large bags and cartons. They pick apples from the trees, weigh them at the gate, pay and go whizzing home, happy after a day in the country, and getting a batch of apples cheaper," he says. Usually whole families drive up.

"Trees are smaller than they used to be," Applegate explains. "makes picking easier — no ladders needed — and the yield is just as large. The trees today are about tall enough to be picked by the average-size person. There are a few taller trees to demonstrate difference in size.

"These apple-picking days in the orchard are probably the only chance many youngsters get to feel the country dirt under their feet and pick their own food," he says.

There are certain rules the visitors must follow. They join the "Pick Your Own Club" which costs only a dollar for the season. They pay 20 cents a pound as they leave. But no pets, cigarettes, alcohol or step ladders are allowed. Children must stay near their parents. They may pick all they want but can't shake the apples off the trees.

Helpful suggestion to amateur apple pickers: Hold apples in the palm of your hand, lift to one side and upward, then give a slight turn. Place them in a container gently.

"Apple growing faces many handicaps today," Applegate says. "Labor troubles. Men want more money and want it steadily. Apple jobs are seasonal. Most of the boys raised on farms go to the cities. But the biggest threats are the land developers. They want the land for suburban homes, not to raise apples."

His father and grandfather were both raised at Battleview Orchards. "To stay in the business, a man must have been born into it, love the smell and feel of apples, have lots of capital to ward off the real estate fellows and massive combines."

Meat-filled spuds can be a main dish

There are stuffed baked potatoes and there are stuffed baked potatoes. Meat-filled potato halves make a main dish that is complete with a fresh green salad and a treat such as a deep dish apple pie. The potato filling includes ground beef, American cheese, chives and dill.

DOUBLE DECK POTATO BOATS

3 large baking potatoes
1 pound ground beef
1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
½ cup catsup
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon dill weed
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup grated American cheese
1 teaspoon chopped chives
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Heat oven to 375 degrees.

Wash potatoes and cut in half lengthwise. From each half cut a lengthwise v-shaped wedge leaving about one quarter-inch of potato around top edge. Wrap each half in foil; wrap cut-out centers together. Place in shallow baking pan and bake in preheated 375 degree oven for 20 minutes. Meanwhile combine beef, oats, catsup, mustard, salt, dill weed and pepper in bowl; mix well. Shape to form 6 logs about 3 and one-half inches long.

Place meat log in center of each potato; close foil over meat and continue baking 40 minutes or until potatoes are soft and meat is cooked. To serve, mash cooked potato centers. Add cheese, chives and butter; mix well. Open each potato-meat log package. Top each serving with mashed potato mixture. Return to oven a few minutes to warm topping, if desired. Remove from foil and garnish with a "cheese flag."

Whole egg discussed

Egg producers and other egg lovers will be interested in a new publication "The Egg Book" coauthored by Gayle and Robert Fletcher Allen of La Crescenta, California.

Just off the press, "The Egg Book" is much more than a cookbook desite its multitude of fine recipes. This 185-page paperback publication covers such topics as "The Egg in History," "The Cholesterol Controversy," "Fats in Eggs," "The Eggs as an Antitoxin," "Eggs in your Pet's Diet," "Egg Quality," "Care and Treatment of Eggs," "Comparing Prices" and much more.

"It is full of history, art and nutritional information, yet is written simply and directly," reports the "Make Dining Fun" column of the Beverly Hills Courier newspaper, and this seems to be the general opinion of those who have reported reading the book.

The California Egg Program also holds a high opinion of "The Egg Book", its authors, and its value to the egg industry, so it is backing up that opinion by arranging radio and television interviews for the authors as well as all-media reviews of the publication. In addition, there are plans for extensive direct promotion for the book using egg carton inserts throughout the state.

More information and special quantity discounts offered to egg producers and handlers wishing to use "The Egg Book" for their own promotions, are available from the publisher, Celestial Press, 231 Adrian Road, Millbrae, California 94030.

Iced tea

Serving iced tea? Make double-strength tea and dilute it with cold water before pouring it over ice cubes. You may have clearer tea this way than if you pour regular hot tea over ice.

The hot roll tradition is on a comeback

Homemade hot rolls for Sunday dinner is an old family tradition that is being revived in many homes. Passing such hot rolls around the table, even with a simple dish, brings back a real "down home" feeling for those sharing such a meal. It is all part of the bread-baking revival.

Keeping the past in mind update old-fashioned yeast rolls by adding spicy sweet potatoes and oats to the dough for more taste and texture.

SWEET POTATO ROLLS
2 cakes compressed or 2 packages dry yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk, scalded
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
⅓ cup butter or margarine
1 cup mashed cooked or canned sweet potatoes or yams
5 to 5½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. (Use warm water for dry yeast.) Pour scalded milk over sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and butter in a large bowl. Add mashed sweet potatoes; beat until well blended. Stir in 1 cup flour and softened yeast. Add oats. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out onto lightly floured board or canvas. Knead until smooth and elastic, 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased large bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place until double in size, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down. Divide dough in half. Divide each half into 16 equal pieces. Shape each piece into a smooth ball. Place 16 rolls in each of 2 greased 9-inch square baking pans. Brush with melted or liquid shortening. Cover and let rise in warm place until nearly double in size, 25 to 30 minutes. Bake in preheated moderate oven 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 32 rolls.

withholding grain-fed livestock from market, claiming they were not being offered enough money. Wholesale prices have risen again and the cattlemen started shipping their grain-fed animals.

—Egg prices, which had been rising in recent months, dropped again. The price of a dozen eggs declined at the checklist store in nine of the cities surveyed and increased in only one — Albuquerque, N.M. The price was unchanged in the other three cities.

—The price of a pound of butter increased at the checklist store in eight of the cities surveyed, reflecting higher milk prices.

The USDA, in a report Friday on prices paid to farmers, said dairy prices went up 6 per cent in the month from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15, with milk reaching a record high. Prices farmers received for all agricultural products declined half a per cent during the month.

—Frozen orange juice prices, which have stayed steady for more than two years, increased last month. The price of a six-ounce can of frozen orange juice concentrate went up at the checklist store in seven of the cities surveyed.

A look at the over-all number of items in the AP survey showed fewer increases and more decreases in October than in September. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

	Oct.	Sept.
Up	28.2	29.7
Down	22.1	19.0
Unchanged	46.7	48.2
Unavailable	3.0	3.1

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the overall total.

The AP did not attempt to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that cookies cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 per cent in one city and 6 per cent in another.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. It includes 65 retail items of U.S. farm-produced foods in amounts that theoretically could supply a household of 3.2 persons for one year. The department, which draws on information from 1,500 supermarkets in compiling its report, says the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in costs.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

SAUSAGE SORCERY

Bologna and peanut butter, those all-american favorites, unite in this savory filling, proving two good ideas make one great sandwich. Blend 1 chopped seeded green pepper, ½ cup peanut butter and ¼ cup ground bologna. Refrigerate in covered container. Use as needed on white bread or buns. Makes 4 generous sandwiches.

Dishes from past return to favor

This is the year for digging out Granny's favorite cookbook and enjoying some forgotten family recipes. Good, old-fashioned American-style dishes will recall happy memories for the older generation and bring new delight to the young.

Wholesome fruit desserts are especially pleasing now that cooler weather is upon us. Traditional favorites such as pies, puddings, cobblers and dumplings, still warm from the oven, make a satisfying end to any meal.

Fruit dumplings are a classic homespun dish — fresh whole fruit wrapped in pastry and baked to a rich, golden brown. Here, instead of the customary apples, we have used pears. The Anjou and Bosc varieties are coming into season now and both are great for cooking or eating out of hand. Select pears that are firm, but not too hard. They should give slightly at the stem end.

This treasured dessert has the taste of yesteryear, but it is prepared with today's health concerns in mind. Made with 100 per cent corn oil margarine, these delicious pear dumplings are low in saturated fat and cholesterol.

For an imaginative flavor accent and sparkling eye appeal, top your pear dumplings with warm black raspberry sauce, easily prepared by melting seedless fruit preserves.

PEAR DUMPLINGS

1 cup unsifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup (½ stick) corn oil margarine
3 to 4 tablespoons ice water
4 small pears (about 1-½ pounds)
¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2 tablespoons corn oil margarine, softened
1 egg white, slightly beaten
½ cup seedless black raspberry preserves

Combine flour and salt in a bowl. Cut in ½ cup margarine with pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles coarse meal. Stir in ice water-mix lightly. Form dough into ball. Cover; refrigerate for 15 minutes.

Pare and core pears. Combine brown sugar and 2 tablespoons softened margarine. Fill centers of pears with brown sugar mixture.

On lightly floured board, roll out dough to a 12x12 inch square; cut into 4 6-inch square pieces. Brush squares with beaten egg white. Place a pear in center of each square. Bring points up around pears sealing edges together. Prick top.

Bake at 400 degrees about 35 minutes or until fruit is tender. Melt black raspberry preserves in small saucepan. Spoon melted preserves over hot dumplings. Makes 4 servings.

Sweet air

There's no reason your laundry hamper or any other area shouldn't be fresh-smelling, says Leslie Wood, consumer information specialist for Johnson Wax. She suggests that you use a continuous action air freshener such as new Glade Solid in closets, hampers, basements, kitchens and other odor-prone areas.

Stimulate

Brushing your hair helps stimulate the scalp and chase away dust and tangles. However, take care. Use a natural-bristle brush since the fibers have rounded ends and don't damage the hair as much as brushes with synthetic fibers.

Joyce Brothers
'All work - no play'

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: We moved into a new area about seven months ago and my husband and I were delighted that we actually liked our neighbors. We thought it especially nice when the couple next door became great pals since we both have children about the same age. Lately I've realized that we have totally different concepts about what young children should do with their time.

My husband and I feel that education, even at preschool age, is vitally important and that it leads to a successful future. We taught our eldest child to read long before he was ready for kindergarten and we've never been too strong for playgrounds. We both think there are better ways for children to spend their time. The children next door spend almost all of their time playing and their mother takes the preschool children to the playground every day. The oldest son is already a Little League enthusiast and the family goes out and cheers whenever he plays. This would drive me crazy! I find our differing attitudes are getting in the way of our friendship.

Am I wrong? Am I placing too little value on play? — K. D.

Dear K.D.: It's not really a question of wrong or right. I would guess from your letter that you and your neighbor represent extremes. Perhaps something in the middle might be healthier.

There's no doubt that play is extremely important, for through play we are constantly learning about ourselves, our limitations and our potentialities. The question is, what kind of play? The ideal play should allow the child to be creative, should stimulate his imagination and let it wander freely. Through play, children try out various roles and meet new challenges that prepare them for the future. In many ways, play is like a rehearsal for situations that are apt to arise when the child becomes an adult.

Many parents don't realize that different playgrounds also offer different aspects of play. Some are unimaginative in design and the child soon finds that he's doing the same old thing over and over. As playground designer Eric McMillan, who just completed "Cap'n Kids World" at Sea World of Ohio, accurately points out, many playgrounds are built by adults who have forgotten what it's like to be a child. Often, the child's pleasure is at the bottom of a list of priorities. For instance, a child can go up and down on a slide, back and forth on a swing, and that's it. Playgrounds should be designed so that children can devise their own play activities and share their discoveries with others. In this kind of situation, they never get bored because they're always learning something new. Most playthings perform one function only and the child soon tires of it and breaks it.

Play needs to be free, wide-ranging, unfettered and preferably noncompetitive to allow us to learn about our own capacities. Wholesome play must allow for the possibility of more than one winner and more than one loser. Cooperative play where everyone participates and contributes together is ideal.

Psychologists Bruce Ogilvie and Thomas Tutko have observed that children who are pushed into sports by ambitious parents can be psychologically damaged for life. Athletic competition is no more beneficial than intense endeavor in any other field.

Many experts have serious doubt about the focus, structure and ultimate outcome of the current approach to preschool education. While they acknowledge that what a child learns in his first five years forms an essential foundation for his later education, they feel that the emphasis on learning to read fast and early may be a waste and may even be damaging. The preschool years should be devoted to self-discovery and self-acceptance. These can come through creative play.

Center sponsors workshop

A workshop for women interested in becoming more self assertive will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Fiesta Room of Griswold's Inn, Claremont.

Cathleen Brown, Ph.D., is the workshop leader. She graduated from Claremont Graduate School and has conducted several workshops on developing more effective methods of interacting with others.

The workshop is sponsored by the Claremont Educational Center and reservations may be made by calling 624-7675. There is a fee for the one-day session.

The goals of the workshop are to enable women to communicate more effectively, to say no to requests from others without feeling guilty and to use anger constructively.

Recognition tea

Volunteers are honored

Mrs. Lillian French was awarded an engraved silver medallion from Pomona Valley Community Hospital recently to recognize an extraordinary and rare accomplishment, volunteering 10,000 hours of service to the hospital. This is the equivalent of five years of 40-hour weeks, or time lovingly and generously given over many years. The latter describes the service Mrs. French has given to every possible area of the hospital.

The Recognition Tea which honored Mrs. French marked the first time the hospital has honored individual volunteer service with medallions and certificates. The Women's Auxiliary awards its own service pins for hours achieved. However, considering the truly significant contribution of Mrs. French and other volunteers, the Recognition Tea will be an annual affair to honor worthy volunteers.

A few words of praise and recognition were given by Mrs. Wilma Temple, director of volunteers, while Paul McQuade presented the medallions to each woman.

Also receiving engraved medallions were: Gladys McGuire for 7,000 hours of service; Devere Omdahl for 6,000 hours; Helen Boileau and Alice Knebel for 5,000 hours; Helen Jones, Ruth Nisbet and Dessie Prestien for 4,000 hours; Joyce Ariss, Goldie Dobosh, Marie Edick, Betty Hall, Angie Kayer, Ruth Mickel and Ruth Wente for 3,000 hours each of service.

Parchment certificates were awarded to all women who achieved the 1,000 and 2,000 hour distinction. Honored for 2,000 hours of service were: Ruth Fordan, Lynne Haworth, Gertrude Hostetler, Florence Juenke, Julie Kittinger, Helen McArdle, Margaret McCrory, Shirley Meisch, Lois Parmenter, Beverly Shaner, Alberta Sieber, June Smith, Norma White and Mae Zaepfel.

MRS. FRENCH

Honored for 1,000 hours of service were: Harriet Anderson, Irma Arnesen, Rae Balch, Irene Black, Anna Mae Blower, Janet Crawford, Helen Darrach, Gladys Donlavy, Marily Ebbert, Edith Frances Eells, Marian Farrand, Winifred Fonda, Irving Friedman, Connie Gildersleeve, Amelia Goodwin, Gretchen Griffin, Ila Hamilton, Lorraine Harris, Marie Helsley, Kathryn Hixson, Ruby Hershey, Doris Jacobs, Kay Keltz, Mabel Kinne, Genevieve Knight, Juanita Lockner, Rae Ludwick, Dorothy McCauley, Virginia Moore, Estelle Nesbit, Phyllis Pacini, Virginia Parker, Katherne Patterson, Dorothy Pontac, Dee Posner, Dorothy Rice, Shirley Reedy, Edna Richards, Lorraine Rickenberg, Leona Roe, Ann Shatter, Frances Simon, Gloria Soupcoff, Pat Spear, Velda Stewart, Mary Jane Stiles, Nadine Talbott, Virginia Thompson, Lydia Venable, Ruth Waterhouse, Vesta White, Sadie Wilkinson and Henriette Wilson.

Jay-C-Ette award given Claremonter

In gratitude for his efforts in saving shoes and providing them to the Pomona Jay-C-Ettes for distribution to underprivileged children, the Jay-C-Ettes recently presented him a plaque.

Mr. Posner, who has collected over 700 pair of shoes in the last two years, He promoted customer participation in his store, Henry's Shoes, in Claremont by leaving a large box in sight where children who had outgrown but not worn out shoes could leave them and feel that they had performed a service.

After the shoes have been refurbished, they are taken to Le Roy's Boys Thrift Shop and from there distributed to school children referred by the welfare department and the Pomona Unified School District.

Chapter MG luncheon set

Chapter MG of PEO Sisterhood will be guests of Mrs. E.K. Jackson at a noon luncheon on Thursday.

Mrs. Ernest Geddes and Mrs. Virgil Wahlberg will be hostesses.

The program will be given by Miss Rachael Whitfield.

Eye exam

A child's first thorough vision examination should take place at about age three, suggests the American Optometric Association. Problems detected and treated early may save children from in-school reading and learning difficulties later on, the AOA notes.

Don't blush! gas gets everyone

By the Editors of Consumer Reports
(Third in a Series)

Perhaps no part of the body is as misunderstood as the lower digestive tract, which is involved in absorption of nutrients and elimination of solid waste matter. Many people still believe that a daily bowel movement is needed for good health. This belief is false. Not everyone functions on a once-a-day schedule — or needs to.

If you take laxatives frequently (without a physician telling you to do so), Consumers Union's medical consultants urge you to try to stop using them. Continual use of laxatives may lead you to become dependent on them, and, in certain instances, daily use may be harmful to your health. Many people who have broken the laxative habit, either on their own or at the insistence of a physician, have been surprised to find that after a few days or a week the bowels begin to move effectively again without laxatives. If there is a significant change in bowel habits, or if constipation persists for more than a week or two, you should consult a physician.

The best guarantee against consipation is a diet containing fiber in the form of whole-grain cereals, vegetables, and fruit. Among the more valuable foods for this purpose are cereals high in bran conrent (Kellogg's All-Bran or Post's and Kellogg's 40% Bran Flakes and Raisin Bran, for example), fresh leafy vegetables, salads, and raw fruit (such as peaches, pears, apples, or apricots). Prunes or prune juice can also be effective.

Many people complain of "gas," or belching. Belching is commonly caused by swallowing air, which may be a nervous habit. It may also follow drinking carbonated beverages, rapid eating, or gulping fluids. To help you cut down on belching, Consumers Union's medical consultants recommend the following:

— Stop drinking carbonated beverages.
— Eat and drink slowly.
— Restrict your use of gum and hard candy (both of which require frequent swallowing).

Other causes of gas are less well understood. At the present time, there is no known cure for intestinal gas or for the flatulence that is often associated with it. Some foods, notably beans, have been implicated as causative foods. But a number of other foods in the bean or root family and such vegetables as broccoli, cabbage, and cauliflower may also cause problems. Intolerance to milk and milk products can also produce gaslike symptoms in some people. If you can pinpoint the cause of your gas, then, by all means, do your best to avoid that food.

Granny chorus line turns audiences on

STUART, Fla. (AP) — They pay $5 a semester. They don't get any credit for the once-a-week course. But the "chorus line grannies" turn the audiences on when they don their miniskirts and take to the stage at hotels and nursing homes.

The average age of the troupe is 69; the youngest member is 61.

The on-stage appearances are part of a one-hour college course on chorus line techniques at Indian River College in this Atlantic Coast resort city. The ladies learn routines, costuming and makeup from burlesque-style showman Lenny Laden.

"In all my years in show business I have never seen anything like it," said Laden, who has taught the course for two years. "They sing until they're hoarse and then go into the audience and kiss them and hug them. It's a very touching thing."

The show includes musicians, comedians and mimics, but the grandmothers started it and are still the stars.

"They are very, very good," said Charles Rosen, general manager of the Marco Polo Hotel in Miami where the grannies recently got standing ovations for their performance.

"It's thrilling and it's very satisfying when you see that it's appreciated and people like it," said troupe member Kathleen Chaumann, who has 14 grandchildren.

Mrs. Chaumann, who moved here from New Haven, Conn., said the granny troupe has helped raise thousands of dollars for charity and brightened the lives of hundreds of elderly persons.

"It is very beneficial," she said. "When you see the effect of the show on people in nursing homes who just feel that they are wasting away, it's beautiful.

"Their eyes light up — they are beating time, they are singing along with us — they want to do it themselves and they just don't know how."

But Mrs. Chaumann said she has a slight problem with the costumes. "I'm not used to wearing very short things — they're very short."

Last voyage

On Columbus' fourth and final voyage in 1502, he visited what is now Honduras, Costa Rica and Panama with four ships and 150 men.

In Switzerland on March 27, 1962, then U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a farewell speech to the Geneva Disarmament Conference, warned of the dangers of a continuing arms race.

On this date in 1940, U.S. election returns showed that President Franklin Roosevelt had been elected to an unprecedented third term.

On this date:

In 1872, the suffragist, Susan B. Anthony, voted for Ulysses Grant for President. Women did not have the vote, and she was fined $100 for illegal voting.

In 1912, Woodrow Wilson was elected President.

In 1930, American novelist Sinclair Lewis was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature.

In 1946, a new career in politics began as John Kennedy was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives at the age of 29.

Ten years ago: Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the U.S. military effort to prevent a Communist victory in South Vietnam was progressing well but cautioned that some severe fighting lay ahead.

Palmer waited for big news

BALTIMORE (AP) — A warm, sunny day in the offseason usually finds Jim Palmer on the golf course.

But while the skies were bright and temperatures reached the mid 70s Tuesday, the Baltimore Orioles' righthander stayed in his backyard garden, waiting for the telephone to ring.

The choice paid off. Late in the day, Palmer received a call telling him he had been named winner of the Cy Young Award as the American League's top pitcher.

"I was out in the garden spreading mulch when I found out," said Palmer, a Cy Young winner for the second time in three years. "Normally on a day like this I would have been playing golf, but I knew the award was supposed to be announced so I decided to stick close to home."

Palmer, who came back from an injury-plagued 1974 season to post a 23-11 record this year, outdistanced Catfish Hunter of the New York Yankees in voting by a special 24-member panel of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The only pitcher named on all 24 ballots cast, Palmer finished with a total of 98 points including 15 first-place votes. Hunter—who won last year's Cy Young Award with the Oakland A's—finished with 75 points including seven first-place ballots. Hunter was named by 22 voters.

Rollie Fingers of Oakland was third with 25 points, including two first-place votes. California's Frank Tanana and Chicago's Jim Kaat had seven points apiece, followed by Oakland's Vida Blue and Chicago's Rich Gossage, each with two points. Boston's Rick Wise received one point.

First place was worth five points, second place three points and third place one point. The balloting, with eight pitchers receiving votes, was the most diversified since the award was first presented in 1956.

Hunter, who also won 23 games after getting off to a slow start with the Yankees, had been considered Palmer's stiffest competition for the prize. But the Orioles' ace said he was confident he'd come out on top with the voters.

"I felt I was going to win it all the time," he said. "Of course, when you're against an athlete from New York, you never know what will happen."

Asked if he thought he was the best pitcher in the league, Palmer replied: "I think I'm one of the best. The statistics show I had a better year than Catfish, but I don't think I'm any better than him."

Besides his 23 victories, which tied him with Hunter for the most in the major leagues, Palmer topped the majors with a 2.09 earned run average and 10 shutouts.

Palmer's 23 victories in 1975 give him a career won-lost record of 152-80 for a .655 winning percentage, the best among active pitchers.

"I felt I could have won 30 games if the club had hit behind me," said Palmer, who was involved in several 1-0 and 2-1 losses. "But when you win 23 games, you ought to be satisfied."

The 30-year-old right-hander said he had no soreness in his right elbow, which gave him trouble through much of the 1974 season when he finished with a 7-12 mark that snapped his string of four consecutive years with 20 or more victories.

"My health, my arm being better is the No. 1 reason I was able to come back," he said. "I don't know if I can pitch any better, but you're always thinking about the perfect season."

Palmer came to the Orioles in 1966 and won 15 games as the club swept to the world championship. He suffered shoulder and back ailments the next year and was shuffled back to the minors before returning to Baltimore and winning 16 games in 1969.

Only four other pitchers have won two Cy Young Awards, including Tom Seaver of the New York Mets, Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Denny McLain of Detroit and Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles. Koufax is the only three-time winner.

The National League Cy Young Award winner will be announced next Wednesday.

OUT OF LINE

USC football Coach John McKay said at a news conference Tuesday that published figures of salary and benefits he will receive when he takes over as head coach of the new NFL franchise in Tampa, Fla., "are out of line."

Seattle in NFL West

New NFL teams choose up sides

NEW YORK (AP) — Seattle and Tampa, the new expansion teams in the National Football League, will get to see pro football's best talent. But most of it will be on the other side of the field, despite a more liberal selection procedure.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, here for the league's three-day meetings, said Tuesday the method of stocking Seattle and Tampa, which both begin play in the 1976 season, has yet to be determined, although he indicated a "more liberal" draft process appears likely.

Rozelle said more players might be eligible for selection than in previous expansion drafts, citing the possibility that players on the injured list, for example, may be available.

But in any event, football's best would line up against the expansionists, since in the clubs' first two years of existence they would meet all the other present NFL teams once and each other twice.

The league, for standings purposes, has placed Seattle in the National Football Conference West Division for 1976 with Tampa in the American Football Conference West. In 1977, the teams will swap conferences and moved to different divisions—Seattle to the AFC Central and Tampa to the NFC Central. Each season, the two franchises will play each other as well as the 13 other teams in their conference.

"This way, the people in Seattle and Tampa will see, either at home or on TV, all 26 teams in their first two years," Rozelle said.

Rozelle said the NFL is seriously considering adding two more clubs for the 1978 season. He also said he has been in contact with representatives of Memphis and Birmingham from the defunct World Football League, which are both planning to formally request admission to the NFL for the 1976 season.

"There are obvious problems," the commissioner said about the Memphis and Birmingham applications.

Meanwhile, the NFL unanimously approved a two-year extension of the league's contract with the College All-Star Game. The 1976 Game, which will match the 1976 Super Bowl champions against a group of college All-Stars, will be played Friday night, July 23.

WINS AWARD

Baltimore's Jim Palmer, who led the major leagues in ERA, shows the press the plaque he won in 1973 as the Cy Young Award winner in the American League. The Orioles' star won the award again Tuesday for his 1975 campaign.

Figures wrong claims McKay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John McKay says money wasn't the main reason he decided to leave the University of Southern California for the new Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the National Football League.

And McKay said he won't be making as much as has been reported.

McKay announced last week that he was leaving as the university's football coach and athletic director. Newspaper reports said he would earn nearly $2 million on a five-year contract.

"Those figures are so ridiculously out of line it makes my job five times as difficult. A lot of pro coaches will read that and go to their owners and try to get $2 million. I wouldn't pay that kind of money for five football coaches with Jim Brown thrown in."

McKay said he had made no recommendations to school officials on who should replace him but added, "I would think they'll add two jobs. With more women becoming involved in sports and the cutdown on spending, the athletic director is busy. It's only about a 99-hour a day job."

McKay chided one reporter who printed the "details" of McKay's contract, which included a $350,000 house and five automobiles. Puffing on his customary cigar, McKay said, "I imagine when I get to my $350,000 house I'll find a cigar factory inside it. In fact, for the past week all I've been doing is hiring four chauffeurs."

Asked where he planned to live, McKay quipped: "In that $350,000 house I read about. I just don't know where I'm gonna get the money for all the furniture for that place."

McKay said he didn't want to make the announcement of his departure this soon but newspaper reports disrupted his family and he had to. And he said he agrees with a statement Monday by Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes, who said, "I've never seen a good coach who is a lame duck coach."

"I feel personally relieved that I announced it," said McKay, "but Woody is probably correct on that statement. I don't think I can be as effective a coach now.

"Auburn was rated sixth in the country in the preseason polls, but Shug Jordan announced he was retiring before the season started and they've lost four or five." Auburn is 3-4-1.

McKay also announced three more injuries. He said flanker Shelton Diggs was lost for the year with a shoulder separation, defensive back Clint Strozier had a concussion and defensive back Robin Robinson may be out for the season with injuries suffered in a Saturday night automobile accident.

Diggs, one of USC's Rose Bowl heros last Jan. 1 in an 18-17 victory over Ohio State, was the team's second leading pass receiver. Diggs caught the two-point conversion pass from Pat Haden last New Year's Day that beat the Buckeyes.

Streaks topple Lakers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nate Archibald, Scott Wedman and Jimmie Walker each scored more than 20 points and Kansas City had two long scoring streaks to down Los Angeles 116-98 in the National Basketball Association Tuesday night.

Archibald had 24 points and 13 assists, Wedman 23 points and 11 rebounds and Walker 21 points, 10 in the final period when the Kings had a streak of 11 unanswered points.

Los Angeles' Don Ford was high for the game with 25 points while Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 23 points and 13 rebounds.

Sam Lacey of Kansas City led all rebounders with 14.

The Kings appeared be on the way to an easy victory when they scored 18 straight points in the first quarter and at one point had a 19-point bulge which was shaved to a 57-49 margin at halftime.

The Lakers came back in the third period with Ford getting 11 markers and the period ended with the Kings holding a slim 81-80 edge at the end of the quarter, during which Kings Coach Phil Johnson was ejected after drawing two techincal fouls in a four-minute span.

Elton John buys Aztecs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Popular singer Elton John has acquired an ownership interest in the Los Angeles Aztecs of the North American Soccer League, it was announced Tuesday.

John, a British resident, is director of the Watford F.C., an English soccer club, and last summer appeared at a concert in Wembley Stadium to raise funds for that team. He will maintain his position with Watford while adding his interest in the Aztecs.

Drag racing comes to Ontario

Roger Ward, the veteran Indy and stock car driver, starts a new venture Saturday night at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Ward is the promoter of the first night drag racing program ever held at the facility. The two-time Indy 500 winner has leased OMS for monthly events.

Saturday's lid lifter (7:30 p.m.) will feature bracket racing, pro stockers, fuelburning altereds and a special best of three match between two jet cars.

It is the first time night racing has been held at OMS and the first time a drag racing event other than the annual NHRA World Finals (Supernationals) will be held.

"I've never promoted a race before in my life," Ward admitted. "But I've believed for a long time that OMS needs more activities and I'm firmly convinced this is a good attraction."

Ward was employed as Director of Special Activities by Dave Lockton, first president of OMS.

"I believed then that this type of (more frequent) program was needed," Ward said. "OMS is a great facility and it can do a great job for racing."

Ward was asked how he chose drag racing to promote rather than stock cars or midgets.

"Well," he said with a laugh, "anybody that has been in auto racing has been in drag racing somewhere if only on city streets. But something like this gives young people a chance to do things they do anyway but do them under supervision."

Primarily, Ward is aiming at drawing his fans from the local area.

"Pomona is really a big drag racing town," he said. "My philosophy is that I want to attract the crowd east of Kellogg Hill. I think there is sufficient numbers of people in this valley from which to draw."

"We have nearly completed installation of a modern new lighting system," Ward said this week. "It is a special, high intensity system that requires only two light poles instead of the usual long string."

The racing program is an exciting one, according to Ward who has been working round the clock making preparations. It will be highlighted by the fuel altereds, a rare breed of drag machines making a rare appearance in Southern California. They normally are not part of NHRA major events but are fast, quick and spectacular crowd pleasers.

The jet car match-up will feature the Green Mamba of Doug Rose and Fred Sibley's US-1, two of the most popular jet cars in the nation. Both have exceeded 250 mph in the quarter-mile and their appearance in side-by-side competition will be another rare treat for drag racing fans.

"We expect to attract a large field of bracket racers, too," Ward said. "By making the Speedway's drag strip available on an open entry basis, a lot of racers who have never had an opportunity to test the super traction here now have that chance."

Spectator gates are slated to open at 5 p.m. Saturday night with eliminations scheduled to begin at 7:30. Admission is $5 and those who wish to do so may purchase a pit pass for an additional $2.

Whitton, Riedel Players of Week

For the first time this season, a Claremont High gridder is being honored as one of the Progress Bulletin's Players of the Week.

He is Jeff Whitton, a senior defensive tackle for the Wolfpack.

The Offensive Player of the Week award goes to Chino High's Rick Riedel.

Whitton is being tabbed for his outstanding game against Ganesha last week, a game the Pack won 24-13.

The 6-3, 225-pounder accounted for eight unassisted and three assisted tackles, and also added a quarterback sack. In addition Whitton also went the distance as an offensive lineman in the same game.

Riedel raced for 145 yards against Montclair last Friday in the Cowboys' 30-0 win. Riedel, a 5-7, 155-pound halfback, is a three-year starter for Chino.

Both Whitton and Riedel will be presented plaques by the Pomona Elks Lodge, sponsors of the Player of the Week awards. Presentation will take place Monday at the weekly Progress Bulletin football luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

Stags go east for tourney

The Claremont Mudd water polo team will make history Thursday when it becomes the first varsity squad in the school's record to travel cross-country to compete in an event other than a national championship.

Under Coach Tom Grall, a 12-man travelling contingent will begin a six-day sojourn to Providence, R.I. where it will be the main attraction in the Brown University Invitational.

The Stags' itinerary calls for an 8 p.m. confrontation Friday with Yale University, Brown on Saturday and Harvard-M.I.T. Sunday afternoon. Each member of the team and crew is shouldering the financial burden of transportation between Los Angeles and Boston, Mass., but once on the east coast, Claremont-Mudd will be the guests of Brown University.

Spearheading the Claremont-Mudd attack will be senior Jack Pierce, who Grall says is the "most outstanding player" in the SCIAC. Pierce will be sharing the starting line-up with his fellow co-captain Carl Neff and Mike Sutton, both seniors, junior Billy Morrow and sophomore Greg Dorst. All-Conference goalie Greg Moneta, also a senior, will be making the trip as well.

Grall plans to call upon senior Ron Borrell, Junior Dave Kavrell and freshman David Kent for the sixth field starter, and is pleased to have such depth on his bench.

"We are blessed to have seven good field players that we feel we can start any combination thereof and not hurt ourselves," Grall says, "In other words, the first bench man that we use is dynamite!"

The 10th and 11th men will be Peter Soelter, a sophomore, and freshman J. Parsons. Scott Foerster and Micky Moneta, Greg's younger brother, will be battling for the 12th spot; and loser to serve as the squad's manager on the road. Also making the trip will be Page Remillard, Claremont-Mudd's new assistant coach.

The Stags are 8-5 on the season, and face their arch-rivals, Occidental College, today before heading East.

"I do not see how we will be ready for Oxy," lamented Grall, stressing that it was difficult to prevent his players from looking ahead.

MSAC faces No. 1 OCC

By MIKE RAWLINSON
PB Staff Writer

"We've done it before," said MSAC head coach Mal Eaton. "There's no reason we can't do it again."

That's the feeling in the Mountie camp this week as Eaton's troops prepare to face No. 1 ranked Orange Coast Friday night in a South Coast Conference football game at OCC's LeBard Stadium in Costa Mesa at 7:30 p.m.

The 1-6 Mounties have beaten the 8-0 Pirates two out of the past three seasons, including back-to-back victories in 1972 and 73. OCC prevailed in 1974, 19-11, enroute to a South Coast co-championship with Fullerton.

"We're not going to take MSAC lightly," said OCC Coach Dick Tucker. "We know they're capable of coming up with a big effort . . . a victory over us could make-up for a lot of disappointments they've suffered this season."

Indeed, a victory over the powerful Bucs would just about make the season for the Mounties who have suffered through six losses in seven games, including last weekend's 33-16 setback to old rival Fullerton.

"The most important thing we have going for us is that our kids have never quit all season," said Eaton. "You have to hand it to them that takes guts."

The Bucs are an exceptional team this year. They have scored 307 points in eight games and rank at the top of the South Coast in every statistical category except one — pass defense — where they are near the bottom.

Some interesting individual matchups will spice the game which will be played before a near capacity homecoming crowd at 8,000 seat LeBard Stadium on the OCC campus.

MSAC's Binky Benton, the conference's defending MVP and rushing leader will have a runoff with Tony Accomando, Coast's all-purpose threat who is the odds on favorite to cop the MVP award and the rushing title this season. Over two seasons, Benton has 1,561 yards, compared to Accomando's 1,567. Accomando has 849 yards this season. Benton has 508.

The Pirates attack through the air also, with quarterback Dave White zeroing in on all-time OCC passing records. He has already thrown for more than 1,100 yards with 15 TD passes to his credit.

Mountie quarterbacks Greg Gano and Flavio Garcia can't match White's individual efforts, but they proved they could do some damage against Fullerton last week. Gano, a southpaw completed 9 of 18 for 92 yards and a touchdown, while Garcia came on in the final period to complete 4 of 8 for 97 yards and a TD on a 56-yard play to Leon Allen.

MSAC wide receiver Tom Peterssen is one of the top pass catchers in the conference with 24 receptions for 251 yards and two TDs. OCC's Mike Gage is not far behind with 21 catches for 330 yards and two TDs.

Fight ducats go on sale

INGLEWOOD — Tickets are now on sale for the Forum's battle of the knockout punchers — Ruben Olivares vs. Danny Lopez — set for Thursday night, December 4.

Priced at $20, $15, $10 and $7.50, they are available at the Forum box office and all Mutual and Ticketron outlets.

Promoter Don Fraser is looking for a turnout of 10,000 fans, for the Forum's final ring promotion of 1975.

This will be the third Forum program headlined by Olivares this year. The hard punching Mexican knocked out Bobby Chacon, June 20 to regain the featherweight title.

Ruben returned to the Forum September 20, but was far off form and lost his championship to Ghana's David Kotey.

Lopez will go into the fight following two impressive knockout victoreis over Raul Cruz and Antonio Nava.

The winner is expected to box Kotey for the title next February at the Forum.

New look to scoring derby

The prep scoring derby has taken on a new complexion with only two games left in the regular season.

Stanley Webster of Garey High had been holding a commanding lead in the derby, but the swift Viking back is injured now and out for the year. Webster still leads the preps, but both Gary Carr of Upland and Leo Burke of Damien have a chance to catch him with two games to go.

In the team statistics, Damien continues to dominate on offense while Walnut has overtaken Ontario Christian on defense.

Bonita gets ready for a rough finish

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Correspondent

Coach Pete Lopez of the Bonita High Bearcats figures he's in for a new experience in the near future.

"It's never been this tough before," Lopez said of the last two weeks of Bonita's Hacienda League football schedule. The Bearcats are currently undefeated in league play, but it will take quite an effort for them to finish the season that way.

To close out H.L. action, Bonita will face Walnut and Royal Oak, the No. 6 and No. 1 teams, respectively, in this week's CIF 2A poll.

"Even last year, when we finished up against San Dimas, it wasn't like this, because it didn't matter," said Lopez, in his fifth year at Bonita. In spite of a 14-0 loss to San Dimas in their last league game of 1974, the Bearcats won the H.L. title and advanced to the CIF playoffs.

"But this year it's different," Lopez continued. "We're going to have to win one of those games to make sure we get into the playoffs, and it's not going to be easy."

Bonita is presently tied with Royal Oak for the league lead with a 5-0 loop record. On the season the Bearcats are 5-2, while Royal Oak and Walnut have between them won 13 games and lost one. And that single defeat in Walnut's ledger came at the hands of Royal Oak, by a 9-6 score.

The 'Cats will host Walnut Friday and Royal Oak a week later in the season finale. So naturally Lopez is chiefly concerned with the Mustangs at the moment.

"It's going to be tough for us to move the ball against Walnut," said Lopez. "No one has done it all year." The Mustangs, boasting the valley's top defense, have not yielded more than one touchdown in any game, and have shut out three of five league opponents.

"And I think they have the best offense in the league," said Lopez. "Royal Oak might be more explosive, but Walnut is the team that will control the ball and mount the drives against you.

"So we're going to have to try to control the ball and make the first downs. And we can't make any mistakes."

Bonita's offense will be under the direction of quarterback Sanford Coggins, one of the valley's top scorers with seven touchdowns, most of them the result of sneaks. Lopez gives much of the credit for those sneaks and the rest of Bonita's offensive movement to center Mark Malone. "He's quite a blocker," said the coach. "He and Phil Mertz (offensive guard) are our most consistent players."

Lopez said that senior Ralph Chalifoux, who suffered a knee injury two weeks ago, has been lost for the season.

Walnut coach Ken Gunn noted that Alex Solorzano, the Mustangs big tight end and linebacker, is doubtful for Friday's game. Solorzano has been down with a virus and is still attending practices in street clothes. "So if he does play, it won't be much," said Gunn.

"You have to worry about Bonita," said Gunn. "They always seem to play just well enough to win. It's probably not the best team in the league physically, but they manage to win their games."

Walnut (4-1, 6-1) has been winning, too, and two of the prime reasons are fullback Kevin Morgan and halfback Keith McDermott. Morgan has scored seven touchdowns and McDermott six to pace the valley's No. 2 offense. The Mustangs have averaged 21.7 points per game.

Gunn views the meeting with Bonita as crucial to his team's playoff hopes. "If Bonita beats us, I think we might not make it," he said. "This is the big one."

In other H.L. contests Friday night, San Dimas will try to stay in the playoff picture against Ontario at Chaffey High while Alta Loma takes on Royal Oak at Charter Oak.

Kings face, Caps again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings, riding a four-game win streak and tied with Montreal for the National Hockey League's Norris Division lead, face the Washinton Capitals for the second time in eight days Wednesday night.

Led by the goaltending of Rogie Vachon, the Kings are coming off a homestand in which they beat Washington, Minnesota, Pittsburgh and Atlanta.

Owls win in cross country

Citrus College ran away with the Mission Conference cross country championships Tuesday, easily outdistancing second place Palomar, 25-99.

Greg Morrison was the first Owl runner across the finish line, taking third in 21 minutes, 23 seconds over Citrus' four-mile course.

In the South Coast Conference championships at Mesa College in San Diego, Fullerton won the title by edging Grossmont, 38-40. Orange Coast was third and Mesa was fourth. MSAC was fifth in the competition, bettering its dual meet finish by one place.

Cip Gomez was the first Mountie across the line, taking 19th place with a time of 21 minutes, 35 seconds.

SAL race enters last two weeks

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

For at least three San Antonio League football teams, this Friday will be "do-or-die" time.

Going into the final two weeks of SAL action, Damien continues to pace the league with its unbeaten mark, while Chino is now the sole possessor of second place with a 4-1 mark. Three other teams, Upland, Chino and Claremont, still have hopes of making the CIF playoffs, but all three face a "must-win" situation this week and next to reach post-season activity.

The two-week "season" for the five SAL frontrunners starts Friday night as Claremont hosts Damien, Chino entertains Garey and Upland squares off against Ganesha.

For Damien and Chino, it's been all roses of late. The Spartans have rattled off five straight league wins, while the Cowboys have rebounded from an opening loss to Pomona to win four in a row. Wins Friday for the Spartans and the Cowboys would assure both teams CIF playoff berths.

Earlier this season, a Garey-Chino matchup would have been rated a real toss-up, but things have not gone well for coach Lawson Bush's Vikings of late.

The Vikings lost high-powered halfback Stanley Webster for the year last week with a broken kneecap. Webster, who had scored 10 touchdowns on the season, will obviously be missed.

"Let's face it," a realistic coach Bush pointed out, "Stanley was 75 per cent of our offense. When he got hurt against Damien on the first play of the game, our kids really were shook up.

"I'm sure that Webster's being injured definitely had an adverse effect on us in the Damien game. We can't replace him, he is just a super back."

However, Bush is hardly throwing in the towel on the season.

"I guarantee you, we will give Chino a good game this week. It's going to be very difficult for us to reach the playoffs, but we are sure not going to give up yet. We will just come at 'em and see what happens."

Adding to the Vikings woes was the news that they would have to forfeit their 22-8 pre-league victory over LaSierra due to use of an ineligible player. The loss drops the Garey season mark to 3-4 and further hampers their playoff hopes at a time when those hopes don't look very rosy anyway.

Chino coach Jim Rawls is not about to sell the Vikings short however, even without Webster.

"They are an extremely quick team, especially on defense," Rawls said. "I feel we will really have to work on offense to score. I respect the personnel Garey has, and I imagine they will make some changes on offense now that Webster is out."

Speaking of offenses, Rawls certainly has to be pleased with the Cowboy attack. Rick Riedel has been the consistent rushing threat everyone expected him to be, and Chris Pruitt has been a most pleasant surprise at quarterback.

Claremont has been struggling all year but the Wolfpack appeared to put things together last week in a win against Ganesha.

Coach Esper Keiser's crew is apparently over a plague of injuries suffered in mid-season, and just might be ready to give Damien a real go-around Friday.

The Spartans continued to impress in SAL play, blanking Garey 32-0 last week. The Damien defense, burned for 34 points the week before against Ganesha, re-asserted itself vs. the Vikes, limiting Garey to a net of minus-six yards rushing.

The Spartans continue to roll on offense, leading the valley squads in scoring. A highly effective, if not flashy, attack has done the job for coach Dick Larson's crew.

Spartan signal caller Joe Carroll has been the most consistent passer in the league so far, while a fleet of Damien runners have spearheaded a ball-control type offense which hasn't really been bottled up yet in the seven games the Spartans have played.

The return of place kicking specialist Rick Davis to the lineup has also helped Damien, and even the defense got into the scoring act last week by dumping Garey backs twice in their own end zone for safeties.

While Damien and Chino look like the favorites to go into the playoffs, one other SAL team will probably be chosen as well. Right now that figures to be Upland.

The Scots have a more impressive record than either Garey or Claremont and the schedule is also in the Highlanders' favor, as they face tailender Ganesha this week and finish up with Claremont.

Scot fullback Gary Carr turned in another fine game last week in Upland's 35-14 rout of Pomona, as he is rapidly becoming one of the top rushers in the SAL.

CLAREMONT'S GRANT WARHUSRT (5) & BRET VONDEREITH (62)

Boettcher sets mark

Pomona High's Barry Boettcher added yet another cross country record to his collection Tuesday, as he raced to a 9:48 clocking at Chino High for a new course mark.

However, the Cowboy runners prevailed in the dual meet with the Devils, 20-39, as they captured the next five places after Boettcher. Pablo Perez led the Chino runners home with a 10:29.

Boettcher's win sets the stage for Thursday's meet between Pomona and Montclair at Pomona. Both Boettcher and the Cavaliers' Mike Roza are undefeated in league meets this year, and figure to be the two top runners in the SAL. Thus Thursday's winner stands a good chance to being the SAL's individual champ in the league finals Nov. 18.

Other SAL meets on tap this week will have league leader Upland hosting Ganesha, Damien at Claremont and Garey at Chino. All SAL meets will be run Thursday at 3:15 p.m.

Chino 20, Pomona 39

Chino's top five runners: 2. Pablo Perez (10:29); 3. LeRoy Notterman (10:37); 4. Steve Roberts (10:40); 5. Zeke Rodriguez (10:42); 6. Mike Stewart (10:45).

Pomona's top five runners: 1. Barry Boettcher (9:48); 7. Armondo Nila (10:46); 8. Lewis Gamble (11:03); 11. George Williams (11:17); 12. Rick Nila (11:35).

J.V. Score: Chino 16, Pomona 41
Frosh-Soph Score: Pomona 25, Chino 30

Meoli joins Padres

ANAHEIM (AP) — California Angels reserve infielder Rudy Meoli was transferred to the San Diego Padre roster completing a late season baseball trade, the American League club announced Tuesday.

The Agnels had sent infielder-outfielder Bobby Valentine to the National League Padres last Sept. 17 for pitcher Gary Ross, with California to designate another player later to complete the trade.

Meoli, 24, hit .214 in 70 games for the Angels during the 1975 season. Valentine, recalled from Salt Lake City late in the season and used primarily as a designated hitter, batted .281 in 26 games.

Ross, a 28-year-old righthander, posted a 16-8 record for the Padres' Hawaii club of the Pacific Coast League last season. He started the final game of the season for the Angels, losing 5-0 to Oakland in the game where four A's pitchers combined to hurl a no-hitter.

The ill-fated filly Ruffian won her first 10 races in a nearly two-year career by a total of more than 83 lengths.

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Snow Knight, an American colt undefeated in five starts, has been installed as the 2-1 prerace favorite for Saturday's $150,000 Washington, D.C., International.

Laurel Race Course linemaker Earle Hart gave the French filly Contesse de Loir, runnerup to Snow Knight in the Canadian Championship, the nod as second choice at 7-2 odds.

The opening odds on the rest of the International's field announced Tuesday include the Dahlia and Nobiliary entry at 4-1, Star Appeal 5-1, On My Way II 8-1, Shady Character 101, Laomedonte 12-1 and Tsukisamu Homare 20-1.

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Plans are nearing completion for a major league allstar baseball team to travel to Havana next spring to play a Cuban team, the Long Island newspaper Newsday reported today.

Newsday said in today's editions that negotiations for the game began last year and apparently have continued with the knowledge of both Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

One phase of the negotiations involved a secret meeting in Mexico City, just before the World Series, between baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and his two Cuban counterparts, the newspaper said.

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Australia's Evonne Goolagong, who led the Pittsburgh Triangles to World Team Tennis championship, Tuesday was named the league's most valuable player.

Larry King, WTT president, said in an announcement that Miss Goolagong edged his wife, Billie Jean King of the New York Sets, for the honor.

"Billie Jean had a greater record in the statistics, King said, "but the league felt that Evonne's contributions was far greater to the total team effort in winning the (Eastern) division championship and then the World Team Tennis title."

Tom Okker, who led the Golden Gaters of the Western Division championship, "also figured highly in the MVP selection process," according to the league.

MURCIA, Spain — Benard Pascassio of France fired a 17-under-par 55 but holds only a two-stroke lead over Australia's Robin Dummet and Peter Townsend of Britain in the first round of the Fourth International Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

HORSHOE BAY, Tex. — Ben Crenshaw carded a five-under-par 67 to grab the first-round lead in the Texas State Open Golf Tournament.

TOKYO — Defending champion John Newcombe routed fellow Australian Cliff Letcher 6-3, 6-4 to advance to the third round of the $100,000 Japan Open Tennis Championship.

STOCKHOLM — Jimmy Connors defeated Poland's Wojciech Fibak 6-1, 6-3 in first-round action of the $100,000 Stockholm Open Tennis Tournament.

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Blues signed former Boston Bruin defenseman Rick Smith to a contract beginning next season.

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. — Col. John J. Clune was named athletic director at the Air Force Adademy, succeding Col. Frank Merritt who is retiring from active duty.

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros' Manager Bill Virdon and General Manager Tal Smith Tuesday announced the appointment of three new coaches, Grover "Deacon" Jones, Tony Pacheco and Mel Wright.

Suns are big surprise

By Associated Press

You can't judge a basketball team's strength simply by its physical sinew, nor gauge its savvy by the sum total of its playing experience.

Rookie center Alvan Adams, dominating both backboards and making six steals, scored 15 points in the second half Tuesday night to lead the youthful Phoenix Suns past the Chicago Bulls 96-80 in a National Basketball Association contest.

Afterward, Bulls' Coach Dick Motta admitted he had underestimated the Suns, most especially their the flegling center, who grabbed 12 rebounds in the final half.

"I was surprised tonight by Adams," he said. "Not because I thought he wasn't good, but I didn't think a rookie could handle us the way he did."

In other NBA action, Philadelphia upended Buffalo 121-114, Milwaukee edged Detroit 103-101, Houston defeated New York 119-106, Washington outlasted Cleveland 113-96, Kansas City beat Los Angeles 116-98 and Atlanta nipped Portland 9887.

Adams' remarks after Phoenix's triumph seemed to sum up the Sun's spunky philosophy.

"I have to give away a bit of weight and height, whichs mean I can't outmuscle anybody," said the 6-foot-9, 210-pound center, who finished with 18 points. "But I feel I'm quicker and more agile and therefore can outjump either of the Chicago centers (Nate Thurmond and Tom Boerwinkle.)

"I've been splitting duties with Denny Awtrey," he added, "and this has worked out to our advantage. We know we can't kill anybody on the boards, but if we move a lot we can create a lot of things."

76ers 121, Braves 114

Steve Mix scored eight of a string of 12 points as the 76ers broke a 99-all tie in the final period and took the lead for good, but he had mixed emotions—no pun intended—after helping hand Buffalo its first loss of the season.

A starter last season, Mix confessed he doesn't enjoy being the sixth man, "but as long as we're winning," he said. "I can't complain. Where am I going to get a starting role around here? George (McGinnis) obviously has to start and Billy (Cunningham) starts, so the obvious choice not to start is Steve Mix."

Bucks 103, Pistons 101

Bob Dandridge sank two free throws with six seconds left, rallying Milwaukee to its first win of the season. Dandridge had a 26-point night, while Brian Winters led the Bucks with 34.

Bob Lanier paced the Pistons with 22 points.

Rockets 119, Knicks 106

Calvin Murphy kept the home fires burning, hitting New York for 33 points enroute to the Rockets' (2-3) second straight victory in Houston's new Summit Arena. "The way we started off on the road, it was terrible," said the 5-foot-10 Murphy. "We were starting to lose our confidence. I think we got back home just in time."

Bullets 113, Cavaliers 96

"I've got to be real happy with this one," Bullets Coach K.C. Jones bubbled. "It's the best we've played all year."

Elvin Hayes tossed in 23 points and Mike Riordan added 21 as Washington scored its third victory in four starts. Hayes notched 12 points in the first quarter as the Bullets bolted to a 20-4 lead and were never threatened.

Hawks 98, Trail Blazers 97

Lloyd Neal's three-point play with 42 seconds to go drew Portland within one point of Atlanta 94-93. John Drew, high man with 34 points, hit a jumper to make it 96-93, but Portland scored again with 32 seconds left. Connie Hawkins got the final two Atlanta points on free throws with four seconds remaining.

Petrie led Portland with 24 points, while Portland starters Bill Walton and Larry Steele sat out the game with ankle injuries.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A smile creased his face when he said it.

But Indiana basketball Coach Bobby Knight was "dead serious" when he said the National Basketball Association champions should represent the United States in the Olympics.

"I didn't mean it tongue in cheek," Knight said Tuesday, referring to his comment made minutes after Indiana defeated the touring Russian national team 94-78 the night before. "I just think we should send a team which is equivalent to the teams the other countries send.

"We should send the very best team this country has to offer."

Knight made one more suggestion. "We should send them (the NBA champs) to Montreal next year and, if the Russians don't like it then tell them to go to hell."

Knight told The Associated Press in a telephone interview Tuesday that Olympic athletes from other countries including the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia and Brazil "enjoy a certain social-economic status as a direct result of being on those teams." He said athletes from Communist-bloc countries are provided better jobs and perform more important duties as well.

"Maybe it's unavoidable. But all the way back to 1936, noncapitalistic countries have tried to use sports as a political tool whenever possible."

Islander goalie gets assist

By The Associated Press

New York Islander goalie Glenn Resch received official credit for an assist on Dennis Potvin's goal but he really deserves credit for assisting on J.P. Parise's three goals.

"I started talking to J.P. before the game," Resch said, "and I told him I had been watching him in practice and that he's been aiming the puck, instead of firing it.

"I told him to stop aiming it and just shoot it. I sensed he was very tense and I tried to loosen him up. So J.P. told me, 'I'm gonna go out and shoot it.'"

When Resch's goaltending carer is over, he could have a successful career in coaching, or even psychiatry, because his counseling resulted in some big dividends — Parise's first three-goal game in his 11-year National Hockey League career and the Islanders' 5-3 victory over the California Golden Seals Tuesday night.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the New York Rangers beat the Vancouver Canucks 4-2.

Rangers 4, Canucks 2

Steve Vickers' goal snapped a 1-1 tie midway through the second period and the New York Rangers, booed unmercifully by their home fans Sunday night, went on to beat the Vancouver Canucks.

The Rangers, who had lost five of their last six games, were the targets of fan abuse two nights ago against the Detroit Red Wings. Detroit's goalie in that game was Giacomin, the Rangers goalie for more than a decade who was released last Friday night for the $30,000 waiver price.

Pete Stemkowski of the Rangers and Ron Sedlbauer of the Canucks traded first-period goals before Vick-e-rs knocked in his sixth gaol of the season, at 13:28 of the second period.

The cost of living comes down in San Bernardino County and the Pomona Valley

FedMart®

Grand Opening

Ontario

North Mountain Avenue at 6th Street
(Just South of the San Bernardino Freeway)

Thursday, November 6 - 10:30 AM

Here's good news for inflation-weary shoppers in San Bernardino County and the Pomona Valley. A big, new FedMart store opens in Ontario Nov. 6th. A store with over 150,000 square feet of wall-to-wall savings on most everything you need for your family, home, and car.

But don't take our word for it. You be the judge. Check our prices this week, next week, and in the weeks and months ahead. Discover for yourself what over a half-million shoppers in the Southwest have already learned — that FedMart's small-profit, high-volume way of doing business can save you money throughout the year.

We think you'll like some other things about FedMart too. Like our wide array of merchandise in over 20 different departments for the kind of one-stop shopping convenience that will save you time and energy. Like the bright, clean, uncluttered, pleasant shopping atmosphere. Like the wide aisles, the courteous employees, and the no-questions-asked money-back guarantee. Like the fact that FedMart is open to the public seven days a week. Everyone is welcome — no membership is required.

And here's good news for your friends in the east end of San Bernardino County or in Riverside County. Another FedMart store opens in San Bernardino Nov. 6th.
